and her son.

According to police reports of the incident, Inister police contacted detectives from Michigan State Police Second District Special Investigation Section at about 8:45 a.m. March 8 with reports of a domestic shooting at an apartment on ne 630 block of Tobin in Inkster.

Witnesses told the investigators that the 16-year-old victim and his mother had been involved in a heated argument regarding family matters. The argument, witnesses said, escalated into shoving between the pair and the woman threat-ened the teen with a handgun telling him to leave the area. The victim did walk outside the apartment building, investigators learned, but then came back and began banging on the outside door. "The brain is no different from any-thing else," she said of the downward spiral into depression, doing less, and being in worse shape. "When your brain is challenged, it's a good thing." She added the example of Christian evangelist Billy Graham's reasons for liv-ing; Graham recently died at age 98. "Men in particular identify with what they do. Men often grieve in silence. on men are left alone, they struggle, when men are not arous, may sarugge, she said. That's why she's incorporated March Madness baskethall, fantasy foot-ball, and Tigers opening day galas. Westland Youth Assistance Director

Paul Motz introduced colleague Marcum, noting "She does a tremen-dous amount for our city. She leads one of the finest centers in Michigan. She's helping keep our seniors young." Marcum earned a gerontology degree from Madonna University as a single mom and older student. "I had a great relationship with my grandmother There's a wisdom people get from liv-ing," she said.
