Question of special county election raised

Don Howard
Staff Writer

The recent appointment of Wayne County Commissioner Shannon Price as the new Plymouth Township supervisor is causing concern among some Republican Party members who say that his county job may have to be filled with a costly special election. According to the Wayne County Charter... If a vacancy occurs in the office of a Commissioner, the vacancy shall be filled by appointment within 30 days with an appointee belonging to the same political party as the previous Commissioner. However, Township Precinct Delegate and member of the Wayne County Republican Committee Richard Sharland discovered that the county charter also dictates that if a vacancy occurs on the county commission and is filled in an odd-numbered year, the appointee will only serve until a successor is elected in special election. (Wayne County Charter Section 3.112 c.) There were revisions to the Michigan Election Law in August of 2013 that invalidates that section, according to Canton Township Clerk Terry Bennett. Price's letter of resignation was received by the Wayne County Commission office Monday afternoon, according to a commission spokesman. Price said that he began his first day as Plymouth Township supervisor the same day, after being sworn in by Township Clerk Nancy Conzelman during a private ceremony with his family present. Sharland, however, was less than enthusiastic about Price's appointment. "Price was only 100 days into his second term and now we're faced with the expense of a special election," said Sharland, who is convinced the county charter provisions require a special election. "Something the township board said when they selected Price over other candidates was that they didn't want to have the taxpayers foot the bill for an election, and now we find out we're faced with this." Wayne County has an expiring parks millage and could call a special election in an effort to renew the levy in August or November, explained Bennett, and include the commission seat

Who better than professional photographers to help fund an organization that restores smiles to children? No one, decided local photographer Helen Yancy who joined an elite group of 100 creative professionals recently when she agreed to participate in an effort to raise funds for an international charity, Operation Smile. The international charity funds corrective surgery for birth defects and problems like cleft lip, cleft palate and facial deformities for children around the world. Yancy, a Plymouth resident who is also an artist and past president of the Professional Photographers of America, agreed to be part of The Traveling Dress Project, a somewhat complicated effort to support Operation Smile. Yancy said she was sure the organizer of the project, Minnesota photographer Ginella Simon, selected her to participate based on her professional credentials as the two have never met. She agreed to join selected photographers across the country who have been challenged to produce an original image of a model posing in the same vintage wedding gown. The idea was born when Simon found the old, but still gorgeous, gown about a year or so ago in a thrift shop. Simon produced one of the first photos and issued the challenge to her professional associates across the country, many of whom have already responded with dazzling displays of photographic originality. Not to be outdone, Yancy asked Bobbie Jean Kaster, her granddaughter-in-law, who was the necessary tiny size, to model the gown and then devised her setting for the portrait. The two used Sean O'Callaghan's Pub in downtown Plymouth for one of their locations and the Dearborn Inn for another. "I loved the idea of the saloon bride," Yancy said. "And this was made even better because Bobbie Jean didn't have a formal wedding and this project really made her feel special." Yancy said that while pho-

3 arrested, charged in Westland fatal shooting

An illegal gun sale that went wrong resulted in the death of a 21-year-old Redford man whose body was found in his parked car in Westland. Three men, Arlandus Nolen II, 18, and Daveion Dix, 19, both of Inkster and Arlandus Nolen, Sr., 39, of Roseville were arrested and charged in the shooting which took place at about 10:30 p.m. March 28. Police were called to the scene by neighbors who reported hearing shots fired. When police arrived, they found McClendon seated in the driver's seat of his vehicle dead from multiple gunshot wounds. Police said that two guns were involved in the shooting and that multiple spent 40-caliber and 9mm casings were found at the scene. Investigators said that evidence located at the scene let police to a home in the 29000 block of Rosewood in Inkster where a search warrant was executed. Investigators said

Nolen Jr. and Dix were meeting the victim to illegally sell him a 9mm handgun. Nolen II and Dix have been arraigned in district court on charges of first-degree murder, armed robbery and felony firearm. Dix is also charged as a habitual offender as the result of a 2014 conviction for carrying a concealed weapon. Not guilty pleas were entered on their behalf and they were remanded to police custody without bond. Nolen Sr. was charged with felony accessory after the fact, being a felon in possession of a firearm, felony firearm and being a habitual offender as he has two prior felony convictions including carjacking in 1997 and being a prisoner in possession of a weapon in 2003. The three are scheduled for a preliminary court examination on the charges April 30 at 18th District Court in Westland.

Township will appeal decision on DeHoCo land

Plymouth Township has filed for a reconsideration through the Michigan Court of Appeals, seeking to overturn the court decision to return 190-acres of land to the City of Detroit.

Ownership of the land located at Five Mile and Ridge roads has been in dispute since attorneys for Detroit filed a lawsuit seeking to reclaim the land purchased by the township at a tax foreclosure sale for $606,150 in 2011. The land had been assessed at $15 million and reduced to $8 million at the last recorded valuation.

The land is part of the former Detroit House of Corrections property and was being leased to a local farmer by the City of Detroit prior to the title dispute and tax foreclosure sale.

In February, Wayne County Circuit Court Chief Judge Robert Columbo Jr. ruled that the land should be returned to the City of Detroit as the legal owner and that the tax foreclosure sale was improper. Detroit attorneys claimed in their legal arguments that as public land, the property was not subject to tax foreclosure. In earlier arguments, the attorneys noted, too, that the city was never properly notified of any amount of tax due on the land.

According to official title records, Plymouth Township incorrectly recorded ownership of the land as one 323-acre parcel rather than splitting the land into two separate parcels. A 133-acre section was purchased by a development corporation while the 190-acre section was still owned by the City of Detroit. Tax notices for the entire 323 acres were then erroneously sent to the corporation which defaulted and did make any tax payments on any portion of the land.

Bennett further argues in his filing that Detroit was aware of the taxes due and the pending foreclosure sale.

The township then notified the office of the Wayne County Treasurer that 2007 and 2008 taxes on the entire section had not been paid and the foreclosure sale of the entire acreage was scheduled. Plymouth Township officials were the only bidders on the land at the sale.

Representing Plymouth Township in the appeal of Columbo's ruling, attorney Kevin Bennett claims that the 2010 State Tax Commission bulletin exempting municipal property from foreclosure did not recognize that the land is only exempted when it is used for a public purpose. He noted in his court filing that Detroit left the land undeveloped and therefore the State Tax Commission exceeded its authority in exempting the land and the “inclusion of municipally-owned land is flawed.”

Bennett further argues in his filing that Detroit was aware of the taxes due and the pending foreclosure sale. He claims that the city knew of the obligation to pay taxes on the land, despite the failure of the township to send notices to the correct owner.

The City of Detroit also named the Wayne County treasurer and the county itself as defendants in the original suit. The county has claimed that they have no responsibility in the matter and acted properly as the actions taken were based solely on information provided to them by Plymouth Township.

Chief Deputy Wayne County Treasurer David Szymanski said at the time of Columbo's ruling that the dispute is between the City of Detroit and Plymouth Township and that the actions of the county were appropriate in light of the information provided by the township.

Detroit attorneys have until March 20 to file their arguments for retaining title to the land with the court of appeals. They have said that the city is willing to entertain an offer to purchase the land from the township.

on that ballot. In Canton, a special election costs about $44,000, she said.

James Toth, director of public information for the Wayne County Commission, said that a special election would not be required.

“The charter allows the commission to fill the vacancy within 30 days and requires the appointment to be of the same political party as the departing commissioner. The charter also calls for a special election if the appointment is made with more than one year left in the term, but state law (Public Act 84 of 2013) rendered that portion moot, so the appointee will serve the remainder of the term,” Toth said. He also included the Michigan Public Acts Table of the amended state election laws from 2013 which says that the odd numbered year special election requirement is eliminated unless the vacancy is not filled by appointment.

“I think the confusion regarding PA 84 of 2013 is that it amended County Commissions PA 261 of 1966 in chapter 46. Wayne County is organized under PA 293 of 1966, the Charter County Enabling Act,” Sharland said.

Price was recommended for the position of supervisor by a political action committee or PAC, according to Sharland. The group, called the Wayne 11th Congressional District

Committee, may recommend a candidate or endorse their choice to fill a vacancy, as occurred with Price, but they are not empowered to make the final selection of a candidate recommendation, Sharland contends.

“That is a job for the Wayne County Republican Committee,” he added.

The Wayne 11th Congressional District Republican Committee Chairman Carl Berry has reportedly already recommended local Plymouth attorney Joe Barone for the appointment to fill the remainder of Price's 2-year term. That may or may not be the recommendation of the state Republican Party, however, as the official state Republican Party Committee website lists Dillon Breen as the Wayne County chairman. Berry is not listed among the official district committee members. These are two separate Republican entities, Sharland said.

According to the Michigan Campaign Finance Act 388 of 1976, 169.211, Sec. 11, Part 6,

“There shall not be more than 1 (one) officially designated political party committee per county and per congressional district.”

Sharland has suggested the official recommendation of the party could differ from that submitted by Berry.

Paul Garon, a Republican Party precinct delegate, agrees with Sharland regarding the appointment of Price requiring a special election in both Plymouths and Canton Township to fill his commission seat.

Garon said he is worried that the party will lose one of the only two seats it currently holds on the 15-member Wayne County Commission.

“They're (the 11th District committee) throwing us under the bus. I feel betrayed,” Garon said.

BELLEVILLE - ROMULUS

Earth Day celebrations set in Romulus

The City of Romulus has some new events planned to celebrate Earth Day that are all free and open to the public.

For the second year, “Mother Nature” hosted a story and craft time at Romulus Public Library earlier this week. Mother Nature was played by City of Romulus, Director of Community Outreach Jazmine Danci. Danci is a life-long resident of Romulus and has masters and bachelors degrees in the environment and sustainability and also organized the other Earth Day events in the city.

“Earth Day is my favorite holiday and I was so happy to share that passion with the children at this story time event,” Danci said

There will be an Eco-Fair from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. April 20 at Romulus City Hall, 11111 Wayne Road. This is the main feature of the Earth Day celebrations, Danci said.

Local organizations will be in attendance to pass out environmental information and giveaways. Groups present will include DTE, Waste Management highlighting Romulus' new recycling system that will start in July, the Wayne County Conservation District and more.

There will also be an Old City Acres

Local Farm Tour. The farm is locally owned and operated farm located right in Romulus, Danci said.

The city has partnered with Old City Acres farmer and Romulus resident Alex Ball to host a tour of one of his farming locations.

“What makes Old City Acres different than other local farms is that they grow all of their vegetables using the most sustainable and natural methods possible. No pesticides, herbicides or insecticides are used,” Danci said.

Tour participants will meet at 2 p.m. April 25 in the Romulus City Hall parking lot. There will be a bus available on a first come-first serve basis and others are welcome to follow in their own vehicle to the farm where Ball will give a tour and talk about his operation.

The Romulus Public Library will be hosting an event about climate change and how individuals can help cut down on their environmental impacts given by Jerry Hasspacher.

Hasspacher is the chair of the Sierra Club SEMG Green Schools Promotion Committee, chair of the Sierra Club SEMG Green Cruise, Citizen Member of the City of Warren Environmental Advisory Jazmine Danci appeared as Mother Nature to read stories to children as part of Earth Day celebrations throughout the city last year. This year, Danci again donned her costume to entertain and educate children and helped plan several new Earth Day events in the city.

Committee and a Member of the Citizen's Advisory Committee to the Southeast Michigan Regional Transportation Authority. This program will begin at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, April 30.

Space is limited, so pre-registration is required by calling (734) 942-7589.

“Earth Day is an important reminder of all the precautions we should be taking to protect our environmental all year round. I hope the residents are able to attend some of the fun and informational events we have planned for this year,” said Mayor LeRoy Burecroff.

Library board OK’s fee to help find director

Replacing Belleville Area District Library Director Debra Green could be an expensive process.

The library board of directors has agreed to hire consulting firm Hartzell-Mika to help in determining the qualifications necessary to fill Green's position. The cost for the consultant's services will be determined at a meeting of the board this month. Hartzell-Mika is an East Lansing company and had proposed services at $4,000 and $4,500 to help in finding candidates for the $75,000 to $80,000 job. Board members suggested using the consultants in final interviews, appropriate interview questions, reference checks, and other details of the job search. Applications for the job will be accepted until April 30.

Board members expressed concern about hiring an individual who would stay in the job for an extended time. Green, who was present at the meeting, said that it is not unusual in libraries to have a director who stays only one or two years before finding someone who settles in for a long-term commitment to the job.

Barbara Miller, an audience member, cautioned the board not to hesitate using a professional firm to fill the position. She reminded them that the library director was paid $80,000 plus benefits and was in charge of an annual $1 million budget, making the $4,500 professional fee negligible. She also reminded the board members of the time and detail involved in checking references, making a professional consultant a worthwhile investment, in her opinion, she said.

Board members appeared to agree to keep the consultancy fee at no more than $5,000 and to have members of the board meet with representatives of Hartzell-Mika to design a program specific to the needs of the Belleville library and community.

Library hosts 2 authors

Romulus Public Library has planned a series of programs for April.

Author Teresa Irish will be speaking about her book “A Thousand Letters Home: One WWII Soldier's Story of War, Love and Life.” At 6:30 p.m. April 20.

Following her father's death, Irish found packets of letters he wrote during his time in World War II. Her book is comprised of selections from those original letters placed into historical context with excerpts from the book 102d through Germany (published by the division in 1945.)

Jerry Hasspacher will be presenting an Earth Day program titled “Climate Change and You” at 6:30 p.m. April 30.

The environment is the basis of the web of life and a healthy environment can only be assured through environmentally knowledgeable citizens acting responsibly, Hasspacher said.

All programs are subject to change. Registration for the free event is available by visiting the library or by phone at (734) 942-7589. Space is limited. All programs will take place at the Romulus Public Library, located at 11121 Wayne Road in Romulus.

County commissioner hopes to replace retiring clerk

Richard LeBlanc, a Wayne County Commissioner from Westland, has filed the election forms required to place his name on the Aug. 4 ballot as a candidate for Westland City Clerk.

LeBlanc is the first candidate to file for the position. Current City Clerk Eileen DeHart-Schoof has confirmed she will not be a candidate for re-election and has endorsed LeBlanc to succeed her.

Westland Mayor William Wild, all members of the Westland City Council, State Senator Hoon-Yung Hopgood, State Sen. David Knezek, State Rep. Robert Kosowski, State Rep. Julie Plawewski, County Commissioner Al Haidous, and former mayor and current member of the Wayne-Westland

Board of Education Charles Trav Griffin, are among several elected officials who have endorsed LeBlanc.

“As a local legislator, I’ve been an effective advocate for the residents of our communities, helping people for more than two decades. If elected, Westland residents will receive the same high level of conscientious service from the city clerk and staff that has been the hallmark of the office since we became a city in 1966,” LeBlanc said.

DeHart-Schoof said she is planning to retire and feels LeBlanc would be good for the city.

“I have worked closely with Richard for nearly two decades and believe he will make an excellent Westland City Clerk. Longstanding public service is something we share, and I am confident I will be leaving the office to a person with unquestionable professional conduct. I plan to do all I can to assist in his election.”

Wild stated, “The relationship my administration has had with Richard during his service as our county commissioner and as our state representative has been exceptional. We share a positive vision for our community, and I offer my highest level of support for his election.”

Other elected officials serving the Westland community who have to date endorsed LeBlanc include: Wayne County Community College District Trustee Sharon Scott, and Wayne-Westland Board of Education President Thomas Buckalew, along with board members Melandie Hines, Carol Middel, Shawna Walker and Dr. Frederick Weaver.

Former Westland City Clerks Diane Fritz, Nancy Bonaparte, and Joanne Seaberg have endorsed LeBlanc. In addition, all municipal labor organizations serving Westland employees: the Westland Firefighters of IAFF Local 1279, Westland Police Officers Association, Westland Police Lieutenants and Sergeants Association, Westland DPS Local 1602 employees, and the Westland Supervisory Union are supporting LeBlanc during the 2015 election cycle.

LeBlanc is in his second term on the Wayne County Commission. He previously served as the 18th District State Representative for three terms, the Westland City Council for three terms, and the Wayne-Westland Board of Education for one term.

He has lived in Westland for nearly 56 years, and has volunteered as an member of numerous boards and commissions since 1988.

In addition to his elective service, LeBlanc was employed by the Ford Motor Co., and served 22 years with the Canton Police Department in a part-time capacity. He holds a bachelors degree in business administration.

He and his wife, Cheryl, are the parents of two adult sons and have three grandchildren.

Wayne schedules Coffee With A Cop Saturday

The Wayne Police Department and McDonald's will host Coffee with a Cop from 9 to 11 a.m. Saturday, April 18 at the Wayne McDonald's, 35111 W. Michigan Ave. in Wayne. The event is free and open to the public.

“We are pleased to create this opportunity to engage the Wayne Police Department for local residents and other area business owners,” said Marla Thrower, McDonald's owner and operator. “McDonald's is always looking for ways to engage our customers, support our local community and are committed to inspiring involvement from our neighbors.”

Coffee with a Cop is a national program designed to bring together police officers and community members in an informal setting to discuss issues that are important to them, build relationships and enjoy a complimentary cup of McDonald's McCafé coffee. Attendees will have the opportunity to ask questions, voice concerns and get to know the men and women who protect and serve them every day, according to a prepared statement from the department.

Implemented in more than 175 cities in 36 states, Coffee with a Cop helps break down communication barriers between police officers and the community and increase trust, which is critical to the public safety and problem solving.

“We hope that community members will feel comfortable to ask questions, bring concerns, or simply get to know our officers,” said Wayne Police Chief Alan Maciag. “These interactions are the foundation of community partnerships.”

Starfish Family Services honors 2 ‘Great Hearts’

Inkster-based Starfish Family Services has chosen Rebecca A. Boylan and Thomas W. Sidlik as the Great Hearts Award honorees at the Turning the Tide for Children event on Thursday, April 30, at Cobo Center in Detroit.

“Rebecca and Tom inspire us with their generous spirit and commitment to our community,” said Ann Kalass, Starfish Chief Executive Officer. “Rebecca is a past chair and long-time board member of Starfish Family Services. She and Tom both believe that children cannot achieve their full potential without a strong education,” Kalass added.

“They appreciate that children must arrive at kindergarten mentally, emotionally and physically prepared in order to take advantage of our educational system. Rebecca and Tom are dedicated to Starfish Family Services because our mission is to provide that preparation, starting at birth, for the clients we serve.”

This year, the event focuses on the importance of the first five years in a child's life. Funds raised from the event will be used to fund Starfish early childhood and parenting/care-giver education. This year, Starfish has expanded its programs in Detroit through the new Thrive by Five Detroit program, which will serve more than 1,300 children and their families annually.

Event tickets are $150 and include dinner and valet parking. Event sponsorships are also available. For more information or to purchase tickets, visit starfishonline.org.

Dress

what different from other photographers as she is renowned for her oil paintings, turning photos into portraits, which is the technique she used for the work she sent to The Traveling Dress Project.

“It is a wonderful cause, and what cause could be better for photographers, really?” Yancy said. “I did it because I wanted to do it and it was fun. It really was fun.”

Participating photographers don't have a great deal of time for the work. They are allowed one day on which they receive the dress in the mail. They have another day to shoot all their photos and they must ship the dress on to the next participant the third day.

Yancy has been an artist “my whole life.” She is a professional photographer and has owned her own studio and business “since I was a kid.” She admitted she lied about her age to open her own business and has never looked back. She is self-taught, for the most part, she said, but has earned her national reputation with skills and techniques she has garnered from her involvement in professional associations and from other photographers. Her reputation has led her to teach others at universities and colleges across the country, she said.

The wedding dress used in the project has been across the country since it began to travel in September of last year and has been in front of photographers in Canada, Australia and the United Kingdom. The final photographs are expected to be taken in December of this year and then the collected work of the photographers including one photo from each of those selected will be published in book form and sold with proceeds going to benefit Operation Smile. CANTON - NORTHVILLE

Spotlight Players present Young Frankenstein

Mel Brooks and Gene Wilder's 1974 classic film Young Frankenstein captivated audiences when it opened on Broadway in 2007 as a musical. Now, Canton audiences will be able to witness the hijinks on stage at The Village Theater at Cherry Hill for six performances on April 17 - 19 and 24 - 26, 2015 with Friday and Saturday performances at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 2 p.m.

Young Frankenstein follows Victor Frankenstein's grandson, Dr. Frederick Frankenstein, as he discovers that he has inherited his family's estate in Transylvania. Frankenstein teams up with a hunchbacked side-kick, Igor, a flirty lab assistant, Inga, and the housekeeper, Frau Bleucher. When Frankenstein joins the family business of mad scientists he brings a creature to life and hilarity ensues. Onstage Young Frankenstein brings to life those favorite movie moments such as Puttin' on the Ritz and adds new show-stopping numbers including: Please Don't Touch Me, Transylvania Mania, and He Vas My Boyfriend.

Josh Getto takes the lead as Dr. Frederick Frankenstein. "The role of Frederick has given me a once in a lifetime opportunity to live out some life-long dreams, like patronizing med students and performing brain surgery without the proper apparatus or equipment. But if I had to pick one thing that I enjoy the most it would be having a minion for sure. Ever since I was a kid, I dreamed of having someone to do my bidding," explained

*Nothing can top Igor dancing and singing like a fool,
all done with a cockney accent.*

Getto.

Jason Cooper joins Spotlight Players for his second production this season as Dr. Frederick Frankenstein's minion, Igor. Igor's relentless weirdness is Cooper's favorite quality of his character.

"Every line that comes out of his mouth is funny, so it's pretty easy to let Igor loose. He just keeps getting weirder and weirder as the show goes on. It's certainly the most challenging role I've ever played. Nothing can top Igor dancing and singing like a fool, all done with a cockney accent. He is certainly one of the funniest characters I've ever played."

"Mel Brooks really kept the soul of the movie when he created the musical. Many of the lines, jokes and quotable moments were included word for word, and the singing just creates another level of Mel Brooks' madness to love. I think that diehard fans will love the musical, but wonder why we didn't do it in black and white," Getto said.

Young Frankenstein takes the main stage for six performances on April 17 - 19 and 24 - 26. Run time is two hours and 45 minutes with a 15 minute intermission. Seating is assigned, so advance tickets are recommended. Young Frankenstein is rated PG 13, which advises parents that some material in this show may be unsuitable for children under the age of 13.

Tickets are range from $15-$18 each. They can be purchased by calling the box office at (734) 394-5300 or by visiting <http://www.spotlightplayersmi.org/>.

Tickets are also available for purchase at the box office one hour prior to show time. The Village Theater is located at 50400 Cherry Hill Road in Canton.

Feed A Need club will host dinner tomorrow

The Feed a Need club at Northville High School will host a charity dinner from 6-8 p.m. tomorrow, April 17, to benefit Northville Civic Concern.

The cost for the dinner, catered by Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall, is $10 and there will be raffles during the evening for prizes donated by local businesses. Items for auction include tickets for admission to the Marquis Theatre, items from Starring the Gallery, Lorla's shoe store, Dancing Eye Gallery and themed gift baskets.

The dinner menu includes pasta, salad, beverages and dessert.

Entertainment will be provided by the Northville High Treblemakers a cappella choir.

Feed a Need club members work to provide help to the community and provide service opportunity for students. Last year, the dinner hosted by the group generated about $2,000 for Northville Civic Concern, an all-volunteer organization which helps local families in need with groceries, toiletries and cleaning products.

Tickets for the dinner will be available at the door or can be reserved by email at feedaneedmi@gmail.com.

Board OK's demolition cost

Northville Township will pay $197,200 to have one of the buildings at the former Northville Psychiatric Hospital demolished.

Township trustees unanimously approved a demolition contract with Adamo Group at a March 19 meeting. Building 72 will undergo asbestos abatement before demolition. The township, which owns the land, previously contracted with Adamo to demolish the former Scott Prison at Five Mile and Beck roads. According to Trustee Marv Gans, Adamo was the low bidder and the township has had success in working with the business previously.

The township paid $19,530 for asbestos and hazardous materials survey at the building last year.

When all the buildings are demolished at the site, the township plans to develop park land on the property. Voters in the township approved a $23.5 million bond in 2009 to buy the land.

REIS, which owns the adjacent former hospital property, has already begun construction on retail and commercial buildings near the new University of Michigan Medical facility.

On the job

Canton Township Deputy Police chief Scott Hilden welcomes new officer Corey Altheim, to the department during his oath of office March 30. Altheim, like all new police officers in Canton was required to successfully complete a 16-week instructor-led field training program, prior to working on his own. This program is designed to orientate and develop recruit officers, maximizing their potential and providing them with the tools necessary to successfully make the transition into their new position as a Canton Police Officer, according to a department spokesman.
