Township, city agree to settlement talks

Don Howard
Staff Writer

The agreement allows both parties to waive a right to claim that litigation should be dismissed due to the expiration of a statute of limitations...

Members of the Plymouth City Commission recently approved a Tolling Agreement, a legal document that will enable negotiation of the dispute with Plymouth Township about five department legacy costs.

The agreement, approved unanimously, was reviewed by city attorney Robert Marzano, and subsequently presented for a commission vote. The agreement provides for a settlement of the issues without litigation or any admission of fault, liability or wrongdoing.

City and township officials who have been embroiled in a divisive dispute about the fire department retiree benefits said they plan to move forward in an earnest attempt to continue negotiations and postpone a pending lawsuit filed by the prior township administration.

The Tolling Agreement follows years of discord after the dissolution of a 17-year joint fire services agreement between the two municipalities that ended in 2010. Prior to the November general election, township attorneys filed the five-count lawsuit alleging the city refused to pay its obligation to the township for post-termination health care costs, medical benefits and retirement related costs for "over two dozen employees" who performed services under the subject fire department agreement.

The lawsuit named the City of Plymouth as defendants and alleges the city breached a 1994 Intergovernmental Fire Services Agreement (IGA)—later modified in 1999—and the breach has incurred damages in excess of $25,000. The township further claimed the city had a contractual obligation and violated the State Constitution as it relates to the pension and retirement system and retained monies wrongfully paid by the township toward the city portion of the shared costs.

The IGA was the initial contract between the city and the township that regulated the joint fire operation, known as the Plymouth Community Fire Department, from 1995 to 2010 when the city elected to partner with Northville City Fire Department, an all volunteer-on-call department.

Newly-elected Plymouth Township Supervisor Kurt Heise authorized township attorney Kevin Bennett to create the Tolling Agreement after securing approval from the

Demolition at DeHoCo under way

Demolition of the former Detroit House of Corrections on Five Mile Road was set to begin on Monday, according to Plymouth Township Supervisor Kurt Heise.

Heise, while a state representative, sponsored the legislation to provide funding from the Michigan Land Bank Fast Track Authority to pay for the razing of the structures that local officials have publicly called "an eyesore."

Last May, Gov. Rick Snyder signed a plan to transfer $4 million to the fast track fund to begin preparation work at the 125-acre site which housed the Detroit House of Corrections from the early 1900s until mid 1980. The land was used as a rubbish dump from the 1920 until the 1970s and the buildings have been vacant since 2004.

"The demolition will run through September and completely remove all of the buildings and fencing and clear everything down to grade. This is much better than I anticipated. Obviously there are still environmental issues below the surface that exist," Heise said.

"It would have been almost impossible to market the land with the big ugly buildings standing in the way. There were many entities interested in the site. We have been working with Northville Township all along the way on this and the Five Mile Corridor. This was a key factor," he added.

Westland OK's $8.4 million senior living center

A new $8.4 million investment in Westland has been unanimously approved by members of the city council.

The council approved the final site plans for Clena

Skilled Nursing Facility, a senior living center, planned for 2209 Newburgh Road, the site of the former Foster RV building which has been demolished.

Clena Skilled Nursing Center

The facility will sit on a 9-acre parcel of land and plans include a single-story, 76,000 square-foot building consisting of 32 semi-private rooms, 50 private rooms and six private bariatric rooms with short-term rehabilitation and skilled nursing.

The building amenities include physical and occupational therapy areas, dining rooms, multi-purpose rooms, kitchen facilities, laundry services, an employee lounge, storage and an administration area. "The investment is expected to total $8.4 million and create approximately 60 full-time construction jobs over the anticipated one-year construction duration," commented Mayor

William Wild. "Clena will employ approximately 120 full and part-time employees once the facility is open."

The building will be constructed with a brick exterior with accents of stone and siding and have a shingled roof, according to plans. The plans include 140 parking spaces within another 41 spaces possible in an area at the northwest corner of the building.

The project is part of a $16 million Planned Unit Development (PID) that will include commercial retail, restaurant and office space on the Ford Road side of the site which will be finalized later this year.

Canton plans 2nd Citizens Police Academy

Canton residents who want to learn more about how their police department works will have that opportunity during the upcoming Citizens Police Academy in the township.

Individuals who attend the academy will have the opportunity to learn the policies and operational procedures of the department through presentations, demonstrations and hands-on activities. and education required for police officers to effectively handle the challenges of police work.

"Academy participants will gain insight into the difficult challenges law enforcement personnel face on a daily basis through interesting and informative instruction," said Canton Public Safety Director Joshua Meier.

The overall mission of the Citizens Police Academy is to develop positive relationships between citizens and police officers, enhancing cooperation, understanding and general good will be added.

"Because the Citizens Police Academy has been so well received, we've decided to pilot a mini-Citizens Fire Academy this year," said Meier. "Participants will have the opportunity to enjoy two additional weeks of cross-over academy sessions with the fire department," Meier said.

This year, the Citizens Police Academy will take place from 6-9 p.m. on Thursdays for eight weeks beginning April 6 and continuing through May 25.

Class size is limited for this free program. Applicants are limited to Canton Township residents who are at least 21 years of age. Applicants must have no felony convictions and no misdemeanor convictions in the past three years. Applicants will be subject to a background check.

INKSTER - ROMULUS

Jones named as deputy caucus chairman

State Rep. Jewell Jones (D-Inkster) said he is determined to find solutions to the problems facing the state and his district.

"During Gov. Snyder's six years in office, there have been many failures of leadership. The Flint water crisis, the deplorable conditions in Detroit Public Schools - both of which are direct results of bad decision-making by emergency managers - the dissolution of Inkster Public Schools and our deteriorating roads come to my mind. That being said, I am glad he has offered solutions to these problems, and as we begin a new legislative term, I share in his hope that Michigan has better days ahead.

I am prepared to work with Gov. Snyder, along with officials in both parties and at all levels of government, to find solutions to our most critical problems and work toward a more prosperous future for everyone in our state," he commented following Snyder's State of the State address last week.

Jones has been selected to serve as Deputy House Democratic Caucus Chairperson under newly-elected Democratic Caucus Chairperson state Rep. Adam Zemke (D-Ann Arbor). Jones is beginning his first term in the state House of Representatives this month.

"I have been impressed and

inspired by Rep. Jones long before he came to serve in the state House, so he seemed like an excellent choice to help me bring our caucus together over the next two years," said Zemke. "He will provide a fresh perspective to the caucus, and his passion for progressive issues should inspire the rest of us to keep up the good fight on behalf of Michigan's working families, seniors and young people." Jones is serving his first term representing Michigan's 11th House District. Before coming to the state House, Jones was a member of the Inkster City Council. He was also a member of the Inkster Task Force, the Inkster Chamber of Commerce, the Inkster Youth Coalition and other community organizations. He currently attends the University of Michigan-Dearborn, where he is studying political science and finance. There, he is a member of the Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps, the Student Veteran Association and the Black Student Union.

"It is such a tremendous honor to be elected to serve my community, and now to be chosen for a leadership role within my caucus," said Jones. "I am grateful to Rep. Zemke for his confidence in my leadership ability, and I am ready to roll up my sleeves and begin working with him to keep the caucus moving forward these next two years."

Code officials aid charities

The Downriver Association of Code Officials (DRACO) showed their appreciation for the Romulus community by recently making two donations to local charities.

Inspectors from around the region meet monthly at the Romulus Athletic Center to receive educational credits required for their trade licensing through the State of Michigan.

To show their appreciation for the partnership with the City of Romulus and the Athletic Center, DRACO President and City of Romulus Building Inspector Jim Wegienka presented two $500 donations to local causes.

The first donation was presented to the Friends of the Romulus Senior Center to help the group with building a new sales at the center for important health and hygiene services to senior citizens of Romulus.

The second donation was presented to the Friends of the Romulus Animal Shelter who are continually providing needed supplies and upgrades to the newly-built animal shelter. "We are happy to work with local groups to showcase the Romulus Athletic Center and all that it offers. We truly appreciate the generosity of DRACO to support our community," said Romulus Mayor LeRoy D. Burcroft.

Police probe 'mystery' shooting

Michigan State Police have asked for aid from the public in investigating a shooting that took place Jan. 21 in Inkster.

According to police reports, troopers were dispatched to a Dunning Street home in Inkster at about 11:30 p.m. Jan. 21 after reports of shots being fired. When troopers arrived at the scene, they observed a male victim suffering from what appeared to be a gunshot wound in a residence on the 26000 block of Dunning. The man shut and locked the door so law enforcement officers could not enter. Troopers breached the door, according to police reports, and it was an emergency exception and the victim attempted to flee the home.

The man was apprehended and transported by ambulance to Garden City Hospital for treatment of non-fatal wounds.

Both the victim and his family were extremely hostile to the troopers and have been uncooperative providing information regarding the incident, according to police reports.

Anyone with information is asked to call 855-MICH1P1P.

CANTON - PLYMOUTH

Arts complex continues development plans

Don Howard
Staff Writer

Plymouth Arts and Recreation (PARC) investors and administrators last week took area residents at a public forum that $2.3 million of the $3.3 million paid to the Plymouth Canton Community Schools to acquire the former Central Middle School property has now been paid and they're ready to begin aesthetic and mechanical improvements to the building.

According to PARC President Don Soenen, who presented the slideshow status report to an audience of more than 100 in the school auditorium, the 17-month-old operation is now self-sufficient and will be self-supporting once remaining debt obligations of $1 million are paid. Occupancy rates for the numerous venues operating in the building are near 80 percent, according to Soenen and the building is always busy with events serving the community.

Soenen said Plymouth residents Mark and Patty Malcom's $800,000 contribution was one third of the $2.5 million slated to be financed. Malcom, Soenen, other investors and a team of community residents saved the 100-year old school and surrounding property from residential development after the school was closed in 2015. The Malcoms' corporation, Malcom Central LLC, provided sole financing for the PARC project.

The brief presentation laid out the vision for the future, including the creation of an Arts Exhibition Hall patterned after the Washington D.C. John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. Malcom said the goal was to maximize private funding in order to minimize taxpayer funding.

"PARC can become a value added asset leaving a lasting legacy for those who follow," he said.

Included in the long-term plans, with the primary goal of preserving and renovating the entire facility, were aesthetic improvements like restoring the original facade of the building

That would include installing 1930s-style windows to preserve the historic look of the building, removing the dropped ceilings to expose the original 12-foot ceilings, restoring and refinishing the wood and terrazzo flooring and renovating the rest rooms.

Malcom said the renovation would be sensitive to existing and future needs. He added that there is also a need to provide adequate parking and indicated a desire to locate the proposed exhibition hall, "away from residential property."

Soenen said there are immediate plans to conduct a community survey to determine what is needed and develop construction and operation cost estimates.

They said they plan to conduct a millage vote by mid-2018 and start construction on the exhibition hall theater in 2020.

Soenen and Malcom are credited with saving the Penn

Mark Malcom

Theater in 2005 when the facility was closed. Soenen's non-profit Penn Theatre Realty, LLC purchased the building and then leased the building to Friends of the Penn for $1 a year.

"I couldn't imagine downtown Plymouth without the Penn Theater," Soenen said in closing.

It's official Panton sworn in to state office

Wayne County-based members of the Michigan House Democratic Caucus were ceremoniously sworn in to serve in the Michigan House of Representatives for the 99th Legislature in 2017-18. The Greater Wayne County Democratic representatives said that their priorities in office will mirror those of the working families, seniors and students of Southeast Michigan.

"The best investment we can make in our state's future is education. Unfortunately, a recent independent study solidified the fact that our state has significant funding gaps when it comes to our schools, and we have yet to return to the funding levels that were in place before 2011," said state Rep. Kristy Panton (D-Canton), who is in her second term representing the 21st House District. "Making Michigan a top-10 education state remains one of my top priorities, and this includes ensuring that our schools have adequate per-pupil funding for K-12, increasing access to quality early-learning programs and making college more affordable. I'm ready to continue the fight on behalf of Michigan's students, teachers, parents and schools."

township board of trustees.

The agreement states in part, "The Township and the City wish to continue voluntary negotiations to resolve the dispute regarding the payment by the City to the township of health care cost...as well as to explore other potential options of resolution, such as mediation and/or arbitration..."

The agreement allows both parties to waive a right to claim that litigation should be dismissed due to the expiration of a statute of limitations and allows the city additional time to assess the alleged charges that it breached a 23-year-old joint city and township fire services agreement.

Heise said the lawsuit was approved and filed during the lame duck period of former Supervisor Shannon Price.

retiree health care costs incurred between 2012 to 2015.

Price claimed he and Mayor Dan Dwyer had been negotiating for months while Dwyer told The Eagle he felt the township was stalling until the election and had provided only vague and limited details to support their monetary claims.

Heise said he was pleased the city agreed to the Tolling Agreement.

"It's great...the agreement gives both parties until Dec. 31, 2017 to resolve any differences."

Trailer theft ends in collision, chase, arrest

After a high-speed vehicle and short foot chase, Van Buren Township Police officers arrested a man caught stealing a utility trailer earlier this month.

According to a prepared release from Director of Public Safety Gregory Laurain, police were notified at about 8:11 a.m. Jan. 7 that a utility trailer was being stolen from a storage lot at Haggerty and Van Buren roads.

Employees at the lot alerted police that a white male subject was in the process of stealing their work trailer and that they were chasing the suspect who had driven from the lot in a red pickup truck, pulling their trailer.

The employees followed the red pickup, according to Laurain, down Haggerty to Ecorse Road eastbound, at which time the suspect crashed the pickup truck with the trailer in tow into a guardrail. The collision disconnected the trailer from the truck at the entrance ramp onto southbound I-275.

The suspect continued to drive the pickup truck southbound on I-275 and then onto eastbound I-94 where a Van Buren police cruiser attempted to stop the driver. The truck the suspect was driving, according to the release from Laurain, was reported as stolen and the driver failed to stop for the officer but continued at a high rate of speed eastbound on I-94.

Near Merriman Road, the driver of the pickup left the eastbound lane of I-94, crossed the median and drove eastbound in the westbound lanes of the expressway in an apparent effort to evade police. The driver of the pickup then crossed all lanes of westbound traffic and jumped from the vehicle while it was still in motion, fleeing on foot from pursuing police.

The pickup truck continued to roll several hundred feet,

Laurain said, before striking a concrete freeway wall and coming to rest.

Officers observed the driver of the vehicle running into a nearby wooded area and gave pursuit. Police apprehended Timothy Komendera, 50, of Detroit, at the scene.

Komendera was arraigned in 34th District Court on two counts of larceny over $20,000 and one count of third degree fleeing and eluding.

Bond was set at $50,000 or 10 percent. He was scheduled to appear for a preliminary court hearing at 35th District Court yesterday.

Northville students honor memory of Dr. King

Students at Silver Springs Elementary School in Northville had the opportunity recently to learn about Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s life and legacy during a presentation by puppeteer Richard Paul focused on promoting respect and understanding for all people. The school-wide assembly was followed by grade-level and classroom activities reinforcing Dr. King's messages of peace, equality and service to others.

Northville Public Schools students from kindergarten through high school honored Dr. King's contributions to the world and the Civil Rights Movement as part of the Martin Luther King Jr. holiday Jan. 16.

District-wide themes for student activities and initiatives this year were Dr. King's quotes:

"If I cannot do great things, I can do small things in a great way."

"Whatever your life's work is, do it well."

"The function of education is to teach one to think intensively and to think critically.

Intelligence plus character - that is the goal of true education."

In classrooms across the 10 Northville school buildings, students took time to reflect on Dr. King's messages of peaceful problem solving and strengthening communities through service with teacher-led activities that offer a range of experiences aligned with curriculum standards that included book talks; reading and listening to selected Dr. King speeches; writing reflections; making flip books; creating art projects; sharing poetry and music and classroom discussions about the impact of Dr. King's messages on the world.

Along with classroom lessons, several buildings also had school-wide and grade-level activities planned to reinforce Dr. King's vision for our country and our world.

"These activities that our students and staff take part in focused on Dr. King's legacy, go hand-in-hand with Northville Public Schools' vision for all Northville students to become compassionate, quality contributors in our global society," said Northville Assistant Superintendent for Instructional Services Deanna Barash. "In light of recent events in our country and around the world, it is more important than ever that our community and our schools take the time to reflect on the principles Dr. King modeled during his life of unity, acceptance, nonviolence, peaceful protest, and service to others."

Northville students from across the district take part in a robust network of service learning and community services experiences throughout the school year, including the Kids Against Hunger and Kids Helping Kids initiatives each year, a spokesman noted. The food packing events bring together er elementary school students from Northville and inner-city Detroit to work side-by-side to learn more about world hunger, and, more importantly, do something about it. The opportunity for students to take part in these experiences is made possible through the generous support of local business and community sponsors, together with grant families, contributions by school families, and the fundraising efforts of students, she added.

"The meaningful ways in which students, teachers and staff have given thought to the principles taught by Dr. King are important," said Northville Superintendent Mary Kay Gallagher. "It is our hope that these experiences will resonate with our students beyond this one day and beyond their classrooms, and serve as a reminder to all of us in the Northville community that the journey toward greater understanding and respect for one another is both ongoing and worthwhile."

WAYNE - WESTLAND

State police begin traffic patrols in Wayne

Motorists in Wayne best check their speedometers as there are now Michigan State Police cars patrolling throughout the city.

First Lt. Michael Shaw from the Michigan State Police appeared at the meeting of the Wayne City Council recently, along with Wayne Police Chief Alan Maciej, to explain the services state troopers will be providing in Wayne.

Maciej told the council members that when he began with the Wayne department in 1998, the force comprised 44-45 officers while currently there are only 19, including himself. He noted that two of those officers were still in training at the academy, leaving a force of only 17.

He said that the financial strife in the community and the failure of a millage request to fund public safety had a serious negative effect on the police department.

"We are doing the best we can with what we have," he told the council. "My job as chief is to provide the best service we can."

That lack of manpower, he indicated is the reason for requesting help from the state police. The request had been discussed at a previous meeting and council members had agreed to request state help, which is expected to begin this week.

"We are not a long-term solution. The solution is more Wayne officers. We are not here to take you over," Shaw told the council. He explained that Wayne officers will continue to answer all calls for service in the city and that the state troopers would concentrate on patrols and traffic enforcement, although the troopers would certainly help in the event of serious crime or enforcement of outstanding warrants.

"We are doing the best we can with what we have. My job as chief is to provide the best service we can."

"Let me make it clear; if you are dealing drugs, you are going to jail, if you are a sex offender who is not in compliance, you are going to jail. If you have a warrant out for your arrest, we will find you and you will go to jail."

Shaw said.

"While we will not answer calls for service, we will certainly help stop crime and lock offenders up. We just won't do the paperwork."

He added that the troopers will also perform motor carrier enforcement particularly on Michigan Avenue and that Wayne might see the state police helicopter in the area.

"This will be proactive police-ing," Shaw said. He added that the hours of troopers in the area would be data-driven and that troopers would be in Wayne when data determined that crime was the most prevalent.

Mayor Susan Rove told Shaw she had a suggestion for the troopers and said that the traffic violations at what is known as the St. Mary curve on Michigan Avenue west "is a problem."

"The speed limit there drops and yet people do not slow down in the area of the church and school," she said.

"If drivers get a ticket there from a trooper, they can say it is from you Madam Mayor," Shaw responded with a chuckle. "Once again, we are here to help, but we are not the solution," he concluded.
