Collection fee added to city taxes

It will cost City of Plymouth residents a little more to pay a little less.

Members of the city commission last week voted to approve a 16.0048 tax rate, a 0.128 reduction, while they also approved a 1 percent administrative fee on each tax. A homeowner paying $5,000 in taxes will pay an extra $50 to the city to offset the cost of collecting the tax amount.

This is the first administrative fee on the tax bills in the city in 30 years. The fee is allowed by state law to pay the cost of collecting taxes.

The new tax rate and new fee were part of the adoption of the new budget of about $8 million by the commission last week.

Mayor Dan Dwyer voted against the adoption of the budget as he said he opposes the new collection fee. He said that the fee is actually a tax because it is based on the value of the property through the amount of tax levied, rather than being a flat rate collection fee. He added that he believes that any increase in taxes is a matter for voters to decide.

"I support all every other facet of the budget and all the hard work that went into it," Dwyer said.

City Commissioner Oliver Wolcott also opposed the new collection fee and cast a no vote on the budget.

The new collection fee will generate about $216,000 annually according to administration estimates, when the fee formerly collected from the Plymouth-Canton Community School District for collecting taxes is eliminated.

Family festivals will fill weekend

Belleville National Strawberry Festival begins

The sweetest celebration in the area will take place this weekend when the 40th Annual Belleville Strawberry Festival takes place June 17, 18 and 19.

The event, which began four decades ago as a celebration of the strawberry harvest, will bring free special events including a parade which usually brings nearly 30,000 people to downtown Belleville to enjoy the more than 150 entries. The parade will begin at 11 a.m. Saturday and includes floats, musical entertainment, motorcades, marching bands, clowns and acrobats during the two-hour event.

The strawberry queen will be selected from six contestants during a pageant beginning at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Belleville High School in the gymnasium. The queen and her court will perform their first official duties as they ride in the parade Saturday morning greeting the crowds. The grand marshal of the parade this year is Sumpter Township Chief of Police Eric Luke.

As has become traditional, there will be two midways offering nearly nonstop events from 5-10 p.m. all weekend. One midway is located at St.

Anthony Catholic Church and the other is in downtown Belleville on Main Street. The downtown midway is sponsored by the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce. The white tigers exhibit will return this year to the downtown venue.

Arts and crafts will be offered at three venues: downtown, St. Anthony's Church and at Trinity Episcopal Church. Craftspeople and artisans from throughout the state and nearby will display and sell their merchandise all weekend.

The traditional Cinnamon Car Show will take place from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. on Sunday at Victory Park at Five Points. The Father's Day car show has become an integral part of the annual Strawberry Festival, organizers said.

This year, there will be an exhibition of Extreme Aqua Sports Flyboarding from 2-5 p.m. Saturday at Horizon Park. Flyboarding, a new sport, sends riders into the air powered by a 60-foot hose which feeds water onto the board. Riders can get as high as 40 feet in the air.

Arts and Acts featured throughout Northville streets

The 7th Annual Arts and Acts Festival will return to historic downtown Northville June 17-19.

The festival, described as a spotlight on the imagination, art, talent and cultural diversity of artists throughout the region. The festival includes the 28th annual juried fine art show Art in the Sun, featuring more than 70 talented artists, the Sandbox Play Festival produced by Tipping Point Theatre; the Short on Words Literary Contest; musical entertainment featuring some of metro Detroit's top musicians; children's activities; the annual Northville Art House Chalk Festival and a large variety of food and drink.

Arts and Acts brings together the community to celebrate the local arts. With the exception of tickets for the Sandbox Play Festival, and a recommended donation for the chalk festival, Arts and Acts is a free event. It is also a major fundraiser for the Northville Art House. The funds raised allow the art house to bring quality art exhibits and art education to Northville and the surrounding communities, a spokesperson said.

Arts and Acts will be open from 3-8 p.m. Friday, June 17, from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. Saturday, June 18 and from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Sunday, June 19.

PLYMOUTH - INKSTER

Trains continue to block Plymouth crossings

The City of Plymouth continues to receive multiple complaints on a near daily basis related to parked trains blocking crossings for upwards of one hour or longer, according to a prepared statement from the office of City Manager Paul Sirocok.

"The City has set up an extension on our telephone system to allow residents to directly contact CSX Railroad 24 hours a day.

In the event of a train blockage residents are encouraged to call CSX Railroad of the situation and to insure that your concerns are logged into the CSX System," the statement continued.

Contact CSX Railroad directly by calling 734-453-1234 extension 438 or 877-TELL CSX (877-835-3276).

"Since trains are solely regulated by the federal government, we suggest that you also make contact with our federal legislators: Sen. Debbie Stabenow, (513) 961-4330; Sen. Gary Peters (202) 224-6221 and Rep. David Trott, (248) 528-0711.

The City of Plymouth is actively attempting to work with CSX Railroad to help resolve the situation that has developed over the last two months as a result of a change in CSX processes which causes trains to block crossings for extended periods, the release said. However, the railroad is regulated only by the federal government and it is extremely important that residents contact CSX Railroad directly to have their concerns "logged" into the CSX system. We also recommend that you contact your federal legislators to inform them of train blockages, the statement continued.

Thefts from vehicles prompt police warning

Plymouth Township police officials have issued to the reports of 12 recent thefts from cars and garages with a warning to residents.

A police spokesman noted that in all but one case, the victims of the thefts had left personal belongings visible in their vehicles and the doors unlocked. Garage doors were left open or unlocked allowing thieves easy access to items and in many cases with access to the home.

Police said that security tips for homes include ensuring that garage doors are closed even when residents are at home. Thieves can enter a garage undetected and remove items without alerting homeowners.

Police also warned residents about individuals knocking on doors and asking for people who do not live at the home or possibly asking about a lost animal. Many times, officers said, this is what a play subjects will use to determine who is home and if valuable items are in the home.

"Many people walk in the home from the garage and place their purses, keys, wallets etc. on the counter or kitchen table just inside the door. This presents an easy target for subjects to walk into a house and grab the items and flee quickly if the large garage door is left open," a spokesman cautioned.

He added that it is imperative that drivers lock car doors and not leave valuables in sight. Many people leave lap tops, GPS, briefcases, purses, wallets and even keys in their vehicles sitting in sight of anyone walking by.

"If you have a car alarm, set the alarm each and every time you leave your car," he said.

Police are asking residents to help keep the community safe and the crime rate low by locking doors, securing valuables and watching for suspicious activity.

"If you are up in the middle of the night, look out a window and report anything suspicious to the police. Many times when we respond to incidents we are approached by a neighbor saying, 'Well I saw someone who I didn't know, but didn't want to bother you.'"

Police would rather check on a subject than respond to a reported crime, he concluded.

Stepping up

The stairs leading to the main entrance of the Plymouth District Library will be refinished during the next month. The main entrance will remain open and accessible to all library users - those using the stairs and those using the barrier-free ramp. Weather permitting, the project will begin this week. For additional information visit the Building Repair Project blog at <http://plymouthlibrary.org>. An industrial coating system, one used often in the coating of parking structures, will be applied to the stairs. It will offer a textured surface which will be slip resistant and offer greater resistance to salt and winter conditions. McCarthy & Smith Construction Management; architectural firm, Merritt Cieslak Design and local engineering and consulting firm SINE will oversee the project being installed by Royal Restoration & Waterproofing of Livonia.

$1-million Fleet Street reconstruction set to begin

Members of the Plymouth City Commission agreed last week to use funding allocated to the city road fund to pay for reconstruction of the alley behind the buildings facing Penman, commonly known as Fleet Street. Both the alley around the Central Parking Deck and the alley from Ann Arbor Trail to Wing Street will be repaired, according to Downtown Development Authority (DDA) Director Tony Brusco.

"While the DDA had considered a special assessment of property owners to pay for the close to $1-million project, the vote by the city commission means there will not be an assessment, and money from the DDA budget will be left intact to spend on other downtown projects," Brusco said in a prepared statement.

The project is expected to begin sometime after Fall Festival in September in order to avoid the busy summer season downtown. There will be some inconveniences when construction begins for anyone who uses either alley, Brusco said.

Around the Central Parking Deck, there will be times por-

"While construction will be a major inconvenience for everyone for several weeks, the good news is when it's completed we will have a better situation for both vehicle traffic and those who walk along those areas."

tions of the alley will be inaccessible. Businesses that depend of the alley for customers and deliveries will want to be prepared. There will be times when the Central Parking Deck will be closed, he added.

The same situation will result for businesses along the Fleet Street alley behind the Mayflower to Wing Street.

"While construction will be a major inconvenience for everyone for several weeks, the good news is when it's completed we will have a better situation for both vehicle traffic and those who walk along those areas," Brusco added.

He stressed the importance of communicating the upcoming repairs to business operators who should, he said, think about customers, deliveries and alternatives for parking after the Fall Festival. "While we plan to keep you updated, it is imperative to keep the information flowing to both your customers, delivery drivers and employees," he said.

Questions should be referred to Brusco at (734) 453-1433.

NORTHVILLE - WESTLAND

City sets rental fee for use of Ford Field

It will now cost groups using Ford Field in Northville for events $2,200 to rent the area.

Members of the city council approved the new fee by unanimous vote last week. Council members agreed that when Ford Field is used for events, it often forces the closure of nearby Mill Race Village which loses potential revenue.

The new fee schedule and the argument the city was protecting the potential loss at Mill Race Village was opposed by Dan Ferrara, owner of Northville Gallery. Ferrara questioned the logic of the argument asking if a precedent was being set that would now allow the Art House to ask for a fee every time a parade is staged in front of the building. He suggested that it was inappropriate to allow one business to ask for a subsidy or compensation when sales are lower due to some community or other activity in the city. He said that the recent flower sale on Main Street downtown impacted his business but he was not asking for compensation.

He said he felt the new rental fee was inequitable and that the council members should have considered the impact of the new rules which will become effective in 2017.

The new rule was also opposed by Toni Genitti of Genitti's Hole-in-the-wall who suggested that the new fee could cost the city several major events that bring crowds to the community when other venues would not charge.

Mayor Ken Roth told the council members that surrounding areas charge for profit making events in their recreation areas. The Plymouth bandshell, he said, costs $750 per day and Stony Creek Metro Park charges $800 per day.

After much discussion, Roth said that while it might appear the city is favoring Mill Race Village, he did not think the city would be able to devise a ruling or policy that would please everyone.

The council members approved the new fee taking out language that indicated it was to offset the closure at Mill Race Village.

Westland director resigns

Newly appointed Westland Parks and Recreation Director John Adams submitted his resignation to Mayor William Wild last Tuesday.

Adams, appointed to the Westland position while still the acting fire chief in Inlet, was arrested on charges of domestic abuse by Canton Township Police last month and spent the night of May 25 in jail.

He came under criticism during the appointment process by both city council members and the public for the dual roles although his contract with Inlet expired May 31, about a month following his Westland appointment.

Adams entered a not guilty plea at his arraignment on the domestic abuse charges and is free on bond, awaiting his next appearance July 1 at 35th District Court before Judge Michael Geron.

Police host open house

The Westland Police Department will host a 50th Anniversary Open House from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. Saturday, June 18.

Following an opening ceremony, tours of the remodeled police station and ride alongs will begin. There will be a number of demonstrations including K9, Taser and motorcycle demonstrations along with activities for children and police equipment will be on display.

Refundations will be served. The police station is located at 36701 Ford Road. For more information, call (734) 722-9900.

The Northville Art House Chalk Festival is back for the third year during the Arts and Acts Festival. Artists of all ages will transform Carter Street into a work of art June 18. The Sandbox play festival was started in an effort to create more opportunities for local playwrights to have their work produced, for directors to gain experience, and for actors to work in a professional theater setting, organizers said. This year, more than 80 original plays were submitted to the competition from playwrights across the country and the top four selected to be produced during the festival.

Audiences can vote for their favorite play after each show and the audience choice award, along with Tipping Point Theater first and second place awards will be announced after the Saturday performance.

Tickets for the plays are priced at $15 if reserved before June 17 and $20 after that date and are available at the Tipping Point box office, on the theater website or at the door.

Due to limited seating, organizers said, reservations are highly encouraged.

BELLEVILLE - ROMULUS

Chad tough

In memory of Chad Carr who lost his battle with inoperable brain cancer last year, members of the Romulus High School National Honor Society adopted the Chad Tough Foundation, a group dedicated to raising funds to help fight pediatric cancer. Chad, diagnosed with brain cancer in September of 2014, frequently visited his aunt Melissa Carr, a math teacher at Romulus High School, and was one of the 23 children diagnosed with some type of cancer every day. According to Kathy Abdo, a math teacher at the high school, the National Honor Society students coordinated several fundraisers during the school year and generated $4,000 which was given to Tammi Curtis Carr, Chad's mother. "Our goal is to raise awareness so that more money and attention will be given to pediatric cancer research," said Abdo. Chad's family, which includes his College Football Hall of Fame grandfather, former University of Michigan Football head coach Lloyd Carr and safety Tom Curtis, have continued to keep Chad's spirit alive through the #ChadTough campaign.
