Committee promotes Canton road tax

Nancy Eggenberger, a member of the Canton Library Board of Directors, and Melissa McLaughlin, former Canton Township treasurer, have teamed up to promote an upcoming ballot issue.

The pair are co-chairing the private Fix Canton Roads Committee and have joined several other civic leaders to help solve the ongoing complaints about road maintenance in the township. The complaints and requests for repairs, along with safety issues, have been frequent topics at meetings of the Canton Township Board of Trustees and other community gatherings.

Township trustees have OK'd a 1.45 Canton Road Millage for the Tuesday, Aug. 7 primary election ballot, and have hosted public forums to inform voters about the need for the funding.

I want to change course and help improve Canton's roads.

The millage rate is assessed based on each $1,000 of State Equalized Value of property, usually half the market value of the home.

"If we do what we've always done, we will get what we've always got: I want to change course and help improve Canton's roads," McLaughlin said in a prepared release.

"I support this millage for two reasons: I'll save money by not having to repair my car from pothole damage, and it will improve the safety of the roads in Canton," added Eggenberger, a former Plymouth-Canton school board member.

The co-chairs emphasize Canton millage money will be used locally. The website www.canton-mi.org has additional information about the road millage and public meetings.

The Fix Canton Roads Committee prepared release noted the intersections at Haggerty and Lilley "rank in the top 10 in numbers of accidents in the state. This proposal will help position Ford Road to be added to the MDOT (Michigan Department of Transportation) 5-year Plan for boulevard funding."

If approved, the revenue distribution plan calls for main roads under Wayne County control to get 55 percent, or about $3 million; subdivision streets 30 percent, or about $1.6 million (a "co-pay" by the homeowners association will be required); and state roads of Ford Road and Michigan Avenue getting 15 percent, or about $800,000.

Canton Township trustees have publicly acknowledged poor road conditions, and their own frustrations.

"We all know people who have spent time and money repairing tires, rims and suspension. We also know people who live on crumbling subdivision roads with little help in getting them repaired. This affects not only our property values, but those of the entire community," the committee co-chairs summed up in the statement.

Belleville Strawberry Festival starts

Forty-two years ago, the Belleville area strawberry growers decided to get together with their friends at St. Anthony's Church to celebrate another season.

That community gathering has grown into the Belleville National Strawberry Festival, an event that celebrates the harvest of the sweet fruit and the essence of the Belleville area community. That small gathering of local farmers more than four decades ago has grown into a celebration that spans five venues in the community: Main Street, St. Anthony Church, Belleville Presbyterian Church, Trinity Church, and Victory Park. The event begins with a parade down Main Street at 11 a.m. Saturday which will include the reigning Strawberry Queen among the floats and displays.

Main Street features crafters, carnival midway, vendors and a children's area. Starting at 3:30 Saturday at Third Street and Main, the Fire Truck Pumper Pull Challenge will take place. Main Street also features a large gathering of juried crafters sponsored by the Belleville Central Business District.

Trinity Church features all things strawberry including pies, breads, jam and much more.

They also feature their famous Sloppy Joe lunches Saturday and Sunday. St. Anthony's features bingo, ethnic Polish food and traditional chicken dinners, live musical entertainment and a beer tent, helicopter rides and many more attractions. There is also a carnival on the church grounds sponsored by the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

Power failures prompt public forum

Last Saturday, township residents lost power for three and one-half hours...

DTE Energy engineers and senior staff members are again planning a public meeting to address criticism and public outcry regarding continued power outages in the City of Plymouth during the past year. The meeting is planned for 4-7 p.m. tomorrow, June 15, at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Last week DTE employees removed two temporary generators and activated two new transformers installed at the Farmer Street substation that controls the voltage for 4,000 city residents. Work at the approximately 70-year-old facility has been ongoing since an explosion and fire destroyed the transformers last August. The rebuilding and repair work is said to be now complete.

In a letter addressed to city officials, DTE Regional Manager Barbara J. Rykwalder said they "recognized the frustration they have caused residents and businesses," and the dependability for electric service in the Plymouth community has been "beneath their high standard."

"We want you to know DTE Energy is taking action to fix the problem," Rykwalder said in her letter.

She made no mention of the ongoing power outage problems Plymouth Township that reportedly originate from the DTE Powell Road Substation, according to people, familiar with the matter.

Last Saturday, township residents lost power for three and one-half hours when an insulator failure caused a high-power line to burn and fall to ground, damaging grass and a DTE pole.

Last October DTE officials hosted an open house for all area residents at the Hilton Garden Inn. In a similar initia-

Man facing charges in Meijer bomb threat

A Clinton Township resident has been charged with disturbing the peace as a result of a bomb threat that closed Haggerty Road and evacuated businesses in Northville last week.

Denis Marku, 36, was arraigned on the charge on Friday, June 8, at the 35th District Court. Judge Michael Goru set his bond at $300 each, which Marku posted, according to police reports. As a condition of his bond, Marku is not allowed on any Meijer property.

The charges stemmed from an incident which took place at about 11:38 a.m. last Wednesday when Northville Township Police were called to the Meijer Store on Haggerty Road in response to a reported bomb threat.

When officers arrived at the store parking lot at 20401 Haggerty Road, they observed Marku outside his car yelling at passersby, according to reports from police. Marku, according to prosecutor's reports, was overheard by a store employee remarking that people should be blown up. The store employee reported the comment to a Meijer team member who called police. Police located Marku's car in the fire lane in front of the store and observed a container with wires attached along with other suspicious items on the rear seat.

Northville officers called both Livonia and Novi police departments for assistance and evacuated both the Meijer and adjacent retail stores. Eight Mile Road and Haggerty Road were closed in the area as a precaution, police said.

The Michigan State Police Bomb Squad arrived at the location and examined the items in Marku's vehicle. Triggers determined that no bomb or bomb-making materials were in the car or in the surrounding area. A K9 Team search by Livonia Police located no threats inside the store.

Northville Township detectives presented the circumstances and evidence surrounding the incident to the Wayne County prosecutor's office who opted to charge Marku on one count of disturbing the peace.

"After review of the facts and the law, it has been determined that there is insufficient evidence to charge the defendant with false report or threat of terrorism or false report or threat of bomb or harmful device," stated a prepared release from the prosecutor's office. "The defendant has been charged with disturbing the peace, a misdemeanor which carries maximum penalty of 90 days in jail," the statement continued.

Marku is scheduled for a pretrial hearing at 35th District Court tomorrow.

Canton to host Shakespeare works in August

The Michigan Shakespeare Festival (MSF) will mount three very different productions this season at the Village Theatre in Canton Township.

Each of the three plays during the 24th festival season will bring something unique for audiences including The Tempest and Measure for Measure by Shakespeare and The Rover by Aphra Behn, the first professional woman playwright.

The season begins in Jackson July 12 and moves to The Village Theatre in Canton Aug. 3 for three additional weeks. Ticket information is available at www.michiganshakespearefestival.com.

The Tempest, one of the last plays Shakespeare ever wrote, will be directed by Artistic Associate Robert Kaularic, an award-winning director and actor. Kaularic said that in recent years he has found himself drawn to presenting Shakespeare's stories through a fairytale lens and in exploring themes of forgiveness and profound personal transformation. These passions unite perfectly in The Tempest.

"I'm thrilled to have the opportunity to work on such a rich, focused, tightly constructed play with my MSF family. Storms, fairies, magic, betrayal, love, and forgiveness all join with some of Shakespeare's most beautiful and mature text - I can't wait for us to travel to Prospero's island this summer," Kaularic said.

The second Shakespeare of the season will be a first for the Michigan Shakespeare Festival: Measure for Measure. While billed historically as a comedy, the themes about injustice, political corruption, and social hypocrisy tend to place it firmly within the more modern convention of "problem plays." Janice L. Blitt, who will direct, said, "I can't imagine a more timely play than Measure for Measure - a play of power, draconian sentencing, and sexual harassment into the education of a political leader. And, believe it or not, it's still a comedy with a beautiful statement on how the law must be tempered with mercy."

Aphra Behn's 1677 bawdy comedy The Rover, rounds out the season. The Rover, rounds out the season. The Rover tells the story of three Englishmen - a soldier, a gentleman, and a stockbroker who are banished from Cromwell's England and head to Naples to experience Carnival and find adventure. They meet three brilliant women - one promised in marriage to a wealthy older man, one promised to the church, and one a celebrated courtesan - who challenge and intrigue them. With duels and disguises, set against the backdrop of a nation-wide party, the couples navigate jealousy and love in this vibrant Restoration comedy.

Tickets are on sale now for the Canton performances, including season Flex Passes, at www.cantontownshipillegtheatre.org. A Flex Pass will include one ticket to each production, and show dates and times can be chosen at the time of purchase, or at a later date. Ticket prices range from $16-$40.

Founded in 1995, the Michigan Shakespeare Festival (MSF) is a 501 (c)(3) not-for-profit professional theatre company operating under a League of Regional Theatres Letter of Agreement with the Actors Equity Association. ROMULUS

Young artists sought for festival program

Members of the Romulus Arts Council are seeking talented young people who live in the city to perform during the annual Romulus Downtown Development Authority Pumpkin Festival.

The selected performers or group will be given a 10- to 30-minute time slot to sing family-friendly songs on Sunday, Sept. 23. The festival is scheduled for Sept. 22-23.

Interested youth should send an audition video to Ellen Craig Bragg at ebagg@romulus.com, Maria Lambert at mlambert@romulusgov.com or Merrilee Drayor at mrdyora@romulusgov.com.

Messages can be sent to the Downtown Romulus Facebook page, www.facebook.com/DowntownRomulus.

Organizers said the videos will be used for the sole purpose of auditions to narrow down the field of selected performers. Videos will not be shared with social media outlets.

The arts council is also seeking fall season art for the annual Romulus Pumpkin Festival Guide Book. Each year, the first-place student art entry is chosen for the cover of the book and the second- and third-place winners and two honorable mentions have their art included in the book as well.

Winners will be announced at the festival.

This year, through a generous donation from the Leo D. and Eva Roach family, the first-place winner will receive $200, second place will receive $150, third place will receive $100 and the two honorable mentions will receive $50 apiece.

All students that are Romulus residents are eligible to enter the contest. Organizers encourage students from pre-school through 12th grade to submit art.

The artwork must have a fall/pumpkin theme, but not a Halloween theme. No words can be on the artwork. Pictures should be no smaller than 8 1/2 by 11 inches and no larger than 11 by 17 inches. The art must be portrait-oriented.

Bright colors are preferred in acrylic, watercolor, tempera or pastels. Crayons and colored pencils do not have the vibrancy of the other mediums, so entrants should try not to use crayons and pencils.

The artists name, age, school and contact information should be on the backside of the art.

All interested participants should submit their artwork by July 7 to the Economic Development Department on the first floor of Romulus City Hall, 11111 Wayne Road, Romulus, MI 48174.

The art becomes the property of the Romulus Arts Council and the Romulus DDA Pumpkin Festival. Winners will be announced at the festival. The art will be framed and displayed at the festival; the prizes will be available at the hospitality tent.

For more information on the art contest, call (734) 955-4553.

Wings & Wheels debuts at Yankee Air Museum

A Wings and Wheels show will debut on the tarmac at historic Willow Run Airport, beginning at 10 a.m. Sunday, June 24. The presenting sponsor is Hagerty Insurance.

"It's an eclectic mix of vintage aircraft and classic automobiles, open to the public," according to Yankee Air Museum Executive Director Kevin Walsh. He added that "Americana" is the theme of the show with an array of cars spanning the 1930s through the 1950s. More than 25 airplanes will also be on hand, headlined by Yankee Air Museum World War II B-17 bomber. Air Adventures rides will be available for purchase on the B-17 as well as the open-cockpit Waco biplane and B-25 bomber.

Hagerty is the leading insurance provider for classic vehicles and host to the largest network of classic car owners.

"We are extremely pleased and excited to be part of such a worthwhile event. The Yankee Air Museum has been a great influence in the world of aviation throughout Southeast Michigan and we are excited to help support the campaign to renovate the historic Willow Run Plant to become its new home," noted McKeel Hagerty, CEO.

Willow Run achieved fame during World War II when Ford Motor Co. utilized assembly-line manufacturing techniques to produce B-24s for the war effort. More than 8,000 of the bombers taxied out of Willow Run to join Allied war efforts. A part of that plant has been acquired by the Yankee Air Museum and is being renovated to house aircraft and artifacts. The Wings and Wheels show directly benefits these renovations.

Walsh stressed that it is a unique opportunity for people to see a variety of historic aircraft parked alongside classic cars. Hosting Wings and Wheels at an active airfield is also a major departure from other shows. Walsh added that this is also the only aviation museum in lower Michigan and northern Ohio actually offering rides on vintage planes.

Bob Lutz, a retired fighter pilot and auto executive, leads the vehicle selection committee. "This is no run-of-the-mill airplane and auto show," he said. "The vehicles we have invited represent the design and craftsmanship of the industry during what I consider to be the finest period in American history."

Wings and Wheels will take place at Willow Run Airport, Hangar #1, which is located at 801 Kirk Profit Dr., Ypsilanti. Admission is $20 in advance and $25 at the gate for adults. Children under age 15 will be admitted at no cost.

Tickets can be purchased online at www.yankeeairmuseum.org/events/ or via

Eventbrite: <https://www.eventbrite.com/e/yankee-air-museum-wings-wheels-tickets-4121961819>

"We are grateful that Hagerty has stepped up in support of our inaugural event," commented Walsh.

"Hagerty is a passionate organization that understands the value of preservation of history. We are delighted to be aligned with such a prominent company," he concluded.

Romulus to show 'Black Panther' film tomorrow

The City of Romulus is expecting huge crowds for three free outdoor movies in the Park.

The first film, the blockbuster "Black Panther," will start at dusk tomorrow, June 15, at Romulus Historical Park, 11147 Hunt Street.

The movies are planned for once a month during the summer. Disney Pixar "Coco" is scheduled for July 20. "Jumanji" is set for Aug. 17.

Tanya Coffield, director of Parks and Recreation, said films are shown in drive-in fashion on a "huge screen." Attendees are encouraged to arrive early and bring a blanket or lawn chair for seating.

"It's lots of fun for kids and families," Coffield said. "It's just a really good time, a fun evening out." Organizers are suggesting movie goers wear super hero costumes to enhance the experience. Concessions, featuring food and beverages, will be available for purchase.

The city will spray for mosquitoes to cut down on insects. "We'll get started around 8:30 or 9, depending on when the sun sets," Coffield said.

This is the third year of Movies in the Park. Last year's showing of "Zootopia" drew more than 500 people.

"It was amazing," Coffield said. "Everybody talked about it for weeks. We're hoping 'Black Panther' sets the tone for the summer."

INKSTER - PLYMOUTH

Honored Inkster dedicates space to honor centenarian community residents

Inkster residents are making history.

Recently, members of Inkster Citizens Who Care hosted an unveiling of photos of the history-making centenarians of the community at city hall. The oldest of the residents being honored for longevity, Noble Hill, 105, attended the presentation in the city hall chambers.

Mayor Byron Nolen officially dedicated a special section in city hall as The Centenarians Wall reserved for photographs of Inkster residents who reach their 100th birthday milestone.

Inkster Citizens Who Care is an organization that also sponsors the annual Coats for Kids drive, led by Ruth Williams. Williams, a life-long advocate for children, leads the group members who reach out to help children of all ages in the city.

Last year, members of the group moved forward with an effort to honor residents of the city who have reached the century mark or beyond. At that time, according to a spokesperson, only five names were submitted to the group as honorees. The members hosted a luncheon to honor the oldest residents of the community, but only the Rev. Chester Washington was physically able to attend at that time.

Shortly after the luncheon celebration, three more names were submitted to the committee members who realized that there were eight residents of Inkster who had marked or surpassed their 100th birthday.

Inkster was also the home of Jeralean Talley, who was named the oldest person in the world in 2015, just prior to her death.

Currently honored as the oldest residents of the city are Noble Hill, who was born Oct. 19, 1912; Maxine Kinney, born Oct. 22, 1914; Nora Scott, born May 16, 1915; Ora Ree Williams, born Sept. 17, 1917 and Luke Lampkin, born Jan. 15, 1916.

Deceased honorees who have photos on the wall are Deacon

City of Plymouth honors service of police officers

City of Plymouth Police Officer David Edwards was named as Officer of the Year in a recent ceremony at Plymouth City Hall.

The officers were recognized at the event which began with a welcome by Mayor Oliver Wolcott.

"Each and every one of these officers is deserving of our thanks," he said. "They are a large part of what makes Plymouth the great community it is."

Police Chief Al Cox commented that in a recent incident when Edwards was the officer in charge (OIC) during his shift, he needed to take steps to secure the scene of a possible crime and coordinate the work of a number of other departments that were called to the site.

"His cool head and knowledge of protocol were critical in this situation and he performed admirably," said Cox. Edwards, who could not attend the event, fulfills multiple roles in the department. Cox added, Edwards works as a departmental road instructor, a specialist in impaired driving enforcement and a community resource officer. His next assignment will be a three-year stint as a detective with the department.

Officers Jonathan Hiemstra and Mark Farhat received life-saving citations for prolonged and successful CPR on a resident who had no pulse when they arrived on the scene. Hiemstra also received an individual commendation for, "the outstanding performance of general duties over an extended period of time."

Cox noted that Hiemstra, who has been on the force for four years, actually climbed "into a filthy Dumpster" to retrieve a stolen purse, credit cards and identification after pursuing the suspect. Cox said that Hiemstra viewed a videotape of the perpetrator and then went looking for the suspect. When he located and confronted the man, he retrieved the victim's cash and determined the rest of her property had been thrown into the Dumpster. The officer was able to return the cash and stolen purse to the victim after his "dive" into the container.

Sgt. Christopher Lahtinen was given the Chief's Recognition Award for providing leadership in the department and Lt. Jamie Grabowski, Sgt. Justin Bulmer, Ofc. Tony Angelosanto and Ofc. Jeff Jones received Continued

Service Awards.

The final award of the evening was the Certificate of Merit for, "Outstanding performance of duty under unusual or difficult conditions involving unusual thoroughness, conscientiousness, determination and initiative."

Officers James Baber and David Corvill, along with Plymouth Township Sgt. Mark Hoffman were chosen to receive the honor.

"These officers go out there every day and risk life and limb for us," said Mayor Pro Tem Colleen Pobur. "We owe all of them a debt of gratitude."

tion letter addressed to Township Supervisor Kurt Heise, DTE said they were taking steps to replace equipment in the township substation, install new equipment to better isolate damage and re-route power around trouble spots, upgrade utility pole-top equipment and trimming trees along power lines.

"As a customer-focused company, DTE Energy sets a high standard when it comes to providing safe, reliable service...Recently, we have not met our customers' expectations in the Plymouth Township community, causing frustration for residents. We want (residents) to know we're taking action to fix the problems," the October 2017 letter read.

Last month, township Trustee Jack Dempsey, who is also an attorney, urged the Michigan Public Safety Commission to take action regarding the numerous DTE outages and the conditions that have been allowed to deteriorate at both the city and township substation locations.

Dempsey, who blasted DTE in his written comments, said the utility has failed to ensure the systems are safe, reliable and resilient.

"Allowing these important parts of its (DTE) distribution system to reach such a state was not a prudent or best practice," DTE said.

DTE spokeswoman RoNelisha Mullen said while township residents may come to the June 15 meeting if they choose, the focus and information they will provide is "specific for city residents."

Heise said he was not surprised the invitation was not addressed to township residents because DTE conducted a similar town hall last year.

The invitation provides for a link for residents RSVP: <https://plymouthapp.rsvpify.com/> and an information telephone number(888) 897-4012.

WAYNE - WESTLAND

Council chooses candidate to complete term

Members of the Wayne City Council have chosen Kevin Dowd to fill the remaining 5 months of the council term of Jeremiah Webster.

Webster will complete the term of Christopher Sanders which expires in 2020. Sanders was recalled from the council in a special election last month.

The council interviewed four applicants for the vacancy including R. Eric Cloerneman, Lenard Fisher and Michael Wilson II.

Numerous votes were taken among council members before Dowd was announced as the successful candidate. After multiple voting, Dowd received five of the eligible six votes.

His selection was announced to the council members by City Clerk Matthew Miller as the end of the repetitive balloting.

Dowd told the council members that he understood the current financial situation in the city. He said that as a 18-year resident of the city, he is familiar with the history of the community. He said that as a resident he has felt the impact of the current financial problems facing the community.

He suggested that listening to new generations of employees should be a factor in attempting to move the city forward and that it is important to accept change and not continue to operate in the same manner.

His appointment was immediate.

Winners Annual scholarships awarded at meeting of Westland Rotary Club

Westland Rotary Club members have ensured that the future of some graduating seniors will be a little brighter.

"All the winners should be very proud of beating out a lot of stiff competition," Rotarian Mark McConnell, a Westland District Court judge, said at a June 7 awards program. "We have a lot of great, deserving students."

The James E. North Memorial Scholarships are awarded annually by the late auto dealer's family to honor his memory. In addition, longtime Westland Rotarian and retired Wayne-Westland educator Don Douglas presented a scholarship in memory of his wife, Arlene, who taught at a district elementary school.

"This year, Ethan Carl Thomas Bynum of Vandercook Lake School in Jackson, was the winner of the Douglas Scholarship. Wayne-Westland honorees included: the William D. Ford Career Technical Center, Jasmin Perry (Rotary) and Madison Williams (North); of John Glenn High School, Casey Court (Rotary) and Tiffany Vanner (North); and Wayne Memorial High School, Alysa Heston (Rotary) and Christine Devoyer (North).

Tom North, whose family owns the North Brothers Ford dealership on Ford Road in Westland, said of his late dad, "He'd be happy to know that we're helping out the kids in our community. This is a long-term way to give back. We help the kids with their education and send them on to adulthood."

Westland Rotary Club scholarship winners are all smiles following the presentation of their awards during the regular club meeting June 7.

Don Douglas, the eldest Rotarian, spoke briefly of his late wife's commitment to Schweitzer Elementary students where she taught. He noted that members of the Westland Rotary Club now volunteer at Schweitzer.

The University of Michigan, Central Michigan University, Wayne State University and others are among schools the scholarship students will attend, in fields ranging from psychology/pre-medicine to nursing, art therapy and journalism.

McConnell, who joked that his grade point average was below that of honored teens, said, "The more education you have, the better job opportunities you're going to have."

Wayne-Westland Superintendent of Schools Shelley Holt praised her own ninth grade honors English teacher for instilling life lessons.

Free bicycle safety inspections set in Wayne Saturday

Wayne Main Street has partnered with the Wayne Bicycle Club and Wayne Bicycle Shop to host bicycle safety inspection events this month. The events will take place from noon until 4 p.m. Saturdays through June 30 at the Wayne Bicycle Club located inside Icon Computer at 35858 W Michigan Ave, Wayne.

The shop will be offering free bike tune-ups to Wayne residents who present proof of city residency and the clinics are open to residents of all ages.

The clinics are an offshoot of the Wayne Bicycle Club which was founded in 2016, to promote biking in Wayne. The club hosts weekly rides beginning at 7 p.m. every Thursday at the State Wayne Theater. Earlier this year, bike club founder Brian Ewanche was inspired to open a pop-up bicycle shop in downtown Wayne inside his computer business.

Last year, Wayne Main Street launched a crowdfunding campaign through the Michigan Department of Economic Development to purchase and install 30 bike racks in downtown Wayne. That project included hosting a number of cycling promotion events and led to the bicycle clinics this month.

"Wayne Main Street is excited to host these events in partnership with the Wayne Bicycle Club and Wayne Bicycle Shop this June, and hopes to promote more pop-up events/retail in Wayne to inspire small businesses and retailers," commented Wayne Main Street Executive Director Maxwell Cameron.
