Blocked crossings causing complaints

Don Howard
Staff Writer

While motorists have been fuming at the delays caused by trains blocking various roadways in both Plymouth and Canton, officials throughout the area have expressed concern regarding the impact the situation could have on emergency response times.

Last Friday, Plymouth City Manager Paul Sincok said that he had just sent another email notifying the fire department of a roadway blocked by a train, something that has become a familiar condition during the past week.

CSX Railroad spokesperson Gail Lobin said that the company is aware of the recent blockages and traffic delays in Plymouth.

"We are indeed aware of the issues in Plymouth," she said last week in response to questions about the inordinate number of complaints received regarding blocked crossings in the Plymouth-Canton community.

Plymouth city officials, who say they have no control over the railroad operations, issued several prepared press releases during the past weeks confirming stalled trains and blocked intersections, causing traffic delays and congestion. Area residents say the long delays are unusual, unreasonable and possibly dangerous considering the hazardous materials that regularly traverse the community utilizing railway transport.

Canton Township Emergency Planner Kathy Rich said last Friday that the crossing at Haggerty Road north of Van Born was completely closed and was expected to remain impassable for at least 24 hours.

"The rail needs repair," Rich said.

Delays in Plymouth were blamed on a change in service. "The issues (in Plymouth) were a result of some operations."

Revamped planetarium opening celebrated at John Glenn High School

The Friends of the John Glenn Planetarium celebrated their successful efforts to renovate and upgrade the facility last week with a grand reopening celebration.

The 2016 renovation and reopening of the facility will once again inspire the wonder of astronomy for students and the community, a district spokesperson said. It will also open the door to the exploration of career paths in science, engineering and technical mathematics, she said.

The planetarium, originally opened in November 1964, was state-of-the-art in construction, technology and programming at that time. The planetarium was used as Wayne-Westland Community Schools educators offered high school classes in space science and astronomy and provided planetarium presentations to students and community members for nearly a half-century until the antiquated analog equipment fell into disrepair forcing the closure of the planetarium about a decade ago.

Parts to keep the planetarium equipment operating and functional were no longer available as technology advanced, district officials said.

The reopening was made possible by more than $60,000 in upgrades, repairs and renovations funded by community organizations, alumni and private contributors led by John Glenn alumni Steve Koponen and his wife, Sandi, who both graduated from the school in 1989.

Koponen set up a GoFundMe internet page to help pay for the needed repairs and upgrades to the planetarium. Koponen, now a science teacher in the Farmington Public Schools, learned about the dilapidated condition of the planetarium last June when he and his wife wanted to rent the facility for a small reunion of friends.

He established the GoFundMe site in an effort to bring back one of his best memories about his time in the school district. One of the most compelling reasons we study astronomy is to satisfy our fundamental curiosity about the world in which we live. The planetarium allows students to learn in an inspiring, exciting, immersive way using current technology that is familiar to them, educators said.

City officials and educators and administrators from the Wayne-Westland Community Schools including Superintendent of Schools Michelle Harmala were in attendance last week for the reopening of the planetarium and John Glenn High School. Alumnus Steve Koponen, left, led a GoFundMe drive for renovations to the 50-year-old equipment.

With the renovations, the John Glenn planetarium is now completely interactive, according to Astronomy teacher David Christiansen.

"We tell it to do something and it does it. It is just like a computer at home, only we have an entire dome." The new technology also offers movies in an IMAX-like setting that aids in teaching a wide range of subjects.

"Not only do we have a new projector, we've got new lighting and the new sound is state of the art," said Principal David Ingham.

"It's all digital, web-based. We can do a lot of interactive

Life saving hero honored by township

"These are heroes you see standing before you tonight."

The most prestigious award the Van Buren Township Public Safety Department offers was presented to firefighter John Henderson early this month.

Henderson's actions in pulling a small child from a blazing home last December were singled out by the department and his heroism awarded during a regular meeting of the Van Buren Township Board of Trustees. Nine other public safety workers were also honored for their exemplary conduct during the same house fire during which the child's 14-year-old uncle, Savion Robinson, died attempting to save her.

Van Buren Township Public Safety Director Greg Laurain recounted Henderson's actions

during the emergency noting that Henderson opted to risk his own life on the chance he could save a child.

"These are heroes you see standing before you tonight," Laurain told the board members, officials and audience members about the men and women receiving awards for their actions. Laurain also said that the fire and police departments from Belleville and the Sumpter Fire Department should be recognized for the aid they offered during the blaze which knocked out electrical lines and caused a gas fire. There were seven people, including three children, in the home when the fire occurred.

NORTHVILLE - PLYMOUTH

Schools of Choice available in Northville

Northville Public Schools is accepting Schools of Choice applications under Section 105 and 105e of the Michigan School Aid Act for the 2016-17 school year. Availability is limited to five openings in the International Baccalaureate (IB) Diploma Program at Northville High School. Applications will be accepted beginning May 2, through 4 p.m. May 27.

In accordance with the stipulated requirements, and to support the district goal of excellence and equity for all students, a review of each applicant's eligibility for the Diploma Program is required using the same criteria applied to prospective resident Diploma Program students.

The Northville Public Schools Section 105 and 105e (Non-Resident) Schools of Choice Application is available through the Office of Human Resources. Completed applications, including all forms and recommendations must be mailed or hand delivered to the Northville Public Schools Human Resources Department, 501 West Main St., Northville, Michigan, 48167, by 4 p.m. on May 27, 2016. The district is unable to accept electronic applications.

Applicants found to be ineligible for the Diploma Program will be notified on or before June 10. Should the number of applications approved by the Diploma Program Review Team exceed the five openings specified for Section 105 and 105e Schools of Choice students, the school district will use a random draw to select the applicants who will be offered enrollment. If necessary, the lottery will take place at 8:30 a.m. on June 9 at the Northville Public Schools Board of Education offices, also located at 501 West Main St., Northville, Michigan 48167.

Families applying for limited Schools of Choice are welcome to attend the lottery drawing. Selected students will be informed regarding placement no later than June 10.

Details regarding the lottery procedures, the Schools of Choice application, and answers to frequently asked questions about the Section 105 and 105e Schools of Choice option are available on the district website at www.northvilleschools.org.

Once a student is accepted to open enrollment under Section 105 or 105e, he or she may continue to be enrolled in Northville Public Schools until graduation or until he or she withdraws from the program.

tional changes in how we service local customers. During this time we were, and remain, in contact with local officials and local businesses," CSX said in a prepared statement following inquiries regarding the traffic impediments.

Lobin said that earlier in the week the company implemented some infrastructure improvements including the installation of an air-pump system. She said that CSX safety personnel were in Plymouth to "observe first hand" how the new equipment is operating, and that the situation appears to be improving.

"While our community and safety lead was in Plymouth, he spoke with the town manager (sic) who indicated that no new complaints from constituents were received this week. We attribute this to the improvements that were implemented on Monday. We will continue to monitor the new operation plan and systems and will continue communicating with town officials," she added.

Contrary to those reports, Sinesek denied any contact from the railroad officials and stated he is still very concerned about the ongoing delays and said complaints from upset area residents are still being received.

"One other thing I'm very concerned about," Sinesek said, "is pedestrians looking for ways to cross the tracks of the stalled trains-walking down the tracks. This is very dangerous."

Sinesek said that he had received a phone call from someone at the Federal Railroad Administration who said they "were working with the CSX on the problem."

CSX operational policy requires that trains be broken into two parts whenever a blockage is expected to continue for more than 10 minutes. Last week, when an afternoon westbound train blocked the Ann Arbor Trail-Haggerty Road intersection at the same time it was blocking south Main Street and Farmer, the train stopped before approaching the yard office at the Plymouth "Y" and cars at the end of the train were unhitched and left on a siding.

CSX trains communicate by computer and a sophisticated monitoring system, both centrally dispatched from Chicago, officials said.

"We apologize for the inconvenience this has caused to the community," Lobin said in her response to the situation.

"The line is important to the entire region to balance the safe delivery of commerce. CSX is committed to working toward limiting the impact of our operations in the area."

Friends of Library hosts well-known speakers

The Friends of the Plymouth District Library will host two well-known speakers in May.

The annual Book and Author Luncheon will welcome mystery writer and Michigan native Bryan Gruley at 11:30 a.m. Friday, May 6. The Friends will host U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Steven Rhodes at 7 p.m. Thursday, May 12, when he presents "The Detroit Bankruptcy Case: An Insider's View from One Year Later."

Author Bryan Gruley is a Catholic Central alumni and Pulitzer Prize winner. His work includes Starvation Lake: A Mystery; its sequel, The Hanging Tree and a third novel, The Skeleton Box. He shared in the 2002 Pulitzer Prize for coverage of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks as part of The Wall Street Journal staff. The Mystery Writers of America nominated Starvation Lake for an Edgar Award for Best First Novel. It went on to win the Anthony, Barry and Strand awards. The Hanging Tree has been recognized as a Number One Indie Next pick, one of Michigan's Notable Books in 2011 and a Kirkus Reviews Best Mystery of 2010.

The Book and Author Luncheon will take place at Fox Hills Golf and Banquet Center, 8768 N. Territorial Road, Plymouth Township. Cost for the luncheon is $30 per person, reservations will be accepted until noon April 22. Visit plymouthlibrary.org to download a reservation form or pick one up at the Plymouth District Library.

Steven Rhodes, U.S. Bankruptcy Judge and the recently appointed transition manager for the Detroit Public Schools, will speak during an evening presentation at the library.

As 2014 came to a close, Rhodes approved the bankruptcy plan for Detroit, allowing the city to begin the process of exiting bankruptcy. Rhodes will speak about the state of Detroit, one year following the bankruptcy process.

This program is free and open to the public - refreshments will be served. The Plymouth District Library is located at 223 S. Main St. in downtown Plymouth.

BELLEVILLE - ROMULUS

Art winners to be revealed during concert

The first Sounds of Downtown concert in Romulus will feature a little more than just great music.

During the concert, which will begin at 7 p.m. June 10, the winners of the Art in Nature competition organized by the Romulus Arts Council will be unveiled to the public. The competition began with the announcement from the arts council last fall seeking works from artists and photographers to become part of a temporary outdoor public art installation in the city.

The artists were asked to interpret the words Art in Nature in their entries.

"When we saw the community support for the DIAs Inside/Out program two years ago when it came to Romulus, we knew we wanted to do something to further cultivate that enthusiasm for the arts," said Maria Lambert, chair of the Romulus Arts Council.

More than 150 pieces of artwork were received from artists in Michigan, New York, New Jersey, Kentucky, Ohio and Chicago, Ill. A jury of experts chose 10 to be temporarily displayed throughout the city between June 16 and June 2017.

First place winner was Lucille Navara who entered Butternut Falls. Navara will be presented with a cash prize of $1,000.

Second place winner was Sylvie Van Helden's entry, Dragon's Boon. She will be presented with a $500 cash prize. Jim Navara will be presented with the $250 cash prize for his third-place entry, Rhombus.

Honorable mentions went to: Tatiana Arocha for Jaguar; Shirley Hathaway for Wings of the World; Patricia Izzo for Passageway; Maureen Keast for Utopian Vision; Marianne Letasi for Frozen Pond; Martine McDonald for Prosen Detroit; and Lisa Olson for her entry, Blue Bird.

The winning pieces will be unveiled at an awards ceremony which will take place during the June 10 concert in Romulus Historical Park featuring the local variety band, Trilogy.

For more information about the arts council or the project, call (248) 921-9933.

Court to move to school during renovations

There will be some changes made.

Those looking to pay fines, obtain information or even appear before a judge at the 34th District Court in Romulus will have to find their way to the former Merriman Elementary School beginning late this summer.

Construction on the $11 million remodeling of the court building is expected to begin in August and completion of the 100,000-square-foot addition and remodeling of the court building will take from 12 to 18 months, according to officials.

While the construction is under way, court operations will move to the former school building at 15303 Merriman Road, south of Eureka. The 34th District Court currently serves the cities of Belleville and Romulus and the townships of Huron, Van Buren and Sumpter, along with Lower Huron Metropark and Metro Airport.

The renovation of the building will be paid for by a $20 funding unit fee levied on all tickets in the communities served for about 18 months, along with a bond sale. The City of Romulus has approved the bond sale, although the court is expected to repay all the bonds.

The architect on the project is the OHM firm and George Auch as the construction manager.

Chief Judge Tina Brooks Greene is expected to present the new court budget and renovation plans to the service municipalities beginning next month.

In an effort to contain costs, the court has assigned officers from the court work program to begin work on making about half the school adaptable to the court needs. The courtrooms will be moved to former classrooms during the construction interim and the judges and clerks will share a classroom as their chambers.

The planned renovations include technology upgrades that will allow for less paperwork at the court and better communication.

Lauren explained that while police were first on the scene, they had been beaten back by the intense heat and flames, although the officers were able to direct firefighters to the general location of the 2-year-old girl, Amyrissa Wells. Henderson, the first firefighter to arrive, entered the building and crawled through the burning debris to find the child despite not having his helmet, which had been forgotten.

Fire Chief Dan Benson also praised Henderson's actions.

"It was a split second decision," he said. Henderson has also been nominated to two national life-saving awards for his actions.

After crawling through the burning home, finding the child and carrying her out of the inferno, Henderson handed her to paramedics who began life-saving procedures. He then took off his burned and debris-embedded jacket, new only a week before, climbed into the Huron Valley Ambulance and drove to the hospital while two EMTs worked on the child who had suffered third-degree burns on her back, legs and arms, a certificate of merit to police officer Eric Dougherty; unit commendations to firefighter David Schuler and David Beaulieu and lifesaving awards to John Henderson and Bronson Campbell.

Other awards presented included unit commendations to dispatchers Whitney Smolinski, Julie Jones and Bob Martin; certificates of commendation to police officers Adam Byrd and Mark King; a certificate of merit to police officer Eric Dougherty; unit commendations to firefighter David Schuler and David Beaulieu and lifesaving awards to John Henderson and Bronson Campbell.

Fitness challenge draws 200

Nearly 200 people took part in the annual Mayor's Fitness Challenge in Romulus this year.

The fitness challenge took place from Jan. 11 to March 14, said Andy McKay, who coordinates the program at the Romulus Athletic Center. All together, 193 members took part and lost more than 875 pounds, combined.

"It's fun when people are challenged, how they step up and put an excellent effort together and it's all for being fit," said Romulus Mayor Leroy Burcott.

On the men's side, Jeff Conley finished in third place, losing 22 pounds or 8.12 percent of his overall weight. Matt Scully, the first-place finisher last year, came in second, losing 28 pounds, or 8.96 percent of his overall weight. Josh Bates was the top finisher; he lost 25 pounds, about 10.1 percent of his body weight.

Winners were selected based on percentage of body weight lost, not the number of pounds.

The women's top finishers were separated by less than 1 percent, McKay said.

Any Ambrose finished in third, losing 33.5 pounds or 13.35 percent. Kathleen Curran finished in second, with a 26 pound weight loss, or 13.76 percent. Julie Wadsworth was the top finisher, losing 34 pounds, or 13.77 percent.

McKay said everybody who took part in the challenge deserved recognition.

"It isn't an easy time to focus on health, fitness and weight loss. It's a time for indoor activity; it's a time when going out to eat often replaces going outside for a walk," he said. "It's a time when prime time TV and late night pizza are all too common. These contestants had to be on guard. Everybody needs to be congratulated."

INKSTER - WAYNE

15 to vie for 9 Charter Commission terms

More than 15 Inkster residents have filed petitions for election to the new Charter Commission, charged with recommending changes to the current Inkster City Charter.

The commission will be tasked with reviewing the city charter and recommending updates and changes, a task overwhelmingly approved by voters on March 8.

While the proposal on the ballot did not list any specific charter revisions, Mayor Byron Nolen suggested a change from the current city manager form of government to a strong mayor system, with the mayor as the chief executive in the city during his State of the City address earlier this year.

Following the decision of the voters, Nolen said that there was a process now in place with the establishment of a nine-member commission and he would wait to see what changes the new commissioners might suggest.

Among those filing for the nine available three-year terms were: Fred Bishop, Jr.; Ellis Clifton; Fleeta Shaw Fleming; Michael A. Givens; Shirley A. Hankerson; Marcus Hendricks; Darwin Howard; Norma Diane McDaniel; William S. Miller; Connie Rose Mitchell; Courtney J.

Owens; Deborah Owens; James L. Richardson; Octavia Smith and George V. Williams.

Voters will be asked Nov. 8 to choose the nine-member commission from the candidates who have filed with the Wayne County clerk.

Upscale home plan OK'd

Members of the Westland City Council have approved the site plan for a new upscale home development on the site of the former Nankin Mills Elementary School.

The 7.39 acre development will be called Nankin Mills Subdivision and will be located at the north side of Ann Arbor Trail, at Hubbard Road, west of Merriam Road.

The developer, Anson Development, is proposing a 31-lot subdivision which will contain city streets, concrete sidewalks, street lighting and street trees, as required for all residential development.

Anson Development has proposed three models of single-family homes in the project including a 2,270 square foot, four-bedroom colonial; a 2,365 square foot three-bedroom colonial and a 2,527 square foot, four-bedroom colonial. All homes will be constructed with a brick exterior on all four sides to the top of the first floor, according to the site plans presented to the city council for approval.

The development will also contain a storm water detention pond at the east end of the site on the adjacent Livonia Public Schools property. A 24-square foot monument identification sign will be placed at each entrance of the subdivision, according to the plans.

"The demand for new, upscale homes in Westland is really starting to take off following Westland's recognition by Wall Street 24/7 as one of the top 50 communities for young families," commented Mayor William Wild. "New families are really attracted by Westland's schools and high quality affordable living lifestyle."

which leaves $1,193,900 being funded by the state.

As part of the road work, crews will remove and replace deficient sections of concrete including handicap ramps and pavement sealing. At least one lane for traffic will be accessible from both directions at all times for the duration of the project, according to the statement.

The project is scheduled to be completed during this construction season.

Newburgh repairs planned

The City of Westland is partnering with the Michigan Department of Transportation on concrete repair work on Newburgh Road.

The work will take place along Newburgh Road from north of Ford Road to Warren Road, according to a prepared release from the office of Mayor William Wild.

The total cost of the project is $1,426,660 and Westland will pay $264,760
