Grassroots effort wins in Plymouth

Members of the grassroots effort in Plymouth Township to replace several top officials celebrated the success of their candidates with a party last week at the home of Paul and Doreen Sharpe. Paul Sharpe created the unique sign which had the names of all the volunteers on blades of grass. The group was credited with helping replace all three top officials in the election. Top officials ousted in historic write-in election campaign

While the winning candidates in the Plymouth Township election last week did not actively campaign as a slate, they each credit the grassroots efforts of the community for their success at the polls.

In what many characterized as a stunning upset, State Rep. Kurt Heise defeated current township Supervisor Shannon Price with a total of 3,096 write-in votes. Price, appointed to the job during controversial hearings last year, received a total of 2,553 votes.

In another major upset last week, long-time township Treasurer Ron Edwards was defeated by political newcomer Mark Clinton. Edwards, who has been the target of much public criticism, received a total of 1,612 votes while Clinton earned a total of 2,197 votes. Clinton will now face opposition for the treasurer's office in the general election Nov. 8 from Nancy Seifert, the only Democratic challenger on the ballot.

Incumbent Clerk Nancy Conselman was also defeated by challenger Jerry Vorva. Vorva, a former state senator and state representative, received 3,351 votes while Conselman received 2,065.

The new board of trustees will comprise incumbent Charles J. Curni who was the top vote getter with 3,227 votes; newcomer Jack Dempsey, who garnered 2,386 votes; incumbent Bob Doroshewitz who won 3,218 votes and newcomer Gary Heitman, who received 2,095 votes.

Unsuccessful candidates for the board were incumbent Michael Kelly who received 1,716 votes; Mike Olanosky with 1,239 votes; Thomas Farrelly 698 votes; Alexander Roehl 369 votes and Theresa Somercik who garnered a total of 1,156 votes.

Heise credited the help of the grassroots efforts in the community for his election. He said he felt there was a growing disconnect between the elected officials and the community and that the effort of the citizens groups was evidence of that lack of transparency and response to citizens' needs.

"We need to refocus on the financial manager and drastic cuts in city services, including public safety and retiree benefits.

Rowe also called for an emergency meeting of the members of the city council for last Thursday to discuss the precarious situation in the community and consider possible cuts, including to police and fire, public works, buildings and engineering. Further cuts to the police department would result in only two officers patrolling each 12-hour shift, according to Police Chief Alan Macias. Any further reduction to the 12-man fire department staff, which recently accepted wage and benefit cuts totaling nearly $250,000, could violate the current mutual service agreement with the City of Westland, officials said.

Wayne is currently assessing property owners at the maximum 20 mills and faces a budget deficit of $1.5 million, after budget cuts. The city lost $3.5 million in local millage funding due to a severe drop in property values and has lost more than $7.5 million in state shared revenue during the last decade, officials said. The proposed funding mechanism would have allowed the municipality to levy up to another 15 mills for public safety which supporters of the plan said would free funding from the general fund for other expenses. Implementation of the plan would have required voter approval in both Eastpointe and Hazel Park.

While Hazel Park voters agreed to include Wayne in the funding plan, adopted for up to 20 years last year, Eastpointe voters rejected the plan to include Wayne.

Wayne voters cast 2,862 no votes on the proposal and 1,744 yes votes. Only 22.16 percent of the registered voters in the city went to the polls Aug. 2.

Driver faces murder charges in death of 12-year-old

His driving record, according to police reports, showed 12 drunk-driving convictions.

Cahill is alleged to have been driving at a high rate of speed in a 55 m.p.h. section of Martinsville Road and Willis Road in Sumpter Township at approximately 8:20 p.m. July 27.

Police reports that Cahill, who has not had a valid driver's license since it was revoked by the Secretary of State in 1990, allegedly drove his vehicle into the rear end of a minivan in which five people were riding. The 12-year-old girl was riding in the third row seat of the minivan and had to be cut from the vehicle by township fire department rescue workers. She was airlifted to C.S. Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor where she had been listed in critical condition. She succumbed to her injuries July 30. Charges against Cahill, which had originally been operating while intoxicated on third offense and driving while license suspended causing serious injury, were amended to the second-degree murder felony and other charges.

Police said that following Cahill's arrest, blood tests showed his alcohol level was almost three times the legal limit for an adult driver. His driving record, according to police reports, showed 12 drunk-driving convictions.

There has been no report on the condition of the other pas-

Officers honored for life saving efforts

Three City of Northville police officers, Peter Davis, David Randall and Matthew Duggins, were each recognized with a Lifesaving Award for heroic efforts performed while on duty in two separate incidents.

In April 1966, Davis and Randall responded to a 911 call from the husband of a 60-year-old female, who was experiencing difficulty breathing. Upon arrival, the officers assessed the woman and found she was not breathing and had no detectable pulse. They began CPR and continued it until an emergency medical unit arrived and took over treatment.

After several minutes, a pulse was detected and the woman was transported to a local hospital. She lived through the night but unfortunately died the next day due to a pre-existing medical condition.

In September 2015, Randall and Duggins responded to an injury car crash at Main Street and Northville Road, where they discovered a 44-year-old male driver was slumped over the steering wheel and unresponsive. Randall assessed the man and detected a pulse but he soon faded and he stopped breathing. He and Duggins began CPR and continued until they were relieved by responding medical units. The man's wife was in the car at the time and a local shop owner saw the accident and came over to attend to the woman while the police and emergency team worked to revive her husband. Once the man was stabilized, he was transported to an area hospital.

Randall took the woman to the hospital to be with her husband and checked in on him the next day. The man recovered and is now alive and well.

"Typically, there are only one or two Lifesaving awards given in a year. It is one of the highest honors you can receive as a police officer," said Police Chief Michael Carlson. "We all get into this business to help others and if you save a life, it doesn't get any better than that."

The three officers received their Lifesaving Award, a rectangular white ribbon with a center red stripe, at a recognition ceremony this summer. Each now has multiple Lifesaving Awards with the Northville City Police Department.

Northville Mayor Ken Roth said, "The City of Northville is fortunate to have officers who are dedicated to serving our community and saving lives. The actions of these officers who received the Lifesaving Award represent the ideal of a police officer."

Pumpkin Festival dates are set in Romulus

Preparations are already under way for the 19th Annual Romulus Pumpkin Festival, planned for Sept. 16, 17 and 18 at Romulus Historical Park, 11417 Hunt St.

Each year, on the third full weekend in September, the Romulus festival begins with a night parade in which every entry is lighted from bicycles to cement trucks.

Organizers said that thousands of people line Goddard Road to wait for the parade to pass by. On Saturday, the street festival offers musical entertainment, food, crafts and games for all ages. Visitors can enter a pumpkin rolling, pumpkin pie eating or a pumpkin seed-spitting contest.

A popular attraction is the Classic Car Show but many visitors come to relax and listen to the music, organizers said. The event is organized annually by the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) Pumpkin Festival committee, and is "a harvest celebration that generates enthusiastic spirit and regenerates our sense of community."

The original Pumpkin Festival committee was established in 1996 and the first festival took place in September, 1997. The Pumpkin Festival Committee meets at 6:30 p.m. the first Tuesday of the month at Romulus City Hall, 11111 Wayne Road, Romulus in the City Council Chambers. The meetings are open to the public.

7. Public Comments:

A citizen inquired about the salary range for the new part-time human resources director. The same citizen asked if any other cities expressed an interest in housing the 14th District Court.

8. Unfinished Business:

Mayor Harnett explained that human resources was once part of the chief of staff's duties. Since the chief of staff no longer has human resources duties, the salary for chief of staff now reflects that and a part-time human resources director has been hired. Mayor Harnett answered the question regarding the 14th District Court - An operating agreement was established in 1996 with Van Buren Township, Grosse Pointe Township, Shant Township, and the City of Belleville that Romulus would host the 14th District Court and that agreement is still current. The City of Romulus collects some of the fees and facilitates the operations of the court.

basics, like our police and fire," he said. Heise said that he had walked the entire township going door-to-door to talk to voters twice and that he visited voters in some precincts three times in an effort to let them know there was an alternative to the incumbent. Heise was knocked off the ballot by a lawsuit funded by a dark money PAC which asserted that he did not list his voting precinct on his affidavit of identity when he filed for the office. His name was subsequently removed from the ballot, necessitating his write-in campaign.

"I think there has been unrest for years," he said. "The public was just fed up. We need to get back to basics, stop the frivolous spending and work with our neighbors," he said after the election.

Clinton, a first-time candidate for any office, said that he was "not taking anything for granted" in his upcoming contest with Seifert, despite his 70 percent win last week.

Clinton also credited volunteers who, he said, worked tirelessly for months "to bring about positive change."

"I could never have done it without them."

He said he believes the board will now act in a professional and fiscally responsible manner with full transparency and work in cooperation with the City of Plymouth and other neighboring communities, "with the input of the Plymouth Township taxpayers."

Vorva said that he felt this was a historic election and reiterated the importance of the citizens in the process. "It ended as it started, with an energized electorate determined to take back their local government," Vorva said.

"I see a community of neighbors working together to restore public trust and essential for an honest and effective government. I see a community working collaboratively with our neighboring communities and the City of Plymouth to provide shared services in all areas that concern our residents and enhance our lives," Vorva said about his hopes for the new slate of officials.

Dempsey said he, too, had a profound sense of gratitude "at the opportunity to serve my community and awe at the power of grass root democracy." He said his hope for the township is the same one he heard repeatedly from voters who want "a strong public safety shield; transparency; efficiency; civility and responsiveness in government fiscal soundness; cooperation with our neighbors and a unified community."

Heitman also said he was humbled by the support of the voters.

"As a first-time candidate, I am in awe of the grassroots efforts of our active citizenry," he said.

"We still have an election in November but I am confident the next four years will bring the great people of this township into an era of transparency and progress. I see our neighboring communities cooperating with us for mutual shared growth and benefit," the trustee-elect said.

According to the unofficial tallies, there were 5,815 Republican votes cast and 1,182 Democratic votes. There were 466 spoiled ballots by individuals who voted on both party sides and 522 ballots cast only on the nonpartisan side of ballot.

Fake insurance seller is cited

Following a complaint from an insurance agent in Taylor, an Inkster man has been ordered to cease and desist in selling fake automobile insurance in a parking lot after usual business hours.

The Michigan Department of Insurance and Financial Services issued the cease and desist order July 19 following a complaint from Lovell Borom, Jr. of Inkster, after an employee of LA Insurance complained. The complaint said that Borom was selling fraudulent insurance certificates after hours in the parking lot of the LA Insurance offices in Taylor. According to the state insurance office, Borom is not an insurance agent and is not licensed to solicit, sell or negotiate insurance in the state.

Regulators said that Borom has no relationship with the LA insurance agency where he was allegedly selling the auto insurance.

An investigation into the complaint found that Borom was advertising the availability of auto insurance on a social media page with his phone number listed. Allegedly, he was advertising the sale of a 6-month term auto insurance certificate and the social media page included photos of the LA Insurance storefront.

According to the Michigan Department of Insurance and Financial Services, the order was served on Borom July 20.

Spiderman wins special kids' election

Results of a special election in the City of Plymouth were tallied by City Clerk Linda Langmesser last week.

Spiderman won. The city established special kids' polling stations at voting precincts last week. Langmesser said she took on the task in an effort to promote voting for all ages. The polling places let children cast their own votes for things that matter to them, things like favorite ice cream flavors, favorite super hero and their favorite place to visit in downtown Plymouth.

"It may sound like just a little added fun for kids on election day," said Langmesser. "But we're also trying to involve kids in the voting process so they learn about voting and make it a habit." A habit that the clerk's office is hoping will continue into adulthood.

Langmesser noted that there were a total of 73 votes cast in the Kids Polling Station and the official results were:

The children of Plymouth's favorite ice cream flavor is:
1. Superman - 38 Votes
2. Chocolate - 18 Votes
3. Vanilla - 12 Votes
4. Strawberry - 5 Votes

The children of Plymouth's favorite super hero is:
1. Spiderman - 29 Votes
2. Captain America - 26 Votes

3. Wonder Woman - 11 Votes
4. Batgirl - 7 Votes

The children of Plymouth's favorite place to visit in downtown Plymouth is:

1. The Plymouth District Library - 43 Votes
2. The Penn Theater - 13 Votes
3. Scott Park - 11 Votes
4. The Plymouth Historical Museum - 6 Votes

Plans are under way for another kids polling place at the November election with the hope that more youth people will be encouraged to "vote" for their favorites in the General Election.

The idea for adding a youth voting station came during the March 2016 Presidential Primary when election workers noticed a young father who had his little girl with him to vote.

"It was the sweetest thing I ever saw," said election worker Sherrie Brindley. "He got right down on the floor with her and explained all about the ballot and how to use it."

The hope is that by involving children now they will become lifelong voters.

"Voting is such an important part of our democratic process," said Nancy Anderson, City of Plymouth elections assistant. "We would like to see higher voter turnout at every election. It's worth investing the time to teach kids now."

CANTON

Primaries sets November ballot

Canton Township voters will choose between Republican candidate Linda Obree and Democrat Michael Siegrist Nov. 8 as the replacement for retiring Township Clerk Terry Bennett.

Bennett, who has served as the township clerk for more than 21 years, announced her retirement earlier this year. Her office was the only contested race in the Canton Township primary election Aug. 2. Obree received 2,455 votes over her opponent Thomas Lufkinhoff who received 1,400 votes. Siegrist was the choice of 3,691 voters.

In the race for supervisor, Democrat De Syed Taj received 3,757 votes while Republican Pat Williams received 3,665 votes. Current Supervisor Phil Lading, like Bennett, announced his retirement from office earlier this year, prompting the race for his seat.

Incumbent Treasurer Melissa McLaughlin, a Republican, received 3,614 votes while former State Rep. Dian Stevens, a Democrat received 3,865 votes.

In the township trustee primary incumbent Tom Yack was the top vote getter with 3,275; incumbent John Anthony received 2,188 votes; newcomer Darian Moore received 2,940 votes and Geoff Bolach received 2,922 votes, all on the Republican side of the ballot.

BELEVILLE - WAYNE - WESTLAND

Voters send Anderson to county commission

Former State Representative and Senator Glenn Anderson, D-Westland, was elected to serve as the 12th District representative on the Wayne County Commission during the primary election last week.

Anderson, who is also a former Westland City Councilman, will serve his first two-year term on the commission after receiving 4,274 votes. The 12th District included Westland, Garden City and Inkster.

He was challenged by Sue

Mason for the Democratic nomination. Mason received a total of 2,448 votes for the office.

Anderson was term limited in both his state offices and formerly worked for Ford Motor Co.

"Once again, honesty and true integrity won over a downright dirty campaign of lies and dishonesty. Voters saw through my opponents' deliberate attempt to smear my reputation and their accomplices helped take her down," Anderson wrote on Facebook following the election

Anderson will be unopposed in the Nov. 8 election as no Republican candidate filed for inclusion on the primary ballot.

"Thank you to the voters of Garden City, Westland and Inkster who voted for me and saw her campaign for what it was."

Anderson will be unopposed in the Nov. 8 election as no

Republican candidate filed for inclusion on the primary ballot.

Robert Kosowski, D-Westland, will face Republican challenger Matthew Morrow for his third two-year term at the State Representative from the 16th District. Morrow received 1,088 votes on the Republican side of the ballot which Kosowski garnered 4,885 votes on the Democratic ballot.

Jewell Jones was unopposed in the Democratic primary for the 11th District State House seat that includes the northeastern section of Westland, along with Garden City, Inkster and Dearborn Heights. Jones will face Republican Robert Page of Grosse Pointe, who received 688 votes.

Belleville OK's funds to repair canoe launch

The Belleville Downtown Development Authority (DDA) has allocated $2,400 for repairs and replacement equipment at the kayak/canoe launch in Horizon Park.

The bench support and sign holder for the disabled was removed from the site in June and two roller removed from the launch site in July, according to Carol Thompson, the DDA coordinator.

Thompson told the DDA board that the stolen items had to be replaced and that an effort to make the launch site more secure was necessary to fulfill the current contract with the Department of Natural Resources to maintain the launch.

The state funded the launch site which is now missing two of the rollers which came in sets of five. The replacement cost will be $1,287, plus the cost of installation, insurance on the site currently has a $1,000 deductible.

Thompson said the bracket was torn off from the boat launch and the brackets were now missing and that there was damage to the bolt heads. Thompson said that people have been swimming at the site and climbing up the launch site, despite warning signs that swimming is prohibited. She suggested more signs at the launch.

The board approved the expense to repair the launch and signage unanimously.

Woman acquitted in stabbing death

The stabbing death of a 74-year-old Wayne man has been ruled self-defense by a jury in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Ryla Juane Nundley, 48, was charged with involuntary manslaughter in the death of Joseph Hiner Spielman which took place Oct. 9, 2015 at his home on the 35000 block of Brush in Wayne.

Nundley, who had been acquainted with Spielman for about 15 years, did not testify at the two-day trial before Circuit Court Judge Katherine Heise. Her defense attorney 13th Harris argued that Nundley stabbed Spielman as he came at her armed with both a knife and a Samurai-style sword.

The original charges against Nundley

Nundley called 911 and reported the injury, claiming that Spielman was striking her.

included second-degree murder which prosecutor's subsequently reduced to involuntary manslaughter based on Nundley's state of mind and her apparent defense of herself in the face of the danger present.

Spielman died, according to autopsy reports, from a single stab wound to his femoral artery which caused him to bleed to death rapidly. Nundley called 911 and reported the injury, claiming that Spielman was striking her. She was arrested at the home when officers arrived. Nundley claimed, through her attorney, that she was backed into a corner by the armed Spielman and that she stabbed at him blindly, striking his leg.

Nundley was originally found mentally incompetent to face trial but following treatment at the Forensic Center for Psychiatry was determined to be able to aid in her own defense.
