State OKs DeHoCo demolition funds

The state of Michigan has a responsibility to remove this unsightly eyesore...

The demolition of the former Detroit House of Corrections facility in Plymouth Township awaits only the signature of Gov. Rick Snyder.

Last week, the state Senate unanimously approved legislation that will provide up to $4 million to demolish the two unsightly buildings located on Five Mile Road.

"The support for the DeHoCo demolition is great to see, as the community agrees this site is long overdue for remediation," said Rep. Kurt Heise, R-Plymouth Township. "The state of Michigan has a responsibility to remove this unsightly eyesore that has been hindering economic development and job creation along the Five Mile Road corridor."

House Bill 5163 would close the Urban Land Assembly Fund (ULALF) and transfer approximately $4 million to the Michigan Land Bank Fast Track Fund. The Fast Track Fund currently controls the property that has been unusable for approximately 30 years.

Heise emphasized that additional federal, state and local funding would be needed to remove the two buildings on the property and completely rehabilitate the site for possible future development.

"This legislation is perhaps the most significant step," said Heise. "The support this bill has received, from the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce to Wayne County to Michigan Talent and Economic Development, along with the strong majority votes in the Legislature tells me we can get this done. I look forward to getting Gov. Rick Snyder's signature on this legislation."

Friendly persuasion Annual Rouge Rescue seeking area volunteers

Some very special friends will converge on the Rouge River this month to help protect the waterway and the environment.

Volunteers will join members of Friends of the Rouge to transform 20 project sites along the Rouge River in 17 communities during the 30th annual Rouge Rescue event May 21. Additional work days will also take place at various locations throughout May and June.

"This year's Rouge Rescue event is special because it celebrates 30 years of progress in both water quality and community involvement," said Cyndi Ross, river restoration program manager for Friends of the Rouge. "It's rewarding to see the community come together to make positive change in the watershed, but our efforts are far from over, and we can't do it alone."

Friends of the Rouge is recruiting more than 2,000 volunteers to participate in the river restoration effort to improve the ecosystem within the Rouge River watershed. Volunteers will help with habitat restoration by removing trash, debris, and invasive species, planting native trees and wildflowers, and building and maintaining land and waterways.

"After 29 years of cleanup efforts, we're seeing less dumping and more recreation along the river," Ross added. "We also have a wider variety of wildlife along the river than 30 years ago. Today, more than 75 species of fish and amphibians call the river home, one of the tell-tale signs of improvement."

Past years have seen area volunteers remove hundreds of cubic yards of trash and invasive species of plants from the Rouge River and surrounding banks. Volunteers are needed again this year.

Last year during the Rouge Rescue, volunteers were responsible for removing 110 cubic yards of trash and 230 cubic yards of invasive species as well as planting more than 2,900 native plants and maintaining more than 3,000 feet of trails, Ross said.

Since 1986, more than 57,000 Friends of the Rouge volunteers have contributed more than 140,000 hours at Rouge Rescue events and removed enough trash to fill more than 2,000 garbage trucks, she added.

Communities benefiting from the 2016 Rouge Rescue include Beverly Hills, Birmingham, Canton, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Detroit, Farmington Hills, Livonia, Northville, Northville Township, Novi, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Southfield, Wayne, and

Westland.

Major sponsors for the 2016 Rouge Rescue include American Foundation, Bosch Community Fund, Consumers Energy Foundation, Denso International America, Inc., Erb Family Foundation, ITC Holdings Corp., Lush Cosmetics, Masco Corporation Foundation, and Pure Oakland Water.

Supreme court rejects township land appeal

Judges at the Michigan Supreme Court have denied the appeal of Plymouth Township for a rehearing of the township claim to 190 acres of property improperly purchased at a tax foreclosure sale in September of 2011.

The Supreme Court issued the judgment in an official order Tuesday in which the justices stated that the motion for immediate consideration of the appeal or an expedited hearing was granted but that the application of the township to appeal the lower court decision was denied, "because we are not persuaded that the questions presented should be reviewed by the court." Township attorney Kevin Bennett and special counsel for the township Michael Cox had convinced the members of the township board to appeal the February 2015 decision of Circuit Court Judge Robert Colombo which was previously upheld by the Michigan State Court of Appeals in January.

The long-running dispute centers on ownership of the land which was part of a 323-acre parcel south of Five Mile and west of Ridge Road. After being notified by the township of non-payment of taxes on the land, Wayne County Treasurer foreclosed on the property, erroneously recorded as belonging to Demco 54, and offered the site at a tax sale. The township then purchased the land for $600,000 from the county at the sale. The actual owner of the land was the City of Detroit where attorneys subsequently sued the township to regain the property on the tax rolls at one time for more than $15 million.

The property had been split into two parcels, one purchased by Demco and the other remaining the property of Detroit. Tax notices allegedly went to Demco which did not pay any tax on either portion of the land. There can be no further appeal of the Supreme Court decision and the title to the land must be returned to Detroit.

To recoup the $600,000 paid for the land, the township will now have to pursue legal redress or negotiation with Wayne County.

County officials have contended since the tax sale was first contested by Detroit that their actions were based solely on information submitted to them from Plymouth Township and that the county has no liability in the issue.

PLYMOUTH

Barone will seek election to commission

Incumbent Wayne County Commissioner Joe Barone (R-Plymouth Township) has announced his candidacy to retain his seat on the Wayne County Commission. He currently serves the 10th District, representing the communities of Canton Township, City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township. Barone was appointed to his seat by his fellow commissioners in April 2015 to fill a vacancy created when former commissioner Shannon Price was appointed as Plymouth Township Supervisor.

Barone was immediately tasked with the responsibility of helping to pull the county out of a financial crisis after the State of Michigan declared that Wayne County was in a financial emergency. On Aug. 6, 2015, Barone, along with most of his colleagues, voted to enter into a consent agreement with the state, as opposed to the more drastic measures of a bankruptcy declaration or the appointment of an emergency manager.

"I wanted to make sure our residents still had a say in their county government," Barone said. "An emergency manager or bankruptcy would have completely stripped us of all local control."

Since taking office, Barone has led the charge in opposition to any future "summer surprise" property tax increases without voter input, referring to the 2015 judgment levy that was imposed on taxpayers to pay for a judgment entered against the county related to unfunded pension obligations. Among his other accomplishments, he cited successful implementation of Township Road Initiative funding, fighting for continued funding for the Western Wayne County

Therapeutic Recreation program and the completion of several major road construction projects within the district.

Canton Township Supervisor Phil LaJoy said of Barone, "Joe has served us well as our Wayne County Commissioner over the past year. His leadership and hard work for our community has been outstanding during this difficult financial time for Wayne County. We need leaders like Joe representing us at the county level of government."

According to Barone, since taking office, through the leadership and cooperation of CEO Warren Evans and the commission, the county has eliminated its $52 million structural deficit as well as its $82 million accumulated deficit.

"We have reduced unfunded financial obligations by $1 billion and we are now on a course to once again have a financially stable Wayne County," Barone said. "For the first time in eight years, we actually have a budget surplus. I am hopeful that Wayne County will be out of this financial emergency within the next few months."

"A financially stable Wayne County is essential to all of us here in Canton and Plymouth to ensure that we see the return on our property tax investment that our residents so rightfully deserve," Barone added. "I will continue fighting for that return on investment for the residents of the 10th District."

As a 20-year resident of Wayne County, Barone said it's been an honor serving his constituents and that he wants to continue fighting on their behalf while furthering the progress towards a financially stable Wayne County.

"We've made a lot of progress in a very short period of time, but our work is not done. I want to continue that hard work," Barone said.

"It's critical that we prevent a recurrence of past practices so we can have a better Wayne County for our children, our families and future generations to come."

Condo countdown

The first of five planned buildings in the newest housing development in Plymouth is on schedule with a model scheduled to open by the end of June, developers said. The site, a 5-acre parcel on Plymouth Road between Hines Drive and Haggerty Road, will include five multi-family condominium buildings with 14 units in each. The complex is less than a mile from downtown Plymouth and borders on Hines Drive and Old Village. The units will be, "high-end with a low-end price tag," said builder Dani Veri of Livonia Builders. "We're now in drywall stage," said Veri. "We'll be excited to show off the first model very soon. The 1200 square foot units start in the low 200s." The first building is almost sold out according to Canton real estate agent Chris Karapatakis. Sales are being handled by Remetec Hometown III. Photo by Dan Howard

The Heritage Park large ponds will once again be stocked with rainbow trout for this annual event, plus bluegills will be available in the smaller pond for younger participants.

Banquet generates $8,000 for health program

An evening of shopping and fashion generated more than $8,000 for Saint Joseph Mercy Health System ShapeDown program last month.

Members of the Giving Hope, Women's Giving Circle hosted their signature annual charity event April 13 at Fox Hills Golf & Banquet Center when 150 women attended to support the effort to bring ShapeDown to the Canton and Plymouth area. ShapeDown is a weight management program for families where parents and children aged 6-18 work together with a social worker, registered dietitian and exercise specialist to how healthy eating, an active lifestyle and effective communication promote weight loss and family unity.

"We appreciate so many community women coming out to make the event a success," said Betty Block, the event chairperson. "The funds raised from the event will allow more youth to participate in St. Joe's ShapeDown fitness classes."

This event marked the fourth annual fundraiser of the Giving Hope, Women's Giving Circle which has raised an average of $10,000 annually for community projects. The Women's Giving Circle is a donor-advised fund of the Canton Community Foundation that provides grants to address the needs of women and families in the greater Canton and Plymouth area. Grants have been awarded to the Plymouth-Canton community Schools Clothing Bank and Early Childhood programs as well as for children's furniture at First Step Temporary Emergency Housing.

2 treated at hospital following serious house fire

Canton Firefighters were called to the 8000 block of Rolling Meadow Drive at midnight April 25 to rescue two occupants reportedly trapped inside a burning home.

According to reports of the incident, firefighters on the responding emergency vehicles observed heavy smoke from the area but were advised by the dispatcher that the occupants had managed to escape the home but may have been injured. Firefighters arrived on the scene and found the attached garage and a vehicle in the driveway fully involved in fire with heavy smoke inside the home. Wearing protective clothing and self-contained breathing apparatus firefighters were able to quickly extinguish the fire and began check the interior of the home for fire extension, according to officials reports.

One of the residents of the home was taken to the hospital by fire department paramedics as a precaution.

The Canton Fire Department Fire Investigation Unit was called to the scene and the fire remains under investigation but is believed to be accidental, according to official reports of the incident.

ROMULUS

New business is brewing up signature tastes

A new business is heading to downtown Romulus, bringing a signature taste to the community.

Pending approvals, a new microbrewery will open this year at 35542 Goddard, in the heart of the downtown district.

Dick Kasaba and Brian Bush, partners in Artisan's Reserve, Inc., petitioned the city council members for a liquor license approval for the microbrewery last week.

"We're not at bar, we're a manufacturer of what we consider to be the most classic beers in the world," said Kasaba. "It's something I learned from my grandfather 70 years ago."

He said they intended to sell four different types of beer when they open including a Romulus Red Ale and expand up to eight as the business grows. He and Bush will brew the beer in an old-fashioned way, so there won't be a need for the gigantic metal vats seen at other microbreweries.

"It'll be made the way beer was made

200 years ago," he said. "It's a natural process."

Kasaba and Bush may not seem the typical microbrewery owners. Kasaba is an attorney with a long history of legal practice in the Dearborn area and Bush is a student at Michigan State University pursuing an education as a physicist and a few credits shy of his degree. The two are neighbors in Dearborn.

The microbrewery will have some local seating as well as takeouts. The beers will also be available for sale in bottles.

The building is owned by the Romulus Downtown Development Authority (DDA), and Bush and Kasaba have a three-year lease on it. Bush said he was surprised by how quickly the plan came together.

"This opportunity was a surprise," he said. "The city was very welcoming. They have been great to work with."

He said the building itself doesn't require much renovation and he hoped to have the brewery open later this summer. He said he hoped to be a part of a resurgence in the downtown area.

"Downtown Romulus is really going to be something in a few years. It's going to be the place to be," he said. "We want to help bring some additional foot traffic to the downtown area."

However, the Planning Commission or the Administrative Review Committee may limit compliance with this Article to only the portion of the building affected by the proposed alteration, provided that the materials and colors of the altered portion of the building complement the materials and colors of the existing unaltered portion of the building.
(b) For an addition proposed to an existing building, the materials of the existing portion of the building may be utilized for the proposed addition, provided that the following conditions are met:
(i) The addition does not exceed one hundred percent (100%) of the existing building floor area.
(ii) The facade of the existing portion of the building does not consist of materials or colors that would be prohibited under Section 9 or 4 of this Article.
(iii) All new facades substantially constitute a continuation of the existing facades relative to color, texture, size, height, and location of materials.
(iv) The visual effect is to make the addition appear as part of the existing building.

High school students earn college degrees

A very special group of graduates received their diplomas this week at Romulus High School.

In addition to their high school diplomas, 23 were awarded Associates Degrees from Wayne County Community College District which they earned while completing their required high school courses. Another 12 students enrolled in the Early College partnership between the high school and college will transfer the college credits they earned in high school to the college or school of their choice.

This is the first group of students enrolled in the program to graduate, a district spokesperson said.

The partnership between Romulus High School and Wayne County Community College District is unique. Similar programs only allow students to earn college credits for classes, while the Romulus partnership allows students the opportunity to earn an associate's degree.

"We are extremely excited to have our first class graduating. These kids have worked very hard and have been amazing throughout the entire process," said Liza Mockerside, Early College Director for Romulus Community Schools.

Mayor's appointments approved by council members

Members of the Westland City Council recently confirmed appointments to the Brownfield Redevelopment Authority and the Economic Development Corporation/Tax Increment Finance Authority.

Antoinette Martin was re-appointed to the Brownfield Redevelopment Authority. She and her husband, Daniel, have lived in Westland for 27 years. Martin is a financial advisor with Ameriprise Financial Services in Dearborn and has served on the Brownfield Redevelopment Authority for five years. She also sits on the board of the Westland Rotary Club and is a member of Commerce member.

The Brownfield Redevelopment Authority is an 11-member board appointed by the mayor and approved by city council members. The board meets following the submission of a Brownfield Redevelopment Plan and facilitates business and property owners in redeveloping brownfield sites throughout Westland.

James Allen was re-appointed to the Tax Increment Finance Authority (TIFA). Allen has been a financial literacy facilitator and relationship manager at Fifth Third Bank in Westland for eight years. He has been a member of TIFA for four years and also partners with the city on the Wild About Youth Works! Summer Employment Program.

The Tax Increment Finance Authority is a nine-member board that is appointed by the mayor and confirmed by city council and is under the supervision and control of the Economic Development Corp. This authority implements an infrastructure improvement plan within a specified district. Improvements to date include construction of the William F. Faust Public Library and adjacent performance pavilion, numerous road widening and utility projects and pedestrian and landscaping improvements and the new Westland City Hall.

"Antoinette's re-appointment comes at a time where the Brownfield Redevelopment Authority will be particularly busy with the development of the available 20 acres of Ford Road property which was the site of the former Westland City Hall, Fire Station 1 and Bailey Recreation Center," commented Mayor William Wild.

"James has been an integral member of the EDC and TIFA Board during the new fire station and new city hall project which has won numerous awards and received many accolades."

Rounding Third now on stage

Typing Point Theatre continues the 2015-2016 season with Rounding Third by Richard Dresser.

The play chronicles the hilarious journey of two Little League coaches through an entire season, from their first tentative meeting to the climactic championship game.

Don is the tough, blue-collar, win-at-all-costs veteran coach whose son is the star pitcher. Michael is a newcomer to baseball, who believes that the job of the coach is to make sure everyone has fun. Don thinks they should be teaching the kids how to win. Out of conflicting philosophies on competition, character, and punctuality, the real issues of the play emerge: How should we raise our children? Do we protect our children as long as possible? Or do we prepare them to be tough enough to win?

Sponsored in part by Plante Moran, Rounding Third runs through May 8.

The curtain rises at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays, with matinees at 3 p.m. on Saturday and 2 p.m. on Sunday.

The theater is located at 361 E. Cady St. in Northville.

Tickets are $20 to $23 for adults, $28 to $31 for students and senior citizens. For tickets or more information call the box office from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday at (248) 347-0003.

A co-production with Williamston Theatre.
