Racism charged in city election

They are on the edge of neo-Nazism and the Ku Klux Klan.

With the mailing of absentee ballots to nearly 5,000 Westland voters this week, allegations of racism and disinformation have been leveled at two candidates for city office.

One of the harshest critics of current mayoral candidate Kevin Coleman is Arthur Warren, the current president of the Westland Democratic Club. Warren claims that Coleman is deliberately misleading voters during his house-to-house campaign visits and that he is supported by a racist agenda. Coleman denies those allegations.

Warren said that the Democratic Club would not endorse Coleman and had chosen to support incumbent Mayor William R. Wild.

"I will be biased, but truthful," Warren said, regarding his comments. The 49-year city resident claims that Coleman, who served on the city council prior to making a bid for the mayoral office, is blatantly lying to voters and has displayed racist tactics during the campaign.

"This group that supports him, Move Westland Forward, has never said a good thing about our city. They are on the edge of neo-Nazism and the Ku Klux Klan," Warren said. "Note that I said on the edge."

Coleman denies any affiliation with the Move Westland Forward group and said he is honest with potential voters.

"I am not involved with them (Move Westland Forward). They do their own thing," he said. "I know that they support me," he added.

Lisa Graham who manages the Move Westland Forward Group denies any trace of racism on the site.

"That is absolutely not true," she said. "We ban racist com-

Drivers in Plymouth know to expect long delays when the barriers come down at local railroad crossings which have been reported to delay traffic for as long as 15 minutes. Photos by Don Howard

Slow motion

Continued train delays spark residents' complaints

Don Howard

Frustrated motorists in Plymouth continue to complain about train delays, some lasting about 20 minutes and stretching 2-3 miles across the community.

Complaints about blocked crossings are not a new topic in a town built around the railroad 150 years ago. Plymouth is still a major railroad intersection and for decades motorists and residents have learned to live and accept slow-moving rail traffic. As late as the 1960s, Chesapeake and Ohio passenger trains served the Plymouth community making regular daily runs to Detroit and Ann Arbor. At one time 27 trains regularly crisscrossed the city. Plymouth is one of the few communities in the state where trains run both east and west and north and south.

Ken Rutka, a 35-year old consumer research director who works in Ann Arbor, says he just moved to Plymouth last month and already had what he described as "an unbelievable train delay" as his entire life but never encountered a train as long as the one on Starkweather Street on a recent Thursday.

"I was held up by a train in Plymouth this morning on Starkweather for 16 minutes by my count. Not something you want to run into on your morning commute...with there were penalties to assure this wouldn't happen to motorists in the future," Rutka said in an email.

In recent years, frustrated city leaders have attempted to alleviate the train delay problem after facing irate residents. Traffic tickets have been issued to train engineers in an attempt to find a solution to the problem.

In 2002, then State Attorney would be mailing the absentee ballots Oct. 6.

"It really is an effort to make voting more convenient," Craig Bragg said. She said her office sends out postcards to citizens registered as permanent absentee voters asking them if they wish to request an absentee ballot.

"I think more people are taking advantage of absentee voting," she said. "Our office sent out literature explaining our new voting equipment and the absentee process."

LeBlanc agreed noting that he launched an outreach effort to increase absentee voting in Westland about 18 months ago with the approval of the mayor and city council members.

He said that he tries to get the ballots into the hands of the voters as soon as the language is approved by the state and county offices responsible for ensuring the accuracy of the verbiage. LeBlanc added that when he started the effort, there were about 4,600 Westland residents registered as permanent absentee voters.

"That total has increased to 7,200," he said. LeBlanc added that he had offered to go pick up the ballots from the official printer personally to ensure a prompt mailing in the city.

"We learned last Friday that our ballots were officially approved," LeBlanc said, "so we expect them here this week and then they will go into the mail."

Craig Bragg added that she felt there has been an issue of trust with voters. New procedures put into place by Secretary of State Ruth Johnson

We Can Do It

Yankee Air Museum schedules attempt to win Guinness record

Yankee Air Museum will host thousands of look-alikes next month in an effort to reclaim the Guinness World Record for the Largest Gathering of People Dressed as Rosie the Riveter.

Carhartt has joined the Oct. 14 effort as a sponsor of the event. "This is huge!" exclaimed Kevin Walsh, executive director of Yankee Air Museum. "Carhartt is a name synonymous with quality workwear the likes of which made Rosie the Riveter emblematic of the Arsenal of Democracy during World War II. Having Carhartt as the top sponsor of the Rosie World Record event bolsters our financial ability and confidence to crush the old record. We are very thankful."

Since 2016, Yankee Air Museum has allowed the Rosie the Riveter World War II Home Front National Historical Park in Richmond, CA, to hold the coveted record. Walsh says that generosity will end soon now that Carhartt has stepped up to support the return of the record to its rightful home in Michigan.

"This local event is a testament to how Rosie the Riveter continues to influence so many people more than 70 years after she originally inspired millions," said Brian Bennett, vice president of brand creative at Carhartt. "Dating back to the 1940s and beyond, Carhartt has made workwear for hardworking women who can build or fix anything. We're incredibly honored to support an event that celebrates such an important piece of our country's heritage."

"The Rosie World Record event promises to be a great time of historic proportions. No one should miss it!"

The primary mission of any museum is to preserve history, and the Rosie legacy begins at historic Willow Run, site of the B-24 Bomber Plant where Rose Will Monroe, the Original Rosie the Riveter worked with thousands of other women.

On the second Saturday in October, Yankee Air Museum aims to reclaim the World Record. With anticipated crowds of more than 5,000, the event will be held at the Eastern Michigan University Convention Center, 799 N. Hewitt, Ypsilanti, Michigan 48197. The event is free, and online pre-registration is encouraged at <http://www.yankeeairmuseum.org/rosie-world-record>. The celebration begins at 9 a.m., and Rosies must arrive by 11 a.m. to be counted in the official gathering. Participants of all ages are welcome.

The Guinness World Record group maintains strict standards, making it important for those who wish to be counted to wear the correct costume. The official costume must contain the following four items: Red, polka dot bandanna (not paisley); dark blue jumpsuit or dark blue pants and work shirt; red soccer-style socks and dark work shoes (no high heels, sandals, or open toes).

Cloth for bandannas can be purchased from leading fabric stores (ask for a pattern called "tipstick"). Dark blue jumpsuits, work shirts, and pants can be ordered online at Carhartt.com or purchased at major retailers. Red soccer-style socks can be purchased at most sporting goods stores. Bandannas and socks can also be purchased at the Yankee Air Museum gift shop. "The Rosie World Record event promises to be a great time of historic proportions," said Walsh. "No one should miss it!"

Drivers in Canton to face further road closures

Nobody said it would be easy, and apparently, they were right.

Drivers throughout Canton Township will face another detour and road closing this week when Ridge Road, between Ford and Hanford roads is closed to traffic to accommodate paving.

Township officials said the closure and detour would continue for about 8 weeks as the road is paved to provide access to a 203-unit apartment complex under construction in the area. This closure adds to the closure of Lilley Road, north of Michigan Avenue, which will remain closed for a year at minimum while a bridge determined as unsafe in April is being replaced.

The delays for motorists will be complicated next year when the remainder of Ridge Road, from south of Hanford north to Warren will be paved. Canton Township and Wayne County will share in the paving costs of that section. The county is expected to pay about $1.9 million for the paving project while Canton Township will pay about $1.5 million of the total costs for the paving.

Earlier this month, the new Canton Roads Advisory Task Force met for the first time to help identify needed repairs for local roads and streets and to recommend ways to fund the needed renovations.

The goal of the task force is to determine a comprehensive approach to repairing all the roads in the township.

Vote for Proven Leadership, Dedication and Transparency in Government.

"As your elected Council person, I will work with the Mayor and Administration to continue to promote economic development that is appropriate for the City of Westland, work closely with the Police and Fire departments for the safety and well being of the citizens, and always respect the will of the People."

RE-ELECT WILLIAM R. WILD

MAYOR

VOTE FOR EXPERIENCE AND RESULTS

Mayor Wild was the leader that led the city through the recession. He was a consensus builder and got the City, the Unions and the City Council all on the same page as we right-sized the city's workforce. Mayor Wild worked with the Police Department to bring trained civilians into the station which allowed us to keep the manpower on the road at nearly the same level. We are proud to endorse Mayor Wild's re-election.

Westland Police Officers Association

Mayor Wild's leadership and support of the Westland Fire Department has earned our endorsement of his campaign for re-election.

Mayor Wild has successfully obtained federal grants to keep our manpower strong and has strategically reinvested in our stations and equipment giving us the resources to provide superior Fire and EMS service to Westland residents.

Westland Firefighters Local 1279

Mayor Wild continues to be "tough on crime" and is a huge proponent of best practices. His leadership was a driving force in the Police Department's recent CALEA certification which only six other Michigan Police Agencies have achieved. Mayor Wild has always supported Westland having a full-time Detective Bureau, Narcotics Team and Traffic Bureau to keep our neighborhoods and streets safe. For these reasons, along with his proven track record and experience, we are proud to support his re-election for Mayor.

Westland Lieutenants and Sergeants Association

Mayor Wild and his team were the first to take concessions during the recent recession and his Team Westland approach which includes ALL city employees has allowed the employees to take a much more customer service first approach to residents' concerns. We know the Mayor's vision is to take care of Westland's residents and businesses and we share his goals to try to improve the city each and every day. We are proud to support Mayor Wild's re-election campaign.

UAW Local 174 and AFSCME Local 1602

I'm impressed that the Mayor has made diversity a priority in hiring and appointments to the city board and commissions and for his track record of making progress. You can look all over the city and see improvements that are being made without our taxes going up.

Mack Mayfield, long-time Westland resident

Mayor Wild has been one of the city's most progressive Mayors. He has accomplished many things and tackled some of the city's long-standing issues that other Mayors weren't able to.

William Ziemba, long-time Westland resident

Mayor Wild's work ethic and calm demeanor have suited him well in his time as Mayor. He has great uncanny ability to perform at a high level each and every day and continue to make meaningful progress while continuing to tackle all the issues and crisis that land on the Mayor's desk that would slow others down.

City OK's purchase of new defibrillators

Members of the Westland City Council took a request from Fire Chief Michael Stradner to heart last week.

The council members approved the purchase of five new cardiac monitor/defibrillators through Physio Control for $159,758, replacing units originally purchased from 2008-2010 that are now being recalled by the manufacturer.

"This was an essential purchase to address any potential issues that could have been experienced with the continued use of the recalled devices," noted Mayor William R. Wild.

Philips is experiencing a class 1 recall issued from the Federal Drug Administration concerning battery connection issues that may prevent the device from powering up, charging, and delivering an electrical shock therapy. The units being replaced are included in the recall and currently Philips has no solution in place to correct these devices, nor are they able to repair current devices.

Westland fire officials had reached out to Zoll Medical and Physio Control for loaner devices and removed the affected units from service while reviewing the situation and awaiting council approval. This purchase is being funded through the Capital Improvement Fund.

"I am very pleased with this purchase and thankful to our city leaders in recognizing and delivering on our current needs, to enable our department to continue to deliver quality care," commented Stradner.

"These new units will help the Westland Fire Department to continue to deliver the patient care our community expects from their professional firefighters," commented Wild.

ments."

"Coleman and this group completely discounts what Mayor Wild has accomplished for this city during the past decade. I fully understand political campaigning, but this has just gone too far," Warren said.

Warren claims that Coleman does not tell voters that he does not pay taxes in the city as he rents a flat above Westland Lock and Key and he disputes Coleman's claim that he is a teacher.

"He gives music lessons part-time," Warren said. "He implies to voters that he is a school teacher which is false. He may pay taxes indirectly, but he doesn't have the same skin in the game as a homeowner; that's for sure."

Coleman said that he is a part-time music instructor and that he went to a part-time status to campaign for the mayor's job.

Warren also claims that Coleman, 34, and his cousin, incumbent City Councilman Peter Herzberg, 26, have repeatedly misinformed residents about the crime statistics in the community.

"That man (Coleman) said that 'crime is rampant' in our community and that the police lost 25 percent of the officers. That is just not accurate. During the recession and home mortgage crisis, when the city lost about 45 percent of our funding, the city had to cut about 10 percent of officers, but the mayor and chief rearranged the department to bring on civilian employees to do desk work to get officers out on the street."

"As far as crime in this city goes, if you live here, you know those statements are not true. We have some crime, like every city, but as far as criminals roaming up and down the street, that's just another lie," Warren said.

Coleman, however, repeated his claims about rampant crime and said that he could point out a victim of robberies at any intersection in the city.

"Armed robbery is becoming common," he said and added that "break-ins are increasing" in the city. He insisted that his 25 percent cut in police staffing was accurate and based on figures taken from the city budget.

"If this is true, why won't the police department endorse Coleman or Herzberg?" Warren countered.

He is also critical of Herzberg's

I have lived in Westland for 40 years and I recognize racism when I see it.

Warren said that the reported accounts of Herzberg loitering at a school bus stop and taking pictures of students was indicative of his character.

Two police reports were made in April 2016 by parents concerned for the safety of their children who reported a man with "spiky" hair taking photos of them from his car near the school bus stop.

Herzberg, who claims to operate an educational consulting firm, was serving on the city council at the time of the incident. He was identified and interviewed by police officers and the subsequent report quotes him as admitting to "pretending" to take pictures of the children. He said his actions were an effort to deter the 10- and 11-year-olds who had been playing pranks near his father's home. He told police that he had actually taken no photos and the pretense was his attempt to stop the children from tampering with the house and vehicles.

Warren was most irate at the conduct of Coleman and Herzberg supporters, whom, he claims, have used racial epithets and have made threats against minorities in the city.

Those claims, too, are substantiated by police reports which detail one of Coleman's supporters using the N-word regarding the appointment to a city commission of a black man. The woman, a vocal supporter of Coleman, also told the clerk at the reception desk in city hall that "someone should put a bullet in his (Wild's) forehead," according to the police report.

Just last month, in another incident reported to Westland police, a male Coleman/Herzberg supporter also used threats and abusive language with a local minority business owner during a dispute regarding the placement of campaign signs.

"As an Afro-American, I sense this clearly," Warren said. "I have lived in Westland for 40 years and I recognize racism when I see it. Move Westland Forward has a racist agenda and this is becoming a racist campaign no matter how they deny it."

"We would never have obtained the 50th Best City to Live In award with the policies they support," Warren said.

Coleman said that he felt the issue was a matter of negative campaigning.

"I'm talking about city issues and they're throwing personal attacks," he said.

A local senior citizen, who asked not to be identified, said that she was extremely annoyed during a recent meet-the-candidates forum at the Westland Friendship Center when Coleman responded to a question saying that he intended to "clean house" and fire several department heads and hire a city manager.

She said she understood him to say that the title "city manager" was a "big hint as to who it would be."

Warren repeated his claims that Coleman and Herzberg are being untruthful and dishonest with potential voters.

"Look, I love politics," Warren said. "I love a factual discussion about issues. But this? This is just insulting to the voters and to the political process. These two, and Move Westland Forward are giving our whole community a blackeye."

INKSTER - WAYNE

Recall petitions OK'd against 4 officials

Language on recall petitions against Wayne City Councilman Christopher Sanders, Councilman Ryan Gabriel, Mayor Pro-Tem Anthony Miller and Mayor Susan Rowe were unanimously approved by members of the Wayne County Elections Commission last Wednesday.

The petitions were presented for approval of language to the commission members by Bob Boertje. This was the second effort to have the petitions for recall approved. The first such petitions were rejected for unclear language Aug. 30.

These petitions, according to recall supporter Ron Roberts, a long-time city resident, were based on the vote of each of the four to extend city council terms by one year on Oct. 18, 2016.

"The language is very clear," Roberts said.

Boertje, however, said that he was still waiting to learn if another hearing was necessary to determine the accuracy or fact in the petitions.

"I don't know if there is another hearing to see if the language is true or false," he said. "I do know we are on the right track."

Roberts added that he was confident that the required 1,000 signatures could be obtained on the recall petitions within 60 days of the first signature. "We have a lot of volunteers willing to help with this effort," he said.

Rowe, who was out of state last week, said, "This is democracy and these are the rights of the citizens. I will just keep moving forward and being the mayor I have been."

The petition language approval followed on the heels of two raucous city council meetings during the past weeks. During both meetings, resident Mark Blackwell refused to acknowledge the 3-minute rule for citizens' comments and continued speaking over the insistent gaveling of Rowe. At the meeting two weeks ago, Rowe asked that a police officer remove Blackwell and then temporarily recessed the meeting. Again Tuesday evening, when Blackwell insisted on his right to speak at length despite Rowe's reminders of the time limits, Rowe was forced to recess the meeting twice, although some council members refused to leave the council chambers. Rowe eventually recommenced the meeting and told Blackwell to continue his prolonged account regarding citizens' right to be heard.

Residents at the meeting also questioned the removal of an item placed on the agenda by Miller suggesting the termination of City Manager Lisa Noerling. That item was removed from the agenda early in the meeting. Also of concern to residents was a report from the city attorney regarding the implementation of the ward system in the city, a move approved by voters but never adopted. Following a special meeting two weeks ago regarding the issue, the council referred the issue to the city attorney for a report. The report was accepted and filed with no discussion Tuesday, residents voiced their objections.

Inkster Legends begins holiday raffle sales

It may still be September, but the Inkster Legends are already planning their Annual Christmas Givingaway.

The annual raffle funds holiday groceries and gifts for 100 less fortunate Inkster families.

"We just completed our 20th anniversary of the Inkster Legends Free Basketball Camp last month and now the stage is set for our next event," noted Director Fred Smiley.

This year the annual raffle will include a grand prize of two tickets to see the Houston Rockets vs. the Detroit Pistons at Little Caesar's Arena Jan. 6, 2018. First prize is a weekend stay at the Sheraton Hotel with breakfast and second prize will be four tickets to The Henry Ford museum. Third prize is a birthday party blast for 15 people at the Romulus Athletic Center and fourth prize is two racks of lamb from Fairway meats in Detroit. Fifth prize is a one-day weekend stay at the Marriott Hotel and sixth prize is a Garmin GPS Navigation system. Seventh, Eighth and Ninth prizes are dinner for two at Urban Soul, dinner for two at The Say and dinner for two at Red Lobster. Bonus prize this year is a $25 gift certificate at Famous Ford Garage restaurant in Dearborn and the bonus grand prize is a family package for four people to see the world-famous Harlem Globetrotters at Little Caesar's Arena.

Tickets for the raffle of all these prizes is a $10 donation and winners need not be present to win, Smiley said. "All proceeds from the raffle go to the Christmas Givingaway."

The drawing for the raffle will take place at 6 p.m. Dec. 13 at the Sheraton Hotel in Romulus.

"This fundraiser will really help in our efforts to provide 100 families in Inkster with a great Christmas," Smiley said. "We also accept donations and to donate or for more information go to www.inksterlegends.com and click on contact us."

For raffle tickets contact Smiley at (734) 890-2478, Daniel Orr (313) 715-6700 or Larry Spencer (313) 520-8144.

State legislator criticizes civil service decision

State Rep. Jewell Jones (D-Inkster) had some harsh words of criticism regarding a decision of the Michigan Civil Service Commission earlier this month.

Members of the commission adopted new rules that severely limit Michigan civil service workers' ability to negotiate job protections such as seniority, recall rights and the ability to negotiate grievances.

"I am extremely disappointed in the Civil Service Commission's action to strip state employees of the right to bargain over such issues as overtime, seniority and more."

"An efficient and well-functioning state government depends on experienced, dedicated employees. By its vote, the Civil Service Commission is telling those employees that they are not worthy of certain bargaining rights despite the invaluable service they provide their neighbors, their community and their state. Many of those employees will likely feel more valued elsewhere and take their training and experience to another employer, leading to higher turnover and reduced quality of service," Jones said in a prepared statement.

State government now has the power to override clauses in union contracts with state employees in times of financial emergencies and department managers have control as to the reassignment of state employees following layoffs and overtime.

Hundreds of state workers protested the decision when the Michigan Civil Service Commission voted 3-1 to adopt the new rules during a meeting in Lansing last week.

"This was the wrong decision, and the citizens of Michigan are going to pay the price," Jones concluded.

PLYMOUTH

Wall art Library unveils Pewabic mural

Visitors to the Plymouth District Library will notice a colorful new art installation in the vestibule near the main door.

A new custom tile mural created by Pewabic Pottery of Detroit has been unveiled at the downtown Plymouth facility. Including community landmarks and natural features, the mural features approximately 650 tiles glazed in more than a dozen colors in hallmark Pewabic style.

Founded by Mary Chase Perry Stratton in the early 1900s, Pewabic Pottery has enriched lives through art education and outreach for more than a century. The installation began the week of Aug. 14 and installers worked during regular library hours, allowing visitors to see the mural take shape.

This project was made possible by a generous contribution from an anonymous donor, noted Library Director Carol Souchock, and has been in the works for the last year.

Many meetings took place to determine exactly what local landmarks would be included to represent and celebrate the community.

The Pewabic design team, including Senior Designer Special Projects Genevieve Sylvia, and Glaze Development Specialist Alex Thullen, among others, worked through several renditions to convey the Plymouth community including both the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township. One half of the mural features iconic landmarks of the city like the Penn Theater and downtown clock.

The tile mural was created, cut and molded by hand by Pewabic artists. Tile pieces then passed through multiple kiln firings (2300 F) to achieve the end-glaze colors. At that point, the mural pieces were then re-assembled to insure fit, quality and final appeal.

Early discussions by the Library Board of Trustees pointed toward Pewabic and its longstanding reputation in southeast Michigan.

"We are so excited to share the tradition and history of Pewabic Pottery with the patrons of the Plymouth District Library," said Mary Maguire, president of the Library board of trustees. "The art tile installation not only honors the Plymouth community but the larger metro area, as Pewabic is a Detroit-based non-profit. Like our library, Pewabic Pottery is committed to excellence and to providing educational opportunities, passing knowledge to those who seek it," she added.

Souchock, worked with all parties on the project, including library architect Ron Cieslak. "It was through this diligent effort that a final design was determined," she explained. "In the coming years, this work of art will become a landmark in itself."

DeSandro Brothers installed the artwork at the library.

Plymouth Township Fire Department wins federal grant

A $195,000 federal grant will fund the replacement of obsolete fire safety equipment for the Plymouth Township Fire Department.

According to Fire Chief Dan Phillips, the department was notified Sept. 8 that the grant application submitted through the Federal Emergency Management System (FEMA) about a year ago had been approved and the funding for 25 new Self-Contained Breathing apparatus (SCBA) devices had been approved.

These devices are used by firefighters to provide breathable air in areas where smoke and fumes are dangerous to life and health. The devices are usually used during fire suppression activities, Phillips said, as well as rescuing victims in a fire or other dangerous environments.

The township will be responsible for 10 percent of the total cost of the devices, about $19,000, Phillips said and the cost will need approval from the members of the board of trustees. The current devices used by the firefighters have not been replaced in the department since the units were purchased in 1999 and no longer meet the safety standards for such equipment. The new breathing apparatus will allow Plymouth Township to be compatible with the equipment used by surrounding communities such as Northville and Canton townships.

The grant funding will allow the township to replace the SCBA units on every fire truck and ambulance at all three fire stations in the township, Phillips added.

Phillips said the equipment should be in the stations later this year and that the current staff of 21 firefighters would begin training to use the new capabilities the SCBA units now offer.

Another federal grant of more than $173,000 to the Plymouth Township Fire Department for equipment was announced by U.S. Sens. Debbie Stabenow and Gary Peters last week. Plymouth Township was among departments awarded $1.2 million in equipment funding from the federal grant program.

"Our firefighters in southeast Michigan put their lives on the line to protect our families and homes," Stabenow said in a prepared release, adding that "these brave men and women will have the equipment they need to help them do their jobs more safely and effectively."

Peters said the equipment will help firefighters "protect our homes, businesses and families" and "safely serve their communities."

"As a longtime resident of Westland, I want to continue helping our City improve, so that it is a place where people continue to be proud to live and work."

NORTHVILLE - ROMULUS

Informational forum on school bond scheduled

Northville Public Schools families and community members can learn more about Bond 2017 at the second of two community forums being hosted by the Northville Board of Education. The bond proposal - which will go before voters at the Nov. 7 election - would allow the district to upgrade school facilities, enhance existing building security, and provide modern learning environments across the school district, officials said. If approved, the $104.85 million bond proposal would result in a zero increase in the current debt millage rate for taxpayers, they stressed.

The second Bond 2017 community forum is scheduled from 6:30 until 8 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 3 at Meads Mill Middle School, 16700 Franklin Road in Northville.

Members of the Northville Board of Education have said Bond 2017 will benefit students, families and the community in a variety of ways, including learning environment upgrades to meet modern learning and teaching practices; improvements to address the aging infrastructure of district buildings; safety and security upgrades that build on security upgrades already in place and energy and operational initiatives to improve the environmental quality and efficiency of buildings, as well as reduce operational expenses.

The bond proposal is the culmination of a two-year facility and infrastructure planning initiative to upgrade aging buildings to support learner-centered school communities. In March, a study committee of district and community stakeholders came together to review and analyze a comprehensive Facilities Needs Assessment for the district; consider stakeholder feedback from two community engagement sessions; prioritize needs; and present a recommendation to the board of education members. In July, the board members unanimously supported placing the $104.85 million bond initiative on the Nov. 7 ballot.

The bond proposal includes a major addition and renovation at Hillside Middle School, to maintain its near-downtown location, with a portion of the existing building being demolished after construction of three academic wings. Program upgrades at Northville High School will support current and future enrollment by expanding common physical education/fitness and co-curricular areas, along with installation of multi-use turf to replace the existing high school athletic field for physical education, athletic band and community use. In addition, the bond will support restoration and renovation of the recent Old Village School for the Early Childhood program and administrative offices.

"It makes financial sense to bring this bond proposal before voters at this time," said Northville Superintendent of Schools Mary Kay Gallagher. "It will enable the school district to address much-needed facility updates to meet the current and future educational needs of our students with no projected increase in the current debt millage rate. It also will allow the district to preserve general fund dollars for instruction and classroom needs by providing a dedicated funding source to address identified and prioritized site, facility, safety and security and equipment needs."

The bond forum will begin with a short presentation sharing the overall bond proposal, its impact on 21st century learning, and how it can be financed while maintaining the current 3.64 mills debt millage rate for taxpayers. Following the presentation, participants can take part in breakout sessions where they can hear about projects and improvements at individual schools and facilities. Tours of Meads Mill also will be available.

For more information about Bond 2017 - including detailed lists of bond projects by building; answers to frequently asked questions about the bond and voting information - visit the district website at www.NorthvilleSchools.org and click on "2017 Bond Information." Questions regarding the bond proposal can be emailed to NPS@NorthvilleSchools.org.

Romulus Tim Horton's owner to pay $22,500 fine

A Romulus-based franchisee of Tim Horton's Cafe and Bake Shop will pay $22,500 to settle a religious accommodation lawsuit filed by the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC), according to the federal agency.

The EEOC lawsuit charged that Slenem Enterprises, LLC, who operates the Romulus Tim Horton's, violated federal law by firing Amanda Corley after she requested a religious accommodation. According to the EEOC lawsuit, in 2015, Corley was hired by Slenem to work at the Romulus cafe. On Nov. 16 of that year, Corley requested that she be permitted to wear a skirt instead of pants, in accordance with her Pentecostal Apostolic religious beliefs. Corley attempted to present a letter from her pastor, explaining her need to wear a skirt, court documents claimed. Rather than allow Corley to wear a skirt, Slenem fired her, the EEOC said.

Such alleged conduct violates Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, which prohibits employers from discriminating against employees based on their religious beliefs. The

Under federal law, an employer has an obligation to fairly balance an employee's right to practice religion with operating its business.

EEOC filed suit in U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Michigan after first attempting to reach a pre-litigation settlement through its conciliation process.

The consent decree settling the suit, in addition to providing for the award of monetary relief to Corley, prohibits any similar discrimination in the future and requires Slenem to train shift supervisors and managers on all forms of discrimination prohibited by Title VII, including the obligation to provide reasonable religious accommodations.

"Under federal law, an employer has an obligation to fairly balance an employee's right to practice religion with operating its business," said Miles Uhlar, trial attorney for the EEOC Detroit Field Office.

"When this obligation is not met, the EEOC will step in and protect workers."

The EEOC's Detroit Field Office is part of the agency Indianapolis District Office, which oversees Michigan, Indiana, Kentucky, and parts of Ohio.

Citizen involvement is the cornerstone of our democracy.

"Let's continue to support our police and fire service, improve and enhance our senior services, build our businesses and neighborhood, stabilize our water rates and fix our roads."

Veterans' picnic is Saturday

The 50th Commemorative Picnic will take place Sept. 30 at the Plymouth VFW Post #695, located at 1426 S. Mill St. This event is free to all Vietnam veterans, and their families, as a way to say thank you for their service. A barbecue and family activities will be included at the event.

There will be information about Hepatitis-C, Agent Orange and other medical conditions available along with facts about benefits, veterans' services and an Honor and Remember Flag Ceremony.

The highlight of the event is expected to be the presentation of 50th Vietnam Commemorative pins by Congressional Medal of Honor recipient Charles Kettles. The pins will be presented to every Vietnam veteran who attends.

For more information, call the Plymouth VFW Post at (734) 429-6700.

allowing voters to check their absentee ballot as to when it is received by the local clerk and when it is counted have really improved voter trust in the system, she said.

Craig Bragg added that the Michigan Association of Municipal Clerks has been lobbying legislators heavily to approve a "no reason" absentee ballot, meaning that the voter does not have to be older than 60, handicapped or expecting to be out-of-town on Election Day to qualify.

"I think that would encourage even more people to vote absentee," Craig Bragg said. "It really does make it easier on the voter, but then again, many folks do choose to come to the polls to cast their votes."

Both clerks reminded residents that absentee ballots can be requested until the day before the election but would have to be filled out at city hall in that case. Clerk's offices in nearly every municipality will be open Nov. 4, the Saturday prior to the election. The last day to register to vote is Oct. 10.

Trains

General Jennifer Granholm challenged the CSX with a court action and defended a 1994 Michigan statute that prohibits trains from continuously blocking crossings for longer than five minutes. Each violation of the state statute resulted in a $500 fine and CSX was issued over 890 citations with potential fines exceeding $446,000. CSX then filed a countersuit against Plymouth in the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Michigan claiming the state statute is preempted by federal statutes. The court agreed that the regulation was preempted by both the Federal Railroad Safety Act and the Interstate Commerce Commission Termination Act. Plymouth did not appeal.

In May of last year a CSX spokesperson told The Eagle the delays were the result of "operational changes," claiming the company had implemented infrastructure improvements and apologized for the "inconvenience."

As city officials faced continued complaints, they established a direct 24-hour "Toll CSX" line to the railroad and posted the telephone number on area crossing gates. They urged disgruntled motorists to call U.S. Senators Debbie Stabenow, Gary Peters and U.S. Rep. David Trott. Officials said they were told that CSX policy required that trains be broken into two parts whenever a blockage is expected to continue for more than 10 minutes.

Reports say CSX has recently changed routes and closed rail "hump" yards that sort the long trains. Hump yards are massive facilities that disassemble the trains by rolling them down an incline and directing the cars through switches to tracks where new trains are assembled.

In a written response to an inquiry by The Eagle, CSX Assistant Vice President for Media and Communications Rob Doolittle, apologized to Plymouth and Canton residents who have experienced blocked crossings.

"CSX is transitioning to a new operating model, called Precision Scheduled Railroading, which is intended to optimize the use of all assets, including locomotives, rail cars and infrastructure, in providing a cost-effective, reliable, predictable freight-transportation product to customers."

"This transition requires dramatic change in many aspects of the company's operations and some customers and other stakeholders have experienced unintended ed effects, including longer trains, as our organization has evolved. We have acknowledged these issues, and we are committed to working through and resolving them as quickly as possible. Safety remains our top priority and factors into every decision the company makes regarding its employees, customers and the communities we serve," Doolittle said.

Doolittle said CSX has a contact website for concerned residents, www.csxmich.com.

Statistics show CSX employs 25,000 workers and has 21,000 miles of track that stretches into eastern Canada. The railroad giant based in Florida is now a monopoly connecting major cities like Miami, Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis, Montreal and Boston.

According to a recent report in The Wall Street Journal, problems for CSX began this May and became worse by mid-summer. Details of railroad congestion, service delays and colossal trains blocking the tracks are said to be wreaking havoc not only with motorists, but business and industry. CSX is now one of only two railroad operators that handle nearly all rail shipments east of the Mississippi River. According to the accounts, railroad logs show the transit time from Chicago to Columbus, Tenn. is usually just a few days and earlier this month the actual ride time was posted as 18 days, 13 hours and 57 minutes.

This July a railroad regulator, the Surface Transportation Board, warned CSX to "Fix the service problem," after receiving customer complaints about service deterioration, including delays and congestion, long and unpredictable transit times, railcars sitting in yards for days at a time and numerous shipper complaints.

Plymouth City Manager Paul Sincovec reported that his office had not received any recent complaints of long trains or inordinate delays. According to Sincovec, the blocking of grade crossings is not regulated by law.

Arthur Warren, President of the Westland Democratic Club Wants to know: Which Kevin did you meet today?

FLIP! OR FLOP!

It appears that young Mr. Coleman wants to be everything to every voter. Depending on the issue that is of interest to a resident, Kevin claims to have the answer and a promise to fix whatever the problem might be in exchange for their vote.

DO NOT BE FOOLED by this political tactic.

DEMAND an explanation of HOW Kevin is going to pay for his promises!

KEVIN WON'T LET FACTS GET IN THE WAY OF ANY CAMPAIGN PROMISE

I'm going to hire 10 new police officers!
(Police department refuses to endorse him)

I will make neighborhoods a top priority!
(What does that mean?)

I'm going to lower your water bills!
(2/3 of water rates are controlled by Detroit Water Department)

I'm going to hire more firefighters!
(Firefighters won't endorse him)

I'm a Democrat!
(The Democratic Party refuses to endorse him)

I'm going to fix our roads!
(Road repair funding is controlled by State and County.)

I'm going to fight insider politics!
(Kevin and his cousin Peter Herzberg CREATED insider politics.)

I'm going to bring in new business!
(Just no minority-owned ones?)

I will restore services!
(Which services are missing?)

I'm a taxpaying resident like you!
(Not according to city and county official records.)

I'm a TEACHER!
(Really, Kevin? Really?)

I support law and order!
(Are you talking about the TV show?)

I'm going to cut your taxes!
(Are the new cops going to work for free?)

I'm going to cut your taxes!
(City services cost money, Kevin.)

I'm going to invest in infrastructure!
(Even though I've never paid a water bill.)

I'm going to reduce personnel costs!
(Ummm, how exactly?)

I'm a Republican!
(The Republican Party refuses to endorse him.)

I'm going to cut your taxes!
(Even though I have never paid property taxes.)

Vote for my 'self-employed' cousin Peter Herzberg who has a police record.

I voted NO on new development taxes
(One of my campaign workers used verbal threats and foul language in a dispute with a minority business owner over my campaign signs.)

I voted against paying for senior services in the city budget.

I live in a flat above Westland Lock and Key
(I don't pay property taxes.)

I don't have a job and give piano lessons part-time when I can find work.

One of my chief supporters suggested "putting a bullet" in the mayor's head and used the N-word at City Hall
