Inkster beating victim receives $1.37 million

The City of Inkster will pay Floyd Dent $1.37 million in damages following his brutal beating by a police officer during a traffic stop last January that drew national attention.

Interim Police Chief Joseph Thomas, Jr. said that he felt the award was fair and a step in putting the incident behind the police department, the city and all those people involved.

"It was an incident that everyone wishes had not happened," Thomas said. He said that both the City Treasurer Mark Stuhldreher and the city attorneys should be commended for the way they negotiated the settlement.

"Mr. Dent and his attorney, Gregory Rohl, were also humanistic in their approach to this.

"It was an incident that everyone wishes had not happened... This is a win-win in a losing situation."

They know the city of Inkster doesn't have a lot of money," Thomas said. "This is a win-win in a losing situation."

Thomas, who has been with the department only about a month, said he was surprised by the reception he's received.

"I didn't expect a lot of push-back, but I didn't expect this level of cooperation, either," he said.

Thomas replaced former chief Vickie Yost who resigned

April 22 in the immediate aftermath of misconduct in office, mistreatment of a prisoner and assault charges filed against one Inkster officer and the suspension of two others in the Dent incident. Thomas added that he felt the department "has done due diligence" in the investigation of the beating incident.

"People expect us to hold our officers accountable and that is what we will do. But we are not on any witch hunt, here. These officers are people, too. We have mothers, fathers, grandmothers who work in this department. They are good people who do their jobs well. They are good police officers and we don't want them painted with a broad brush," he said.

The new chief said he came to the department with an open attitude and one of listening to what the officers had to tell him and to say.

"We have standards, rules, regulations and we want the officers who do their job every day and do it well to know that we will stand behind them and compliment them when they do their jobs well.

"But we have also sent a

Plymouth community mourns Margaret Dunning

Margaret Dunning, 104, a beloved figure in Plymouth, died last Sunday, May 17 while in Santa Barbara, California, after suffering injuries in an accidental fall.

Mrs. Dunning was renowned throughout the community for her kindness, intelligence and generosity. She was a friend to many throughout southeast Michigan and was the founder and benefactor of the Plymouth Historical Museum.

"Once in a person's life can one meet, and have as a friend, a lovely woman who will impact you in so many ways with her vitality, love of people, pride in her community, and dedication to causes.

"Margaret was truly caring, down to earth, unpretentious and giving of her time. The board, staff, volunteers, and Friends of the Plymouth Historical Museum will feel the loss of her presence for years to come.

"She has counted among her friends the world, celebrities, rajas and us. How privileged we have been for the opportunity to know Margaret.

"We will dearly miss her—our friend, our adviser, and our mentor," said Janet Burns of the Plymouth Historical Museum.

Ms. Dunning was born June 26, 1910 the daughter of Charles and Bessie Dunning, on a farm at Plymouth Road and Telegraph in Redford

Margaret Dunning exhibited her perfectly restored 1930 Packard 740 Roadster in auto shows across the country until her death this week.

Township. She would have celebrated her 105th birthday next month.

Her father taught her to steer his Model T when she was 8 and she ran "smack into the barn." She was 12 when he died and she got her driver's license and his Model T. became her first car. She and her mother moved to the home on Penniman Avenue where Ms. Dunning continued to reside.

She graduated from Plymouth High School in 1929 and attended the University of Michigan for 2 years before the Great Depression forced her to leave college to help her mother in the family-owned bank where she started at the bottom rung, as a teller.

Ms. Dunning volunteered in Plymouth's Red Cross motor pool during World War II, driving a truck. In 1947, she purchased Goldstein's Apparel on Main Street in downtown Plymouth, renaming it Dunning's Department Store. She sold her business in 1968 and became a community philanthropist.

From 1962 to 1984, Ms. Dunning served on the board of Community Federal Credit Union, including 19 years as president. During her tenure, the Credit Union increased its

Township recall group to end efforts next week

An announcement of the end of the recall effort against three Plymouth Township officials is expected next week.

Sandy Groth, one of the organizers of the recall effort, said that while the group was able to collect 15,000 signatures from residents in favor of the recall ballot question, they were not able to collect the signatures within the time allotted by election law.

"Unfortunately, we weren't able to get the required number of signatures per candidate in any one 60-day period, but we knew going in we had an uphill battle," she said.

The recall was aimed at Township Treasurer Ron Edwards, Township Clerk

"We haven't gone away. We need to focus on what we accomplished. We're tired. But we're not gone."

Nancy Conzelman and Trustee Kay Arnold. Former Supervisor Richard Reaume was also the target of the recall effort but resigned his office and moved to Florida before the signature deadline.

Groth said that she felt that the recall effort accomplished a great deal in the time the activists attempted to obtain the signatures. She said the group collected about 3,700 signatures per official.

"We stood together and refused to allow our elected officials to conquer and divide us," she said. "We found common ground, things we believe in that we can continue to speak for and fight for," she added.

Groth said she was very proud of the number of volunteers who put in so many hours collecting signatures, people who went out in inclement weather and were tireless in their efforts to "help change township government."

Groth said the group, Plymouth Township United Citizens, will be changing focus and will be working on keeping residents informed about the 2016 elections. The group will maintain the PAC bank account and continue to use the funds they collected in efforts to educate voters about candidates and issues in the election next year.

"We haven't gone away," she said. "We need to focus on what we accomplished. We had the opportunity to educate citizens. That's huge. It's a really big accomplishment," she said.

"We're tired. But we're not gone," she added.

CANTON

On the job

Canton Township Deputy Fire Chief Chris Stoecklein, left, welcomed new firefighter/paramedics Samuel Wieland and Gregory Derby to the department after they took their oaths of office from Township Clerk Terry Bennett last week. Fire Chief Josh Meier, right, congratulated the new firefighters who be required to successfully complete three months of mentored orientation and training prior to being on an assigned shift. The new firefighters will be on probation for one year while they complete an extensive training program, Stoecklein said.

Coffee With A Cop served

Canton Township residents can enjoy Coffee with a Cop from 10 a.m. until noon June 5 at Sky Zone Indoor Trampoline Park.

The Coffee with a Cop sessions are open to the public and provide a unique opportunity for community members to ask questions and learn more about the police department work in Canton neighborhoods and business districts.

The majority of contacts law enforcement has with the public happen during emergencies or stressful situations and those are not the most effective times for relationship building, a spokesperson said. Coffee with a Cop breaks down barriers and allows for relaxed one-on-one interaction, he added.

The Canton Police Department will host multiple sessions throughout the community this year. Any business or organization interested in hosting a 2-hour session of Coffee with a Cop contact the police department at (734) 394-5401.

Requirements to host a session of Coffee with a Cop include having a Canton location that is open to the public and providing coffee for those who attend. Sky Zone is located at 42550 Executive Dr. Children will be permitted to jump on the trampolines under staff supervision during the event for $5.

Lifesavers are honored

The Canton Board of Trustees recognized several Canton Leisure Services staff members at the May 12 board meeting for their recent life-saving rescues at the Summit on the Park.

Canton Supervisor Phil LaJoy presented 20 Canton Leisure Services staff with official board resolutions that recognized their dedication to duty, outstanding service, life-saving actions and commendable contribution to the Canton community.

Three groups of responders were honored for performing life-saving measures for incidents that occurred in early 2015:

On Jan. 31, lifeguard Collin Hurley observed a patron in the water of the lap pool not moving and in obvious distress. Hurley immediately responded by blowing his whistle which activated the emergency action plan, then jumped into the water to begin the rescue.

Working together, the lifeguard team of Sorin Oprican, Jordan Anheuser, Nathan Hall, Hurley, Grant Kurili, Lilly Lepper, Levi Lowder, Alex Petrarca, and Elizabeth Wiessner dialed 911, assessed the victim's condition, evacuated all pools, provided emergency equipment, and performed two and a half cycles of CPR on the victim who regained consciousness prior to Canton Fire EMS arriving on the scene.

Because of the team's quick actions and ability to apply their lifesaving skills, the life of the Summit guest was saved, according to township reports of the incident.

On Feb. 10, Lifeguard Lindsey Bessinger observed a patron in the water at the Summit Aquatics north river area who appeared to be losing consciousness and in obvious distress.

Bessinger immediately responded by activating the emergency action plan, then jumped into the water to begin the rescue. The team of Sorin Oprican, Lindsey Bessinger, Kaylin Huber, John Kukulka, Connor Osborn, and Lisa Ryan simultaneously pulled the victim out of the water and dialed 911. They then assessed the victim's condition and observed the guest was breathing and had a pulse. Additionally, they evacuated all pools and provided emergency equipment per established department protocol until the Canton Fire EMS arrived and took over.

On March 27, Summit Building Attendant Stephen Robb responded to the Arts II Room for a guest in need of medical attention, and he initiated the emergency action plan.

Simultaneously a 911 call was made, lifeguard assistance was requested, and all pool areas were evacuated. Upon arrival of the lifeguards, the victim was slumped over a table with no detectable pulse. Working together, the team of Sorin Oprican, Avalon Dewaele, Rachel Hughesdon, Charles Joyce, Hannah Maxam, David Rowe, and Lisa Ryan performed CPR and applied the Automatic External Defibrillator, which indicated a shock was necessary. The shock was administered and CPR was resumed until the victim began breathing on his own prior to the arrival of the Canton Fire EMS. Because of this team's quick actions, ability to assess the need for CPR and an AED, and performance of their lifesaving skills, the life of the Summit guest was saved, according to township reports of the incident.

"I am proud of these dedicated staff members who uphold our mission of providing a safe environment for all of our guests in all of our facilities" said Debra Bilbrey-Honsowetz, director of Canton Leisure Services. "These individuals represent the best in public service and I could not have asked for better responses from our staff."

Canton Leisure Services has been recognized for excellence in the field of parks and recreation management by receiving re-accreditation in 2013 and remains one of only 136 agencies in the country currently holding national accreditation from the Commission for Accreditation of Park and Recreation Agencies (CAPRA). City unveils memorials to fallen fire fighters

It was a solemn crowd that gathered recently in Westland City Hall to mark the dedication of two memorial plaques for deceased firefighters.

Mayor William R. Wild spoke at the gathering of local officials, firefighters, police officers, and residents to dedicate the plaques, one to memorialize Todd Stanaway, a firefighter who died of cancer in 2008 and the other in memory of Brian Woelke, the only Westland firefighter to die in the line of duty. Woelke died as firefighters battled a blaze at a city restaurant on Ford Road, exactly two years before the dedication. While his death has been ruled a homicide due to arson at the business, there have been no arrests in the incident.

Wild expressed his personal sorrow at the deaths of the two men and acknowledged their heroism and courage. He said the city recognizes the impact the losses of both the men made on the city and the Westland Fire Department.

“These two men unselfishly dedicated their lives to the firefighting profession putting service above self,” Wild told the assembled crowd. “We express our condolences to their families we honor their memories today as we dedicate these plaques to Todd Stanaway and Brian Woelke. Their service and commitment will never be forgotten.”

Firefighters Union President Mitch Tokarski shared Wild's sentiments.

“The firefighters and union are pleased to donate the funds needed for these plaques and just as we were honored to work with these two fine public servants, we are honored to recognize them here today. Rest assured the Westland Fire Department will always be grateful to have counted Todd and Brian among our colleagues and friends.

“We, too, wish their loved ones all the best,” said Tokarski.

The plaques are on display at Westland City Hall.

All charges dropped against Wayne candidate

The last criminal charge facing Wayne City Council candidate Christopher Sanders, 46, has been dismissed by Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Alexis Glendening.

“My confidence in the judicial system has been rewarded,” Sanders said. “I said from the beginning of this nightmare that I never did anything wrong. These allegations were patently false.”

Sanders initially faced a litany of felony charges after a police report was filed in Wayne regarding the 2013 HalloWayne Pumpkin Carving Contest. The reported winner of the contest, Mike Spence, claimed that he did not enter the contest and never received the $1,000 cash prize.

The police report, based on Spence's claims, alleged that Sanders put the $1,000 prize in his personal checking account after signing Spence's name as an endorsement. The contest was sponsored by Destination Wayne and the Wayne Chamber of Commerce.

A series of text messages between Spence and Sanders appeared to completely exonerate Sanders of all the claims made in the police report and contradict Spence's testimony in the matter. The messages were submitted to the prosecutors in the case, Sanders explained, and were proven legitimate.

“Once again, politically-motivated gossip prompted this malicious and unfounded prosecution,” Sanders said. “I am strongly considering civil action against the people who went on record with these falsehoods, including Nicole Vargas who filed this spurious police report and Michael Spence who perjured himself in court.”

Five of the six charges in the case were almost immediately dismissed last year by Garden City District Judge Richard Hammer, Jr. who said that the elements of proof had not been met in the fraud charges. Hammer did allow the charge of identity theft related to the check for the prize money to go forward to circuit court.

A mistrial was declared on the identity theft charge earlier this year.

“This was another political witch hunt and this has attempted to do irreparable damage to my reputation,” Sanders said. “People who know me stood by me during this entire ordeal and I will never forget the importance of their support, their belief in me and their trust in me. It meant more than I can say in the face of this ordeal.

“They have helped strengthen my resolve to continue to defend myself against these nasty, gossiping, unchristian bullies,” he added.

Sanders recently announced his candidacy for the Wayne City Council in Ward One and will face resident Alfred Brock, a write-in candidate, for the seat.

Sanders was represented by Canton Township attorney Ronald Ruark.

Hansen, Lucille Mae
 Lucille Mae Hansen, formerly of Romulus, currently of Belleville, passed away on May 16, 2015 at the age of 80 with her family by her side. Mrs. Hansen was born on March 12, 1935 in Detroit to the late Justus and Kathleen Federer. An active member of the American Legion Post 111 of Wayne, she served as post historian and was on the Executive Board. She dedicated her life to raising her family, but was also very active. She loved socializing, and playing Bingo and Bunco, as well as the work she did with the Legion. She was the loving wife of the late James F. Hansen; cherished mother of Vera Ann (Jim) Parker and Shirley Mae Hansen; dear sister of Ruth M. (William) Wright, Nadine G. (Mark) Richman and the late Carole Ann Taylor; beloved grandmother of Joey and Nicole Nelski; dearest aunt of William and Wayne Wright and Catherine Wright-Volante. She is also survived by her loving friend and care provider Lydia Mullins. Arrangements entrusted to the Harry J. Will Funeral Home in Wayne.

Citizens Academy participants 'graduate'

Seventeen local residents recently graduated from the inaugural Citizens Academy.

The 14-week course was designed to strengthen the bond between the city Department of Public Safety and the community, according to a spokesman. Some of the class members are already active in Neighborhood Watch groups and wanted to continue to learn how to keep their neighborhood safe and cooperate with police.

The Citizens Academy offered Romulus residents and business owners a better understanding of the inner workings of both the police and fire departments through instruction in their histories and organizational structures, the spokesman continued. The police department shared the way crime patterns are predicted and analyzed, crime scene investigations, traffic enforcement, use of force and community policing techniques. Students in the academy also had the opportunity to interact with police canines and the police bomb robot, as well as tour the 911 center and use shooting simulators.

Firefighters provided a tour of their headquarters and gave interactive demonstrations of the specialized clothing and equipment utilized in firefighting and vehicle extrication. University of Michigan Survival Flight also participated in the academy by landing a helicopter for students to have a "hands on" experience while learning about the Emergency Medical Services offered within the community. Students were invited to attend the Fire Expo, a trade show, as well as an aside to their academy experience.

Seventeen Romulus residents recently celebrated their graduation from the Citizens Academy as local officials congratulated them on their accomplishment. A second session is planned this fall.

The April 15 graduation was the culmination of the Academy class, but graduates will likely continue to be called upon by department employees to serve as volunteers in various capacities, the city spokesman said.

Based on the success of the inaugural class, Romulus will continue the program with a second class currently being planned for this fall. Interested residents should contact the mayor's office (734) 942-7541 to register for the next session.

strong message that any breach of ethics won't be tolerated," he said. "That's what people deserve and expect."

Thomas said that he had spoken with nearly every officer in the department and in his opinion the sworn officers were open and receptive to his ideas about training, equipment, a culture change and the direction of the department.

"They know what's expected," he said, "but I must say this. The things I heard about Inkster; I did not and have not seen. The negative stigma Inkster has received, just isn't deserved. This is a good department with good people."

He's a man who should know. Thomas joined the Southfield Police Department on April 8, 1991. He served as the director of public safety in Albion and also worked at the Jackson Police Department.

Thomas has extensive training in police, fire and emergency management operations and is a graduate of the Michigan State Police School of Management, the National Fire Academy and the FBI National Academy, according to credentials listed on the Southfield website.

Thomas said he came to Inkster because Inkster "chose me."

"I sent out six letters and Inkster was the first one to respond. Inkster called twice and Ferguson (Missouri) called me, but I had committed to Inkster:

"I'm duty bound by my oath to the state, the county and the City of Inkster to provide the best leadership I can for this department," he said.

Robbery suspect arrested

Tips from the public led Michigan State Police to a suspect in a recent armed robbery in Inkster.

According to Michigan State Police, Second District Special Investigation Section (SIS), Kyrrah Carter, 23, of Romulus, has been arrested and charged in the robbery and non-fatal shooting at the Marathon gas station at the intersection of Avondale and Inkster Road which occurred at 4:45 p.m. April 24.

Michigan State Police asked for help from the public in identifying a suspect seen on surveillance tapes. Tips led investigators to Carter, who was arraigned May 14 in the 20th District Court in Inkster on charges including assault with intent to murder; armed robbery, assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder; felon in possession of firearm; assault with a dangerous weapon and felony firearms.

He received a $100,000 bond from the court.

State police said that without the cooperation of the Inkster Police Department and the public, the crime might have gone unsolved.

NORTHVILLE - PLYMOUTH

City of Northville to request road millage

Voters in the City of Northville will have an extra issue on the Aug. 4 primary ballot.

Last week, members of the city council unanimously approved ballot language requesting a 2.25 mill levy dedicated to repair and improve streets, drainage and sidewalks in the city. If approved by voters, the cost to the average homeowner in Northville will be about $270 per year, based on a home assessed at $120,000 or with a market value of about $240,000. The question was prompted, in part, officials said by voters' rejection earlier this month of the state proposal increasing the sales tax to repair all state roads and bridges.

Northville residents currently pay a millage approved by voters in 1997 for streets, drainage and sidewalk improvements and maintenance. This dedicated millage is expected to bring in $584,000 in 2017. Plans are to use $368,000 of that revenue to improve streets, drainage and sidewalks while $25,000 will be used for the annual crack sealing program. Another $35,000 is earmarked for the sidewalk repair and replacement program and $156,000 will be spent for local and major street maintenance and operations.

The current estimate for needed street improvements is

$1,337,000, which would be funded by revenue from the 2.25 mills on the August ballot, if voters approve the tax. The ballot language reads: "Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be imposed on taxable property in the City of Northville, Counties of Wayne and Oakland, Michigan be increased by 2.25 mills ($2.25 per thousand dollars of taxable value) for a period of fifteen (15) years, 2016 through 2030, as new additional millage in excess of the limitation imposed by Michigan Compiled Laws section 211.34d, to partially restore City Charter millage authorization previously approved by the electors as reduced by operation of the Headlee amendment, to provide funds for general operating purposes? It is estimated that 2.25 mills would raise approximately $753,000 when first levied in 2016."

Public funds for 'invitation only' party prompts questions

Don Howard
Staff Writer

Letters sent to businesses in Plymouth Township earlier this month soliciting donations for the annual Fourth of July picnic, fireworks and private party have prompted questions from residents about the propriety of using township funds to pay for what has become an invitation-only celebration, separate from the public event.

Treasurer Ron Edwards spearheads and organizes the celebration which includes a public fireworks display and picnic along with a far more upscale celebration open only to contributors and invited guests.

The solicitation letters request that donors make their checks payable to Plymouth Township, suggesting that the contributions are public funds.

If so, residents are asking, why is the private party hosted by Edwards restricted to invited-only guests? This year, it is estimated that about 700 guests will be invited to the pre-fireworks display event at the Hilltop Golf Course clubhouse on July 3, where beer, wine and food will be served.

The solicitation letter and invitation list obtained from Plymouth Township through a Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request detailed potential donors, referred to as "prominent citizens or corporations" and set the minimum contribution level for the holiday fireworks party at $1,000. One township official called the party "the hottest ticket in town."

According to the letter, the designated Silver sponsors who donate $1,000 will receive six VIP passes for the pre-show party, premium parking and seating. Gold designated donors who contribute $3,000 will receive 20 passes and those who donate $5,000 and are named as Platinum donors will receive 36 passes.

The instructions are clear in the letter, directing donors to make checks payable to Charter Township of Plymouth. The letter ends with a typewritten,

"Sincerely, Board of Trustees."

Rich Robinson, executive director of the Michigan Campaign Finance Network in Lansing said he was "stumped," when asked about the impropriety or legality of using of public funds to finance a private party. "You're talking about an appreciation party?... I'm stumped," Robinson said in a telephone interview on Monday. "That's a really interesting question."

Auditors from Plante Moran have previously stated that the annual township picnic and fireworks is a township event, adding that donations can be earmarked for that purpose, but if the township solicits and collects funds for the event the contributions are under the same restrictions as all other public funds, which would indicate that the pre-fireworks party should be open to the public. Township attorney Kevin Bennett did not return calls seeking comment on the question.

Trustee Bob Doroshewitz said he agrees with the auditor that the event is an official township celebration. Doroshewitz and his family members were actively involved as volunteers with the event before he resigned from any and all duties connected with the celebration following a disagreement with Edwards regarding accounting procedures. "It's my understanding from Plante Moran that this is a township event," Doroshewitz confirmed in a recent phone interview.

Perturbed long-time township resident Sue Socca said she thought $1,000 donor limit for the fireworks party was "too high" and felt that regardless of the amount of money contributed, the party should be open to all donors.

"If you donate money, you should be invited. Period," Socca said.

Critics claim that contributions to the event are integral to doing business with the township.

One source close to the situation but leery of reprisals said that Edwards failed to renew the contract for the maintenance of the police vehicles from an established local auto dealership and moved the work to a competitor who donates to the fireworks event. Another informed local businessman and contributor who also wished to remain anonymous for fear of retribution said that this was symptomatic of the manner in which business is often done in the township.

Documentation from the 4th of July event last year indicates that Edwards collected $65,000 for the event and that $40,000 was spent on the fireworks display in McClumpha Park.

Bill Carter, 75, has lived in the township for 25 years and said he's "trying to be objective" about the treasurer's private 4th of July party.

"Donating to the picnic is one thing, but to receive favors for your donation is a whole different story," Carter said.

"You're bordering on favoritism, I don't think there should be a party for the donors... all the money collected should go to the community."

Dunning

assets from $1 million to $40 million. In 1989, the board established the Margaret Dunning Scholarship Fund to honor her contributions to Plymouth.

She was awarded a full scholarship to the University of Michigan when she was 80 and said she would return to study business.

Mrs. Dunning was also famous across the country for her love of antique and collectable automobiles and was a regular driver at the Woodward Dream Cruise and the Michigan Concours d'Elegance. Her ability to care for her automobiles including changing the oil and spark plugs was admired and envied by many classic automotive experts.

She exhibited her perfectly restored 1930 Packard 740 Roadster in auto shows across the country including the California Concours d'Elegance where she chatted with Edsel Ford II and Henry Ford III about her recollections of Henry Ford, who was a neighbor of her family during her childhood.

State Rep. Kurt Heise lamented the passage of Mrs. Dunning and said her loss is one that will be deeply felt by the Plymouth community and many in Southeast Michigan.

"Margaret Dunning was an institution all herself," said Heise, R-Plymouth Township. "Even before coming to Plymouth, I knew her name and what she meant to the people in our town. She is irreplaceable, and she will be missed by all who knew her."

Heise said he often looked to Ms. Dunning as an example on how to be a better public servant.

"She never stopped listening, helping, contributing," Heise said, "To call her a model citizen would be a gross understatement. She embodied the spirit, independence, determination and productivity of the Plymouth community. Even with her passing, her zest for life lives on with the countless on whom she had a profound impact, including myself. I am honored to have known her."

Ms. Dunning was also remembered by former Plymouth Crier newspaper publisher W. Ed Wendover:

"Margaret Dunning was one of a kind," he said.

"I'm thankful to have learned so much from her while we served on the credit union board for many years and I enjoyed her friendship," he said.

"One of Plymouth, Michigan's finest moments was when our group went to Plymouth, England for the swearing in of the new Lord Mayor of Plymouth. There was a formal dinner, silver settings, Royal Marine Band playing for the 400-500 folks in the Guild Hall..."

"Margaret held sway during the dinner with two members of Parliament, the Lord Mayor, publisher of the Plymouth, England newspaper and others about the economic relations between US/Britain, etc. She was the belle of the ball."

Final arrangements for Ms. Dunning have been entrusted to the Schrader-Howell Funeral Home, 280 S. Main St. in Plymouth but were not available at press time.
