Canton issues firearm, hunting warning

While Canton Township officials are considering the need for more local controls on hunting in the township, a special notice regarding the current restrictions on hunting or the discharge of firearms in the township has been issued.

Officials have again warned residents that the township is divided into areas either closed or restricted for hunting and a violation of the local ordinances is a misdemeanor, punishable by 90 days in jail and/or a $500 fine.

Hunting is prohibited in closed areas which include the entire eastern side of the township and in some small areas in northwestern Canton. In the majority of western Canton, hunting has been designated as restricted, officials said. In a small portion of the northwest corner of Canton, hunting or the discharge of a shotgun loaded with shot not larger than No. 6, is permitted from Oct. 20 to March 1. For the majority of the western side, however, hunting with a firearm is unlawful with some specified exceptions.

In restricted areas verbal permission from the property owner is required for hunting to be permitted. In addition, Michigan Safety Zone state law prohibits hunting or the discharge of a firearm within 150 yards of an occupied building, dwelling, house, residence, cabin, barn or any other type of building used in conjunction with farm operations, without obtaining written permission of the owner, renter or occupant of the property.

The Canton Police Department will strictly enforce all state and local hunting ordinances for the 2015 hunting season, officials said. A map of hunting restrictions and the ordinance are available at www.cantonpublicsafety.org. Hunting restrictions can also be found online at www.michigan.gov/dnr.

Members of the Canton Board of Trustees recently approved a resolution requesting the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to schedule a public hearing inquiring into the need for additional special local hunting controls on areas located on the western half of Canton.

Information will be made available to the public as it becomes available from the DNR and the Canton Public Safety Department, officials said. This process is in the infancy stage and does not affect the current 2015 hunting restrictions in place at this time, according to a prepared statement from the Canton Police Department.

All decked out Annual Northville Home Tour set for this weekend

It's that time of year already. The Northville Community Foundation Holiday Home Tour is planned for 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Nov. 13 and 14. This event is a great way to get new decorating ideas for your home while also getting into the holiday spirit, noted Jessica Striegler, executive director of the foundation.

Once again five Northville homes have been selected to be decorated for the holidays by five professional designers including Ethan Allen, Ann Arbor, MW Designs, Margaret Winter Interiors, The Beautiful House and Kelly Ponder, Designer. "The style of each home and decorator is different and there truly is something for every taste," Striegler said.

Included on the tour this year are two renovated downtown homes that were built in the early 1900s and an outstanding home designed with Tuscan in mind. "This home features a custom wine cellar basement that was built to entertain. This home is just spectacular and one you will not want to miss," Striegler said.

She said there is also a modern home that was remodeled to feel like a rustic cabin retreat. It features reclaimed hardwood flooring throughout, a unique copper ceiling in the den, and a beautiful custom stone archway and fireplace. Said, "Add the holiday decorations and this home becomes even more stunning, nobody should miss it."

Another featured home built in 1926 mixes a modern craftsman style with the original crown molding, arched doorways, built-ins and an exceptional fireplace. Another home is decorated in a traditional style that makes visitors feel at home as they walk through the door, Striegler added.

Tickets for the 2015 Holiday Home Tour are $25 in advance and $30 the day of the event. To purchase tickets visit Haven of Northville, Gardenviews or the Northville Chamber of Commerce. Tickets may also be purchased on Visa or MasterCard by calling (248) 974-0300. Tickets are limited and the tour does sell out each year, Striegler said.

To purchase tickets the day of the tour, visit Ward Church at 40000 Six Mile Road, 1/4 mile west of Haggerty Road. Tickets may be purchased at the Church from 9 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. Nov. 13 and 14. Proceeds from the Holiday Home Tour help fund the Northville Community Foundation work in Southeast Michigan including grants for community programs, scholarships for students, operations of Maybury Farm, gifts for senior citizens, and much more.

Sponsors of the tour this year include Community Financial Credit Union, Meijer, Blackwell Ford, Aisin World Corp., Tom Holzer Ford,

Rouge recreation trail in Canton will be expanded

The 12-mile Lower Rouge River Recreation Trail will be extended by another 1.5 miles east from I-275 to Hamman Road in Canton Township.

The work is expected to begin next year and will cost about $160,000.

Canton Township Board of Trustees approved an expense of $19,000 for the design of the new trail extension to be completed by SmithGroupJJR.

During the regular meeting of the trustees earlier this month, Canton Leisure Services Director Debra Bilbrey-Honsowetz told the board that the trail extension was a demand from the community, expressed in a survey conducted last year. The survey determined that 81 percent of Canton residents want trails where they can walk, run or ride a bike.

The trail system, open since 2008, features wooden pedestrian bridges along a 3.5 mile trail from Canton Center Road to the I-275 Metro Trail. Two years ago, the trail was expanded to connect Flodin and Griffin parks.

The new addition will add two more pedestrian bridges and include a pedestrian crossing on Lotz Road.

Supervisor Phil LaJoy said the trail system "has been a great success and has proven to be a considerable asset to the community."

About two years ago, the trail system was expanded to connect both Flodin and Hamman parks.

Trustee questions 5-month credit receipt lag

Questions regarding credit card charges and spending procedures were posed to the administration by Plymouth Township Trustee Bob Doroshewitz during a board meeting earlier this month.

Doroshewitz apologized to the audience before beginning his questions noting that, "We have five months of receipts here, so this may take some time."

The trustee questioned the reason that five months of credit bills were presented to the board members at one time, rather than on a monthly basis. Treasurer Ron Edwards responded that there have historically been times when there has been a seven to eight month lag in the presentation of the bills for approval. He indicated that the delay was due to a wait for "people to turn in receipts."

"That is not acceptable," Doroshewitz said. He went on to question what he referred to as $10 to $15,000 in charges from Home Depot and asked if the expenses were for the construction project in the park.

"These have to be itemized, otherwise this is illegal," he said.

Edwards said that if Doroshewitz had specific charges he could probably tell him what they were for "from memory." Edwards explained that the township buys a great deal from Home Depot on a seasonal basis, such as sand for the playground, mulch, paint, paneling, Quikrete and "numerous things needed to run the township." He added that the township is working without a "financial person" and is short-staffed. "We got behind," Edwards said.

Doroshewitz asked Supervisor Shannon Price if he would explain the procedure for credit card purchases. "What is the process?" he asked.

Price responded that Doroshewitz and the other board members had the master packet of documents for a week and his questions could have been answered if he had called the offices with his inquiries.

"You had the ability to go on social media to tell everyone you were going to ask these questions," Price said. "I know you enjoy jester politics."

We've just supposed to sit here and approve what is put in front of us or are we stewards of public funds? When I ask questions the three of you (Price, Edwards, Conzelmann) pounce on me.

"What is the process?" Doroshewitz repeated.

Trustee Chuck Curmi said that certain people in the township have credit cards and those cards are considered pre-approved for purchases at different amount limits.

Edwards added that the township has been without an accountant since January and that they did not have the time or the staff to catch up on the receipts for credit card purchases.

"Bear with us, pick up the phone and ask your questions," he said.

Clerk Nancy Conzelmann seconded Edwards' suggestion, telling Doroshewitz he could have called and had all his questions answered during the week, rather than take up the time at the meeting.

"I'd like to know why you are responding to a question I directed to the supervisor," Doroshewitz said.

Curmi responded that Conzelmann, as the clerk, was responsible for the accounting in the township.

"I'm sure you would rather I was just seen and not heard," Conzelmann told Doroshewitz, and said that his questions were out of order and should be addressed as an agenda item and not during the motion on the floor.

Doroshewitz disagreed and said the items were on the consent calendar and therefore he had the responsibility to ask questions.

Doroshewitz asked Price what he felt the role of a trustee on the board was.

"Are we just supposed to sit here and approve what is put in front of us or are we stewards of public funds? When I ask questions the three of you (Price, Edwards, Conzelmann) pounce on me."

During the audience comment portion of the agenda, citizens asked questions about charges at a brew pub for $40, many other restaurant and food charges, a bill from a dance club, a $100 bill from a craft store and bills from both Shanty Creek and Boyne Highlands, and questioned several other expenses.

One citizen told Price, "Management 101, if it happens in your department, you are responsible."

Another resident told the board members that it would be beneficial if the expenses could be explained and "tell us, how did this benefit the township."

BELLEVILLE - ROMULUS

Romulus receives entrepreneurial eCities award

Romulus has again been recognized for its work to foster entrepreneurial growth and economic development in the annual eCities study conducted by researchers at ILabs, the University of Michigan-Dearborn Center for Innovation Research. For the fifth time, Romulus has been honored as a four-star community along with 17 other municipalities across the state.

"We work hard to assure our residents and businesses in Romulus are afforded the unparalleled opportunity to be successful," said Mayor LeRoy D. Burcroft. "By utilizing best business practices, we have created an environment that businesses want to be a part of."

The eCities research surveyed 66 communities from 29 counties in Michigan that are home to more than 19 percent of Michigan residents and 10 percent of its college graduates. These communities count for nearly one-fifth of the state's entrepreneurs who earned more than $1.8 billion in self-employed income, according to a prepared release from the city. More than 60 percent of these communities have a local business database, nearly a third provide business improvement grants, and nearly 40 percent have full-time economic development employees, the release stated.

"The eCities project highlights how local governments from across the state of Michigan are cultivating and supporting economic development. These communities show how local governments can work in distinct and strategic ways to energize public spaces, while investing in businesses and job development," said Tim Davis, director, ILabs.

The annual eCities research project, which began in 2007, uses data supplied by the participants, as well as other public records to assemble a six-factor 32-item index of entrepreneurial activity, looking at such factors as clustering, incentives, growth, policies, community and education. The study focuses on entrepreneurship because of its importance to expansion and diversification of Michigan regional economies and the impact small businesses have on job creation. To date, 190 communities across Michigan have participated in the study.

Voters reject public safety millage, reelect mayor

The requested 6.5 mills for funding public safety was defeated by Van Buren Township voters last week.

Voters cast 1,953 no votes on the question, defeating the 1.94 yes votes. The negative vote cast were about 56 percent of the total while the favorable votes were about 44 percent of those cast. The millage would have been for seven years and would have generated about $6.5 million to fund police and fire operations in the township.

Voters were more favorable toward a sinking fund millage request from the school district, casting 2,681 votes, or 51 percent, in favor of a 0.5 mill levy for seven years to be used for building and site improvements in the district. The millage, which garnered 49 percent or 2,576 no votes will generate about $733,000 the first year.

Incumbent Belleville Mayor Kerreen Conley was returned to office by 28 percent of the voters who cast a total of 327 votes for the challenger Phillip Miller received 42 percent of the votes for a total of 341.

Four-year terms on the Belleville City Council will be served by Jack Loria, who received a total of 336 votes or 33 percent and Tom Smith, who received 357 votes or 36 percent of the total. Jim Shrove followed with 311 votes or 31 percent of the total votes cast.

Romulus driver will spend 25-50 years in prison

Kimberly Garrett, 39, of Romulus will spend 25 to 50 years in prison for her plea-based conviction in the hit-and-run death of a Westland child.

Judge Mark Slavens handed down the prison sentence last week on the charge of second degree murder in the death of 8-year-old Kaylae Fruge. A sentence of 10-15 years in prison for Garrett's conviction on a charge of operating while intoxicated causing death was also imposed and will be served concurrently, according to the office of the Wayne County Prosecutor.

Garrett has been jailed since her arrest June 20 when police alleged she ran off the road on Darwin Street near Defton Court in Westland and drove her vehicle into the yard of a home where 8-year-old Kaylae Fruge was standing. Garrett left the scene without stopping and a witness followed her vehicle from Darwin Street to her home in Romulus where police subsequently arrested her.

The child, transported from the scene by EMTs to a local hospital, remained on life support for several days before succumbing to his injuries. He had just completed the second grade at Thorne Intermediate Elementary School and was living with his mother in the neighborhood where Garrett's car struck him. He died of blunt force trauma, according to an autopsy report from the Wayne County Medical Examiner's office.

Garrett entered a no contest plea to a charge that she was driving under the influence in an arrangement with the prosecutor's office. Original charges of reckless driving causing death, operating while intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident were dismissed in exchange for her no contest plea to the second degree murder charge.

Earlier reports indicated that Garrett told police officers at the time of her arrest that she had consumed cocaine, heroin, Ambien, Prozac and beer before driving down the residential street where her vehicle struck the child. She was arrested in March for driving under the influence of drugs and told police that she was in outpatient treatment for drug use. She said she began using drugs again in March, according to police reports.

INKSTER - WAYNE - WESTLAND

Inkster voters choose Nolen as new mayor

Byron Nolen, the local attorney best known for taking on the city in a legal battle over water rates, has been overwhelmingly chosen as the new mayor of Inkster.

Voters chose Nolen to serve the four-year mayoral term with 87 percent of the votes cast, or 87 percent of the total. Challenger Walter L. Starghill, Jr. received 273 votes, or 13 percent of the total. Clarence Oden, Jr. will serve a four-year term as the city council representative from District 2. Oden garnered 1,064 votes, or 58 percent of the total while his opponent, Calvin L. Hayes received 766 votes or 42 percent of the total cast.

In District 3, Sandra K. Watley defeated Lorenzo A. Moner, Jr. for the city council term. Moner received 52 percent of the vote, or 604 votes while Watley received 1,285 votes or a total of 64 percent.

In District 4, Jewell Jones received 1,158 votes or 64 percent while challenger William S. Miller garnered 36 percent or 647 votes. In District 5, Kim Howard defeated Winston Wade for the city council seat. Howard had 69 percent or 1,277 votes while Wade had 31 percent or 572 votes.

In District 6, former City Councilwoman and school board trustee Dee Richardson defeated Dennard Shaw for the seat. She received 1,060 or 57 percent of the votes cast while Shaw garnered 804 or 42 percent.

Five of the six four-year terms on the Inkster Library Board will be served by Akidele Akigunmi who received 987 votes. Dwayne A. Thompson who received 1,049 votes, DeAndrea Crystal-Rikay Watley who received 1,111 votes, Emmeral Shawn Wells who received 914 votes and Michael Wells who won 1,086 votes. The sixth seat went to a write-in candidate who has not been identified by the office of the Wayne County Clerk.

A proposal for a 2-mill parks and recreation tax for 10 years was overwhelmingly defeated by voters. No votes on the question totaled 1,479 or 71 percent of the votes while only 29 percent of those who voted cast yes votes for a total of only 600 votes to approve the millage. The tax would have generated about $400,000 annually to fund parks and recreation activities and services in the city.

Voters did not approve a 1-mill request for senior services in Inkster, either. The millage, requested for 10 years would have raised $200,000 annually, received on 572 votes or 28 percent of votes cast, while no voters cast 72 percent of the votes for a total of 1,504.

Voters did approve the non-Homestead school millage which does not affect residential property in the city. The levy of 20.5 mills was approved for 20 years and will be used to pay off debts of the now disbanded Inkster School District. There were 606 yes votes as opposed to the 329 no votes on the millage. Revenue, estimated at about $750,000 the first year, will be used to pay off a $12.5 million loan the school district received from the state shortly before it was disbanded in 2013. The loan should be paid off in 2043, according to state officials.

Without approval of the millage, the loan could have gone into default and the state might have attempted to collect by levying against homeowners, county school officials said.

Students in Inkster now attend neighboring districts as re-assigned by the state.

Activist defeats write-ins, Rowe is Wayne mayor

The City of Wayne has the first woman mayor chosen by voters last week.

Susan Rowe, who has been serving as a member of the city council, will serve a two-year term as mayor. She won 35 percent or 960 votes in the election while challenger Bob Boertje received 796 votes or 45 percent of the ballots cast.

A write-in candidate, Leonard Fisher, received 38 votes.

Incumbent Lorne "Skip" Monti was defeated in his bid for re-election and will be replaced in the four-year term by Tom Porter. Monti received 34 percent or 954 votes while Porter garnered 1,197 or 65 percent of the votes cast.

The council member at-large will be Anthony Miller, who received 1,149 votes or 76 percent of the total as opposed to Lucietta A. Miles who received 34 percent or 960 votes.

In Ward 1 of the city, longtime community activist Christopher Sanders was elected with a total of 798 votes defeating both write-in candidates Alfred Brock and Allen Z. Shuh. Brock received at total of 199 votes and Shuh received 544 write-in votes on the ballot.

Councilman John Rhaesa was unopposed in Ward 2 and received a total of 1,192 votes while there were 17 write-in votes opposing him.

LaBlanc wins clerk's office, Reeves loses seat

Westland voters opted to return three incumbent city council members to new terms last week while also choosing one new face to join them.

Only 12 percent of the registered voters in Westland, or 7,249 residents, cast ballots last Tuesday. Nov. 3 is the election.

They chose to return City Council President James Godbout, Councilman Bill Johnson and Councilman Adam Hammans to office for four-year terms and elected challenger Peter Herzberg to a two-year council seat.

Incumbent Dewey Reeves was the fifth-place finisher, just behind Herzberg, with 3,333 votes. Charles Pickering received 2,976 votes, Judy McKinney 2,772 votes and William Campbell 2,339 votes.

The new terms of office will begin Jan. 1, 2016.

Voters overwhelmingly chose former councilman, state legislator and Wayne County Commissioner Richard LeBlanc to replace City Clerk Eileen DeHart Schoof, who announced her retirement earlier this year. LeBlanc received 77.5 percent of all votes cast for the office, defeating challenger Jody Rice-White.

The comedy features Christine Doulette (Novi) as Olivia and Griffin Burke (Northville) as Gabe. The cast is completed by Betty Berryman, Pat McKane, Marian Busa and Rich Pientak, all of Canton Township, and Terry Viviani from Westland. Things My Mother Taught Me is directed by company Founder/Artistic Director, Craig A.
