Development plan prompts protests

Don Howard
Staff Writer

Frustrated Northville Township residents packed Township board of trustees meeting last week expressing multiple concerns regarding a proposed development at the 53-acre former Scott Prison site at Five Mile and Beck roads. In 2012, township officials worked out a transaction in cooperation with the state and help from State Rep. Kurt Hoise to acquire the property for a final cost of $1.

The mixed-use development, proposed by Redico, including a 170,000-square-foot Meijer store with a gas station and garden center, condominiums, town homes, a theater, hotel and other retail stores, was the main item on the meeting agenda before the standing-room-only crowd. Despite the vocal concerns of residents, township officials approved the Planned Unit Development (PUD) of the site by a 4 to 2 vote. Trustees Samantha Heath and Mandy Hermann, along with Township Clerk Sue Hillbrand cast the dissenting votes on the plan while Supervisor Bob Nix, Treasurer Marjorie Banner and trustees Mary Gans and Fred Shadko were in favor of the development.

A letter of intent to develop the property was accepted by township officials last year and members of the township planning commission approved the plan by a 5 to 1 vote last week after a 5½-hour contentious meeting.

During the board meeting last Thursday, residents expressed concerns regarding the traffic congestion already experienced at the site, the threat of increased crime and the burden on the township infrastructure and public safety inherent with a 24-hour grocery store, a theater, 200 mid-rise condominiums and 78 town homes in the area that is the main traffic artery to the Salem Township landfill.

The development, dubbed The Village at Northville, was characterized as "upscale with contemporary architecture" by Redico architect Sue Neumann. That architecture was criticized by residents who told officials, "It is not the style we are looking for."

Irate residents accused the members of the board and officials of failing to perform "due diligence" in approving the project and said, "We're going to make Haggerty and Eight Mile come to our doorstep." One resi-

Hometown hero Romulus honors Sports Hall of Fame inductee John Long

A Romulus native now has something in common with Chris Osgood, Mike Modano, Brendan Shanahan and Derek Jeter:

John Long, who graduated from Romulus High School in 1974 and went on to play professional basketball, was inducted into the Michigan Sports Hall of Fame last week.

"It's a great honor for me," said Long, who played in the NBA for more than 10 years. "You never think, when you're playing sports coming up, that you're going to achieve so much," he said. "But the stuff you achieve along the way is very special because everything I did was family-oriented. My family supported everything I did. They were always there."

After high school, Long played basketball at the University of Detroit, under legendary coach and current basketball announcer Dick Vitale. When Vitale went on to coach the Detroit Pistons, he selected Long in the second round of the 1978 NBA draft. Long played for the Pistons from 1978-1986, then returned for the championship run in 1989 under coach Chuck Daly. He also played for the Indiana Pacers, Atlanta Hawks and the Toronto Raptors. He scored 12,131 points throughout his 14-year NBA career and currently works in the Pistons' front office, in the basketball operations department.

Romulus City Council members presented him with a special proclamation last week, commemorating everything he did as a professional and since, within the community.

"This is very special," Long said of the recognition. "This is where it all started for me, right here in Romulus."

Councilman William Wadsworth said he remembered watching Long as a high school star, back when Wadsworth worked as a Wayne County Sheriff's deputy. He also remembered watching Long on his seemingly tireless jogging routine around the community after he had made it to the pros.

Long said it was because of the work ethic instilled in him by his family and that achieving your goals isn't necessarily the end of your journey.

"Once you get on top, everyone wants to knock you off. In order to stay on top you have to keep working as hard as you did to get there," he said. "I always remembered that. It's what it's all about."

He said he enjoys giving back to the community and working with young people and said he hopes he can inspire youth to strive for their dreams no matter what they may be.

Anything you try to do in life, give it your all. Nothing is impossible," he said. "You've got to believe, and then you've got to follow up by working hard and achieving the goals you set."

Plan to dissolve pay board proposed

No action was taken on his suggestion earlier this year.

Councilman, all of whom lost their re-election bids in the August primary, voted in favor of dissolving the commission.

Kelly, who said he felt that the board members should be responsible for setting their own rate of pay, first broached the topic earlier this year, prior to the Aug. 2 primary election. He based his suggestion at that time, he said, on the failure of the commission members to meet in 2015. No action was taken on his suggestion earlier this year. The commission members are required, by state law, to meet in odd-numbered years to make salary recommendations for elected officials in the township. Those recommendations automatically become effective the next year unless the suggested amounts are rejected by a two-thirds vote of the board of trustees. Should the board fail to act, the salaries are set at the levels recommended by the commission. Currently, the supervisor is paid $111,284 and the clerk and treasurer are each paid $104,508. Trustees are paid $11,321 annually.

ROMULUS

Lessons in respect

As America recently honored the lives lost during the 15-year anniversary of the 9/11 terrorist attacks, Romulus School Board President and Army Veteran Tom Kuderick took time to help students born after 2001 understand the significance of the events. Kuderick spoke to Romulus students about patriotism, being active citizens and taught them how to properly raise, lower, and fold the American flag. Students in Alexia Mancilla's L.I.F.T. program can now properly handle the daily task of raising and lowering the flag. "I enjoyed spending time with the students, they had an interest in their country and wanted to learn more about the flag. The American flag symbolizes freedom and is a constant reminder of the opportunities and privileges we have as American citizens," Kuderick said.

Annual Health Fair draws large crowd

Hundreds of area residents participated in the recent Health and Wellness Fair at the Romulus Senior Center last week. The free event targets senior citizens but was open to people of all ages from Romulus and surrounding communities.

The day featured resources and helpful information from a variety of vendors including Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan, Senior Alliance, Corpore Sano, Beltone Hearing Center, Romulus Athletic Center, the Lodge at Taylor, Regency Health Care, Health Quest and many others.

"We are happy to continue our Health Fair again this year and encourage all residents, not just our seniors, to maintain an active and healthy lifestyle," said Romulus Mayor LeRoy D. Burrell.

Vaccinations for the flu and shingles were provided along with free blood pressure checks, blood sugar screenings, raffles and prizes.

"We had a great fair this year. There were many free offerings, prizes and give-aways that we hoped would entice our residents to come and learn about bettering their health," said Rose Swidan, senior services director for Romulus.

For more information, contact Swidan at (734) 955-4120.

Local residents took advantage of the free health care advice and testing during the annual Health and Wellness Fair in Romulus last week.

WAYNE - WESTLAND

Golden days

Wayne couple marks 50th anniversary with trip to Ireland

Harold and Sharon Bennett of Wayne will mark their 50th anniversary with a party for family and friends at the end of the month, just before they depart for a trip to Ireland to mark the occasion.

The couple met at the Wayne Free Methodist Church in 1965 and began dating in January of 1966. They became engaged in May and were married Sept. 27, 1966 by a Justice of Peace in Romulus. The couple both attended Wayne Memorial High School. Her family lived Westland and his family resided in Wayne.

Almost immediately after their wedding, Harold Bennett was drafted and served in the U.S. Army. He spent their first wedding anniversary in boot camp in Kentucky and was then briefly stationed in Georgia where the couple was together before he was deployed to Asia.

When her husband was sent to Vietnam, Sharon Bennett moved in with her parents as she was pregnant with twin girls born Oct. 21, 1968. She and the babies moved into the home in which the couple still lives on Third Street in Wayne in July of 1969.

Bennett worked as a waitress in a Chinese restaurant for 30 years while babysitting all four of the couple's grandchildren as they were born. Daughter Sharon Blesport, a Registered Nurse, is the mother of their oldest granddaughter, Devon, 25, a college student, and grandson, Daniel, 22, who is also in college. Her twin, Serena Schnau, a preschool teacher in the Wayne/Westland schools, is the mother of grandsons, Dustin, 20, a student, and Dalton, 16, a student at Wayne Memorial High School.

Harold Bennett worked in the auto parts business for 40 years after leaving the Army. He spent 27 years with B&L Auto Supply in Romulus where he was the manager.

The couple is retired now and enjoys taking Harold's 1980 Cadillac to the Dream Cruise and other car shows. Sharon Bennett said she enjoys sewing and crafts and the couple also enjoys work-

Historical commission will host Cemetery Walk

The Wayne Historical Society will host the third annual Cemetery Walk from 1-3 p.m. Oct. 2 at Westlawn (formerly Glenview) Cemetery, located at Michigan Avenue and Merriam Road.

The guided tour will highlight prominent African Americans from the Wayne community including singer Jackie Wilson, boxer Sonny Banks and Nolan Strong from the Diablos, all of whom are buried at the facility.

Organizers are in need of volunteers to help serve refreshments at the free event. Volunteers will be asked to help for one hour, from 1-2 p.m. or from 2-3 p.m. serving cider and doughnuts.

The text and refreshments are well in hand, organizers said, but help is still needed at the event which is "a great way to learn about our city's history."

accepted.

For more information, or to volunteer, contact the Wayne Historical Society through Facebook or call (313) 605-0821.

The cemetery is located at 31472 Michigan Ave. in Wayne.

Johnson's appointment by Mayor William Wild was confirmed at a meeting of the members of the city council earlier last month.

Johnson is a 45-year resident of the city. His duties on the board will include overseeing the operation of the library and the library director. Meetings of the board take place at 7 p.m. the second Wednesday of each month in the community meeting room at the library, located at 6123 Central City Parkway.

Johnson and his wife are the parents of two children and one grandchild. Johnson previously served on the Westland Cable Commission and the Brownfield Redevelopment Board.

AT&T donates $5,000 to support Norwayne center

AT&T has donated $5,000 to the city of Westland in support of the Jefferson Barnes Community Vitality Center.

"Since it's opening last year, The Jefferson Barnes Community Vitality Center has proved to be a wonderful hub of active civic engagement here in Westland," said JoAnne Campbell, Westland Community Development director. "This generous contribution from AT&T will only help us further improve what is already a great community asset, and that's exciting for everyone here in Westland."

The check was presented last week to the city by Robert Jones, the AT&T regional director of external affairs to Mayor William Wild at City Hall.

Also in attendance were Campbell, State Sen. Moon-Yang Hogood (D-Troy) and State Rep. Robert Kozowski (D-Westland).

The vitality center is housed in a renovated former elementary school and includes a volunteer-run library, devoted space for children's activities, and community rooms that can be reserved for both public and private events.
